Group Files Suit Challenging New Cook County Tax

A class action suit challenging the constitutionality of the Cook County vehicle tax for unincorporated areas was filed yesterday in Cook County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed in the name of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA), a homeowners group, and in the names of several individuals.

The suit contends the tax is unconstitutional because, while only residents of unincorporated Cook County have to pay it, the revenue is used throughout the county.

"While the money benefits 5½ million people, it is collected from only 180,000 (those in unincorporated parts of the county)," said Jack Gilligan, a PHIA member involved in the suit. He said the class action suit was filed on behalf of all residents in the unincorporated sections of the county.

IN CONNECTION with the suit, Gilligan said, the PHIA wants the vehicle tax funds already collected to be put in escrow pending the outcome of the legal action.

The legal fight is being financed through donations from several homeowner groups and individuals in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships. Gilligan said more than $2,200 had been collected.

Filing of the suit climaxes a campaign against the tax that began shortly after the tax was approved late last December by the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

One of the groups leading the fight was the Taxpayers Protest Committee of Cook County. That group had been expected to file the suit; however, a last-minute change in plans resulted in the PHIA taking over the suit.

On March 18 the PHIA and TPC co-sponsored a protest rally against the tax at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights. About 1,000 persons from unincorporated areas of county attended.

Those at the rally were asked to sign petitions and to contribute funds to the legal fight.

THE COUNTY'S newly passed taxes on mobile homes and on new car sales were also the targets of protest at the rally.

Gilligan said yesterday that attorneys are still pondering a suit against the mobile home tax. No suit is planned against the tax on new cars sold in the county, he said, because several municipalities have already filed a suit against it.

Also at the rally several state and county office holders and candidates expressed their support for opposition to the tax.

During the meeting at Hersey, TPC Pres. Richard Hechler predicted that similar rallies would be held in other parts of unincorporated Cook County. Gilligan said yesterday that another rally is scheduled for the LaGrange area.

A public meeting will be held at 7:30 tonight at St. Alphonsus Catholic Church on Wheeling Road in Prospect Heights to turn over petitions opposing the taxes to area legislators. Gilligan said yesterday more than 2,000 persons had signed the petitions.

THIS SHOP, WHICH specializes in the sale of handmade items from village residents, will be allowed to continue operation because of action Tuesday by the village board. The shop, on the Busse property north of Landmeier Road has been operating illegally under the terms on a pre-annexation agreement signed in 1970.

Approval To Resume Operation Of Shop

The Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees Tuesday night gave its approval to resume operation of a hobby shop which had been operating illegally for several months.

The board approved an amendment to a preannexation agreement with Wallace Busse, owner of property at 912 Land-meier Rd. The amendment allows a hobby shop on the property to be operated seven days a week until 8 p.m.

Busse's daughter, Sandra, operator of the shop, told the board the shop caters mainly to village residents, who often bring handmade items in to be sold. She said the shop has been open only a few hours a day, four days a week.

The shop had been open intermittently during the last several months, although village officials said they had notified the owners that it was being operated illegally. The Busse property was annexed by the village in June, 1970, with an agreement allowing for operation of a vegetable stand on the premises.

Centex Sales Office Plan Causes Rift

A Centex Corp. request for permission to place a temporary sales office on its property at White Trail Road and Ill. Rte. 53 caused a dispute between village officials Tuesday night.

Building Commissioner Tom Rettenbacher objected to the request after members of the village board indicated they were going to act favorably on the request.

Rettenbacher said the board could not grant approval for the required variance without holding a public hearing on the matter.

"The zoning won't permit the use," he told the board. "It requires a special use variation."

After hearing Rettenbacher's objections the board voted 3-2 to table a motion to approve the variation.

Robert Calkins, Centex real estate manager, said the office, to be located in a trailer, would be in operation for no more than 90 days. Present zoning for the land allows permanent administration offices.

The board Tuesday night approved an amendment to the village's planned unit development ordinance, allowing for development of "Parcel C" of the development north of Biesterfeld Road.

The amendment was required because plans for the development were altered after property owners objected to the original plan. The board had already approved a resolution for the revised plans, which involved a new land-use plan and altered building plans.

In other action, the board approved village payment of $500 for operations of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC).

A Herald Editorial

Vote For Domanico, Sheldon In District 59

Saturday voters in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 will choose two members of the board of education. The Herald urges them to cast their ballots for Albert Domanico of Elk Grove Village and James Sheldon of Des Plaines.

We make these choices out of a belief that Domanico and Sheldon will bring a number of necessary qualities to the board — experience, financial expertise and the willingness to do the work necessary to be effective.

Domanico is no stranger to Dist. 59. Besides serving on the board in 1969 and 1970, he has served on the School Community Council and has been as regular in his attendance at board meetings in the last two years as any elected board member. This attendance record proves, we believe, his enthusiasm and his willingness to be a hard-working board member.

In addition, Domanico is well-informed on the district's problems and has experience and familiarity that will make him an effective board member immediately. Most new board members must take some time to become familiar with a district's inner workings. Domanico will not need that time but will instead be a productive board member from the beginning.

Sheldon, though he lacks Domanico's intimate familiarity with the district, will, we believe, bring a needed talent in financial management to the board. He is a vice president at the First National Bank of Des Plaines and will thus serve as an effective replacement for board Pres. Harold Harvey, who is himself a bank president.

Also, Sheldon has, since he began his campaign, shown his willingness to do the necessary homework to form considered opinions on the issues facing the district. In positions he has taken, particularly on tax anticipation warrants and public labor-management negotiations, he has shown the ability to cut through the smoke-screens of emotional arguments before taking a position.

We cannot endorse Paul Neuhauser for either of the board seats even though he is the incumbent.

We make that decision with some regret. During nearly three years on the board, Neuhauser has done nothing for which we can fault him personally, but at the same time he has not been an independent voice influencing board decisions.

It is nearly impossible to judge the quality of any contributions Neuhauser has made to board decisions in the past because he has generally confined his participation to voting aye or nay, without expressing opinions in discussion. He offers his experience as a reason he should be reelected — however, we do not believe experience is so important it should obscure the need for a board member to be a strong voice on the board.

For all these reasons, we urge

Hospitalize Fire Chief With Poly-Arthritis

Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulet was admitted to Alexian Brothers Medical Center this week, suffering from poly-arthritis.

Hulet was hospitalized Tuesday for the illness, which involves arthritis in a number of joints. The chief had been under treatment for several weeks for the illness, but had not responded to medication, doctors said.

Hulet was expected to remain in the hospital for several days for tests.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The Harrisburg Seven jury found the Rev. Philip Berrigan guilty of smuggling three letters out of the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison, but said it was hopelessly deadlocked on charges that Berrigan and six other antiwar activists conspired against the government.

Sen. George McGovern's campaign directors said their man saved the other Democratic presidential hopefuls from a whipping by Gov. George Wallace. They said the race for the Democratic presidential nomination is now between McGovern and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, despite Wallace's second place finish in the Wisconsin primary.

The body of flamboyant Harlem congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., 63, remained at the Miami hospital where he died Tuesday while two of the women in his life tried to agree on funeral arrangements.

Sen. John Tunney tagged two high-ranking White House aides as pivotal witnesses in the Senate Judiciary Committee's ITT investigation and its bearing on Atty. Gen.-nominee Richard Kleindienst.

A flash fire swept through a small nursing home turned boarding house in Rosecrans, Wis., killing nine elderly residents.

The World

An Indonesian airlines pilot shot and killed a hijacker who forced him to land at Jogjakarta and threatened to blow up the plane unless his ransom demands were met.

The State

Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott has asked three county courts to impose $155,000 in fines against 13 retailers who allegedly failed to pay state cigarette taxes.

The Chicago Housing Authority has been fined $200 by the Illinois Pollution Control Board for operation of incinerators in Chicago's Bridgeport area.

About 5,500 state employees will be placed under the state's personnel code next month, a move the Illinois State Employees Association has strongly endorsed.

The War

Two Communist jets crossed into South Vietnam for the first known time in the war to buzz government troops battling attacking North Vietnamese in Quang Tri province. Communists also opened a second front with an attack 60 miles north of Saigon. In Paris, a Viet Cong spokesman said North Vietnam's military advance into South Vietnam has proven the failure of the United States' Vietnamization.

Families Buy Less Expensive Meat

by LEA TONKIN
Variety, the spice of life, is entering the picture for many traditionally meat-and-potatoes families in the Northwest suburbs. That's the indication of shoppers polled this week by Herald reporters. This may not put variety meats such as liver and heart on the best-seller list. But consumers, caught between Phase II wage controls and unstabilized food prices, are looking toward less expensive meat cuts or substitutes.

MRS. CAROL HELLER of Elk Grove Village, said, "The last time I shopped I bought much less beef and pork. Instead I bought salmon, chicken, and frozen fish." She's using more hamburger meals during the week. Mrs. Heller doesn't believe meat packers are benefiting from the high price of meat, but thinks the grocery stores account for part of the increase.

"I've been buying a lot of chicken, ground chuck and lamb," said Mrs. David Crowe of Mount Prospect. She works on a food budget and although her family prefers beef roast, she seldom buys it.

Dorothy Schaefer of Prospect Heights said she is buying more chicken now than in the past, to make up for the high cost of beef. "But we're primarily beef eaters, and that's why we started buying a whole steer," she said.

Mrs. Thomas Noll of Prospect Heights said she expects meat prices to drop. Her family saves money on meat by purchasing a side of beef every four months.

Mrs. Kathleen Robinson of Palatine uses eggs frequently in her cooking, noting that this helps to cut down food costs. She shops at local chain stores according to the "special" offered, but often buys meat at a local butcher shop. She said she does not buy fresh produce when prices are high. Although frozen prepared foods may cost more, she believes they offer the most convenient serving portions.

WHAT'S THE OUTLOOK among area retailers for the cost of meat? Axel Brix, head of the meat department and co-owner of an IGA store in Elk Grove Village, said he has no idea when meat prices will drop significantly. "When my costs go down, we'll lower our prices to stay competitive," he said. "It all has to do with supply and demand."

No automatic, across-the-board decline in meat and food prices is foreseen by a spokesman for the Jewel Food Stores. However there is a price decline in effect since February for meat prices, the spokesman said.

National Food Stores, with over 200 in the Chicago area, announced rollbacks in meat prices last Saturday. The price declines were posted for 36 cuts of meat, ranging from 10 to 30 cents off the previous prices.

The manager of a National Food Store in Palatine noted shoppers are "very enthusiastic" about the price slashes in meat costs.

Bill Jonas, store manager at the Dominicks Finer Foods, 223 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine said he anticipates lower meat prices in the near future if wholesale costs decline. His store is experiencing an increased trade in lower priced cuts of meat. Shoppers have registered complaints about the rising costs of meat and food prices ever since Phase II went into effect, he said. Jonas added the recent controversy over meat costs has not increased this activity.

RETAILERS CAN only drop their meat prices when suppliers cut prices according to Henry Rogan, co-owner of the Elm Super Foods in Arlington Heights. Shoppers at his store have not made specific complaints on food price hikes he said, just remarks about the high cost of living. He said the store draws most of its clientele from persons interested in personalized service. Price-shopping customers who are buying the "specials" of the week don't account for a large part of his sales.

An A&P spokesman said last week the food store chain will follow the trend in meat prices. If wholesale prices fall, the chains will be able to reduce their meat prices, the spokesman indicated. He said he did not believe the "jawboning session" called last week by Treasury Secretary John B. Connally had anything to do with expected price declines for meat.

Patrick Gorman, international secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters & Butchers Workmen of North America, said he puts "no faith in Connally's expectation that meat prices will be going down or that the administration's stabilization program will work. If something isn't done quickly, there'll be a depression," he said.

"We have nothing to do with meat prices, but of course we feel they should go down," he continued. "The Nixon Administration is saying high wages are responsible for increasing prices. That's the silliest statement ever made because we are working under a contract signed 2½ years ago." Meat prices have been jacked up by the administration's policies and the Vietnam war, Gorman said.

Seat On Board 'Next Natural Step': Mrs. Czajkowski

by STEVE NOVICK

ARLENE CZAJKOWSKI

Mrs. Arlene Czajkowski, active in Dist. 54 school activities for more than a decade, said she is seeking a seat on the board of education as the "next natural step" of her involvement.

Involved in PTA activity since 1965 and a regular board of education meeting attendee, Mrs. Czajkowski is currently a lay member of the board's legislative committee.

As a school board member Mrs. Czajkowski would have two immediate areas of concern: eliminating the middle session of the current three session kindergarten in favor of two longer periods, and broadening the junior high school's elective curriculum.

"The middle session is neither fish nor fowl," she said. There's been a drop in kindergarten enrollments, she added, which makes two 2½ hour sessions more feasible. The extra time can make the session more valuable, said Mrs. Czajkowski.

"I don't like the choice (of electives) available at the junior high school level," she added.

French, art, band, chorus or music are the limit of classes from which students may choose, said Mrs. Czajkowski, adding Spanish should be available too, noting there are teachers in the district now who could teach the language.

This is the last of a three-part series of six interviews of School Board of Education candidates in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54. Voters will go to the polls Saturday to elect two board members to three-year posts. The Herald will announce endorsement of two candidates for the board seats Friday.

"Spanish, as a choice besides French, might be more appropriate," because of the number of Spanish speaking people and the language's relevance to youngsters interested in social work, she added.

Sociology and anthropology also would be appropriate electives because "these kids are going to have to live in a different world than their parents," she said.

In a broad sense Mrs. Czajkowski praised the school district, pointing specifically to reading and math programs in the primary grades.

Another area for criticism, however, was reading labs where she said, "more can be done to motivate children." Mrs. Czajkowski sat in with students using the district's "sophisticated" reading lab equipment, during an effort to improve her own reading skills.

Favoring a 12-month school year, she said it would cut down on students having to get back into the routine of learning after long breaks. Financially, she said, Dist. 54 schools would have to provide buses during summer months and air conditioning that would cost a great deal in the beginning.

She feels the district has kept up with the demands for new school buildings and expressed her pleasure with the decision to build two story schools, something she endorsed 10 years ago.

Mrs. Czajkowski said the school district now receives more money in state aid than is collected locally in real estate taxes, a revenue source being challenged in the state supreme court for the unfair advantage some districts have over others in providing equalized education.

"Probably, we would suffer if the taxes were declared unconstitutional," said Mrs. Czajkowski. "Statewide it might be best for all children. From an educational point of view I'd have to be for it."

She opposes busing for integration, and said, "If you tell people their children are to be bused to Damen and Madison, people would get very upset."

Unit districts, providing one administration for kindergarten through high school grades, might be all right if High School District 211 were split along the boundary lines of elementary Districts 54 and 15. The two elementary districts feed the current high schools in Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

She is against parochialism because, "the schools are there for everyone to use. If you choose not to, it's a privilege and you should pay for it."

Teacher-board relationships are good as a whole, said Mrs. Czajkowski, observing "a lot of teachers remain" with the district.

She doesn't think teachers here are too unionized, and expressed pleasure that initial contract proposals from the school board and teachers have been published this year.

"People deserve to know what was originally asked for so the public can see the give and take," she added.

Mrs. Czajkowski also said teacher's strikes might be all right for educational reasons. "Salaries here are quite good. I don't think they'd strike for salaries," she said, adding, "Class size might be legitimate (as a strike reason). It would be for the betterment of their (the students') education."

Merit pay for teachers would be more trouble than it's worth because principals have different standards for judging teachers, she said.

Merit pay would undermine current efforts at team teaching, she added, explaining team members wouldn't share ideas because they'd fear not receiving credit for their thoughts when merit increments are given.

Tenure for teachers is covered by a law that says you "can't drop dead beats at the end of an educational system," according to Mrs. Czajkowski.

Report cards currently "leave a little to be desired," she said. The situation is clearing through the IGE (individually guided education) program, where there is better record keeping. Parents are being better informed on what their child is doing in relation to his grade level.

On student discipline, she said, there should be no striking of children, although some might deserve it. "It's hard to distinguish where it's justified," she said.

Suspensions should be used as a last resort for the disruptive child, she added, although she feels suspensions are meaningless unless there's an impact with the parents.

Mrs. Czajkowski lives with her husband, Myron and their five children at 727 Crest Ave. in unincorporated Schaumburg. She is a 1952 graduate of Rosary College.

James Rogers Says Lack Of Bias His Greatest Asset

by NANCY COWGER

As a parent whose children are not yet in school, James Anthony Rogers feels his greatest asset to the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education would be his lack of bias. He is seeking a spot on that board in the April 8 election.

"Any matter that comes up before the board, I can judge solely on merit and effectiveness, without any prior commitments or prejudices," he said. Candidates with previous backgrounds as teachers or Parent-Teacher Association members "may lean toward these groups," he said, adding it is "very important to be able to take an analytical look, with no bias."

While Rogers himself has no children in school, he has talked about Dist. 54 matters with parents who do. He also considers himself knowledgeable in the student role, having completed 90 percent of the requirements for a master's degree.

PARENTS ARE most concerned about a lack of uniformity in grading procedures, and about the school lunch program, said Rogers.

"A lot of parents feel grading is not standardized by class level or by school. Some teachers use checks, some use percentages and some use A-B-C" in indicating grades, he said. "There is a lot of confusion by parents as to how the child's doing," he said. Grading could at least be standardized within the same school, he suggested, and parents could be informed of the system through the Board-O-Gram, a board newsletter.

Rogers also feels the district should publicize achievement levels, not identifying individual students but indicating achievement for grade levels, as compared with other districts in the nation. This, he said, "would give parents a better idea of what's going on."

The school lunch program should be financed completely by the district, said Rogers. As it now operates, it is unfair, since some parents pay for supervision and other parents must supervise children themselves, on a rotating basis. Also, he said, some parents do not supervise properly, noting one lunch group he visited was bedlam.

"I think the school district can afford someone to stay," he said. Administration and janitorial service can be handled with existing staff, he said.

Rogers opposes a non-graded system, favoring instead the competition from a standard system.

"SCHOOL IS THE first exposure to the competitive system they (students) will find in the outside world," he said.

While Rogers feels some of the district's buildings "were not built with economy in mind," and wasted space in such areas as two-story hallways. "Newer buildings are getting better," he said. However, he said he has found some school buildings dirty, and "the house-keeping could be improved somewhat without more expenditures, by making people do a better job."

The relationship between teachers and the board should be one of a "whole team effort," said Rogers. While teachers in general have been underpaid, Rogers said, he deliberately did not learn about Dist. 54 contract provisions because he wanted to remain impartial.

Although teachers "possibly have a right to strike," said Rogers, "I don't like to see a strike, because it's disruptive." By opening contract negotiations to public scrutiny, said Rogers, the board and teachers would eliminate a lot of problems. Initial proposals from each side would be more realistic, he said. There might be times when it was necessary to hold information back, he said. However, he said "any function of the school board should be wide open." While some matters should be kept quiet, the press, PTA and teacher representatives could be permitted to attend meetings, with the understanding they cooperate by not revealing activity, said Rogers.

Any joining of Dist. 54 with a high school district or other elementary districts, either to form a unit district, or for integration, is opposed by Rogers.

"Parents would lose control of a district in a larger geographic area," he said.

ROGERS ADVOCATES the 12-month school year, feeling it would raise student achievement by shortening gaps between sessions, and make better use of facilities. Initial parent reaction would be against the 12-month year, he said, but parents would find their fears unfounded after working under it for a while.

Taxing for schools on a statewide basis to equalize financing would penalize Dist. 54 and benefit districts that now tax at a low level, said Rogers. He would favor such a measure only if it brought all districts up to the Dist. 54 level, and did not lower any to the median level.

Busing for integration would be a mistake, since it would be disruptive, said Rogers.

"Each district should take care of its own children and its own schools," he said.

On curriculum, Rogers would like to add more vocational courses in junior high school for children who have reached their academic peak, along with "after hours" classes in such areas as art and music.

Rogers resides in Schaumburg at 905 Williams Ct., and works as a representative for Union Carbide Corp. His collegiate programs focused on marketing, and while in college he worked on a radio station. He is a Jaycee, and lists his interests as children and civic affairs.

Meyer's 'Independent' Plan Draws Varied Reactions

The disclosure this week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer that he is thinking of running as an independent legislative candidate in November has drawn a variety of reactions from local politicians.

Virginia Macdonald, one of Meyer's conquerors in the primary, (the other was Donald Totten), expressed surprise at the disclosure by a reporter, but recovered well enough to take a back-handed swipe at the idea.

She said Meyer's idea "is just not traditional, but maybe this hasn't been a traditional election."

Mrs. Macdonald stated her belief in the will of the people as expressed in a primary saying, "When one runs on a party ticket you rise or fall with a party ticket... it's traditional to abide by the will of the voters in a primary."

Asked about a possible Totten-Macdonald-Meyer coalition, she said she and Totten are a "united and dedicated" team, and "I am not prepared to say that I would establish any other coalition other than those that have been established at this point."

Totten commented that Meyer "is free to do whatever he wants," and discounted the idea of a coalition in a round-about way.

A coalition, he said, would be difficult "because the Democrats will certainly protect their one seat by using the three vote mechanism. It's an interesting idea but I don't think it's viable."

WHEELING TOWNSHIP Republican committeeman Richard Cowen was emphatic in his distaste for the idea.

Talking about potential support for Meyer in Wheeling township Cowen said,

"He isn't going to get any. The voters selected Macdonald and Totten and that's certainly who the organization will support."

Elk Grove committeeman Carl Hansen said he "wholeheartedly supports the Republican ticket. I don't know why Meyer would do that."

Reactions from the other side of the fence — Meyer's side — show that two of his main primary backers are still uncommitted to another candidate.

Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher, Meyer's campaign manager, said, "It's too early to make any kind of formal statement because I haven't had any feeling other than a suggestion of it by Roland the night of the primary."

He said he is not committed yet to another candidate and said he will sit down with Meyer to discuss a possible candidacy.

He stressed that this wouldn't commit him to Meyer either because "I'm always willing to discuss most anything that has something to do with this region."

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert, who defended Meyer against charges of "double dipping" during the primary said, "I'd be glad to chat with him if he asked me to."

Nab 3 Youths, $400 Worth Of Heroin At Beck Lake

More than $400 worth of heroin has been seized by Mount Prospect Police and Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) officials.

Three youths, two from Des Plaines and one from Niles, were arrested for sale of a controlled drug (heroin) in the seizure, one of the largest ever made locally, according to Sgt. Joseph Bopp of the Mount Prospect Police.

Both John P. Kopec, 19, of Niles, and Alan S. Rudolph, 17, of 9259 N. Hamlin Ave., Des Plaines, were released on bond Tuesday at Niles Court. Their cases were continued to May 2. The third youth, Richard Bos, 16, of 1484 Willow Ave., Des Plaines, will have a hearing in juvenile court April 20.

The arrests occurred about 2 p.m. Friday at Beck Lake near Central Road and the Tri-State Tollway east of Mount Prospect.

POLICE SAID the trio tried to exchange 20 to 30 "dimes" of heroin (a "dime" is a $10 packet) for a guitar in the possession of a MEG officer.

The guitar had allegedly been stolen in February by Bos from a Mount Prospect music store. The guitar was given to an Arlington Heights man, who later called police, by a man named Richard Senior as collateral for a $300 loan.

When the informant learned Senior had been imprisoned in Indiana, he placed a newspaper ad to sell the guitar. A person identifying himself as Bos called the informant and told him the guitar was stolen and belonged to him (Bos).

Police said the caller offered the informant "one pound of good marijuana" for the guitar. The exchange involving the guitar and the heroin was set up during the second of two controlled heroin purchases made by MEG officers from Bos at a Des Plaines gas station in March.

In addition to the drug charges filed against the three, police also charged Bos with the theft of the guitar. According to Mount Prospect police, Senior will be extradited from Indiana and charged with the theft of property known to have been stolen.

Retailers Suffering

Meat Cost Rises And Volume Drops

Cattlemen may be making a good profit this year, but according to a local meat industry consultant, the meat packers and retailers are suffering from the effects of high prices.

As the wholesale price of beef and pork climbed in recent months, retail meat volume has dropped, said C. G. Bowes of Arlington Heights. He has a consulting business for chain store meat operations. "But farmers make their production decisions based on today's market," he said. "This means they may hold back heifers and breed them. If they think they'll get a good price. Then, two years from now, there will be a tremendous supply of beef as the cattle are marketed. Farmers will start to lose money so they'll cut back on their herds, the supply will decline, prices will rise and the whole cycle will start again."

"IT'S A QUESTION of supply and demand," Bowes said. "What are the customers willing to pay?"

Consumers feed the inflationary cycle as they continue to buy high priced cuts of meat. Bowes continued. He noted many consumers mistakenly believe the only good quality cuts of meat are the most expensive ones.

Only a few pounds of a 1,000 pound animal are salable at high prices. Bowes said. The majority of the carcass is sold at one or two cents a pound for waste.

Bowes believes that a seasonal increase in the supply of meat will push prices downward this spring. However another shortage is likely to develop in November or December of this year, he said. Farmers holding back their cattle from the market until the first of 1973 for tax purposes will account for this situation, he predicted.

A spokesman for the Meat Institute said last week that beef and pork prices are starting to decline. However, a shortage of pork could boost pork prices this summer, the spokesman said.

Housewives Seek Support For Boycott On Beef

KEENE, N.H. (UPI) — Housewives annoyed at the high cost of meat drummed up support for a three-week "beef boycott" of area supermarkets.

A group of 60 women carrying signs reading "Don't Buy Beef in April" planned to picket eight major food stores in the Keene area today.

Watchdog committees of housewives, meantime, planned to check supermarkets each week to make sure stores don't compensate by boosting poultry and fish prices. "Beef prices are certainly hurting me," Mrs. Mary McGregory, a mother of two children and organizer of the boycott, said. "We decided to stop talking about it and do something."

"We don't know where the big mark-ups are coming — it's probably not the farmers. But we felt the supermarket was the only place where we could apply the pressure," she said. She said she has received many phone calls from men backing the idea.

"A lot of men already do the shopping, and in any event they of course eventually pay for it," Mrs. McGregory said.

Session Will Teach Bug Identification

Stanley Rachesky, area pesticide specialist for the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, will hold an entomology training session Monday in Arlington Heights.

The program will be held in the farm bureau office meeting room, 201 N. Duntun Ave. at 7:30 p.m. The session will cover insects, identification, mounting and labeling as well as a discussion of insect problems of homeowners.

Now Is Time To Start Lawn Work

by BOB ANDERSEN

Yes Virginia, despite the recent snowflakes and frosty temperatures, spring is here.

Which means, Virginia, it's time to take steps to assure you have a healthy crop of grass to mow this summer.

And, according to four local landscaping professionals, the sooner you get in gear... the better.

"Providing there's no more snow, people can begin raking their lawns of dead material immediately," said Dave Warning, manager of Amling's Flowerland in Rolling Meadows.

The initial raking or "thatching" should be undertaken with a special "multi-purpose thatch" rake or a machine power "thatcher," Warning added. He emphasized though that a power thatcher shouldn't be used on a lawn that was sodded less than three years ago, because the powerful machine will "peel" the grass from the new sod.

The purpose of thatching, he explained, is to "prune the roots of the grass" thus stimulating growth.

He added local homeowners can begin applying fertilizer anytime now. He suggested a proper lawn manicure should include some kind of "crabgrass killer." There is a pre-mixed substance containing fertilizer and a crabgrass control ingredient on the market, he explained.

RESIDENTS WILLING to provide their own elbow grease can regenerate their lawns (if the lawns are about 10,000 sq. ft., the norm here) for as little as $30 or $35. Warning said. A multi-purpose thatching rake can be purchased for $6 and the fertilizer-crabgrass control mixture would cost between $25 and $30, he explained.

Those willing to spend more money, can rent or buy a thatching machine which will eliminate much of the elbow grease. Warning said. Or, if you really have money to spend, you can hire a "professional" to handle the whole project, he added.

Roy Klehm of Charles Klehm and Son Nursery in Arlington Heights said residents can purchase a power thatcher for about $400 or $500. The service can be rented for approximately $5 an hour, he added.

This spring's rebellious weather can be put to good use however. "Right now is a perfect time to seed a lawn," Klehm said.

For those preparing their first lawn, Klehm said it is preferable to "frost seed" a new sodded yard. The process of freezing, he explained, creates a "honey-comb" effect on the new lawn. Once the grass seed is sowed, he continued, the process of thawing draws the seed into the soil and speeds up the maturation cycle.

KLEHM STRESSES the importance of fertilizer both in starting a new lawn and in regenerating the old one. When starting a new lawn, he emphasized the fertilizer should be applied either directly before or after sowing the grass seed. He discourages mixing the fertilizer and grass seed together during the sowing process. The average homeowner won't come up with the proper ratio of grass seed to fertilizer, he explained.

Discounting the cost of placing sod, a new lawn can be prepared for about $75 which is the cost of lawn seed, fertilizer and a seed spreader, Klehm said.

Dave Warning had a bit of advice for prospective gardeners. Once the soil is thawed, he said, local "green thumbs" should till it immediately and then apply compost, peat moss or manure for fertilizer. "The real earlybirds," he added, "can start putting their onions in now." It is a bit early to plant any other garden items, he added.

Warning emphasized residents planning their first lawn should look for a fertilizer "high in potash or phosphorus acid."

It is important to "aerate" the lawn, said James Stephens of V & G Mower and Bike Sales in Schaumburg, as he emphasized the value of the thatching process in preparing a lawn.

Fertilizing lawns now will help combat weeds, added Klehm. "Fertilizing early will build up a good thick turf and a strong roots system which will combat weeds."

He also has some practical advice. "Never cut more than 33 per cent of the green surface of the grass," he said. Mowing any deeper, he added, "hurts the root structure."

GARY PETTEE of Quality Landscape Nursery in Elk Grove Township said lawn manicurists can purchase a pre-mixed substance which, when spread over a new lawn, will cause grass to appear in "three to five days." Called the "hydro-turf process," the method stimulates grass growth so that one can mow his new lawn within "two weeks," Pettee said.

The normal "germinating" process for conventional grass seed is about 28 days, the pros said. The mixture cited by Pettee consists of water, a grain wood fiber, grass seed and fertilizer.

Whatever the process, the professionals agree the first flush of spring, is the time to get at that yard if you want to relax this summer in a "sea of green."

IT'S MORE THAN just pretty, it's beautiful. Homes like this one in Inverness, with wide expanses of lawn and garden require a lot of work, but the summer's lush foliage more than makes up for the trouble. According to local garden experts, you can have a lawn like this, too, even if it's not quite as large.

'Intrickate,' This Chinese Money

"What coins or paper currency may a traveler take with him on his visit to mainland China?" None, according to R. Pulger-Frame, assistant manager of Deak and Company, Hong Kong financial consultants.

In response to inquiries from Coin World editors regarding the possible relaxation of currency restrictions, Pulger-Frame made it perfectly clear that no money from any other nation may be taken into the Peoples Republic of China, and upon departure, all Chinese currency must be converted back into "payable currency."

While there is no apparent reversal of the ban against taking money out of China, insofar as it applies to Chinese law, there have been some second thoughts on the matter of importing coins and paper currency from that country on the part of our Treasury Department.

Numismatic barriers between the United States and Old China began to crack when, on July 23, 1969, coins and paper money of the Chinese Peoples Republic were allowed importation into this country on a limited basis.

CURRENT COINS of Communist China include one-fen pieces first struck in 1955; aluminum five-fen coins (illustrated above) issued between 1955 and 1963. Some specimens of the five-fen bearing a 1964 date have been reported by Japanese numismatic sources.

The "fen" represents 1/100th of a yuan and at the present rate of exchange, the yuan equals 41 cents U.S., or roughly 0.0205 cents for each 5-fen coin.

Anyone desiring to visit mainland China must first request permission to do so from the China Travel Service (Lixingshe) located at 37 Queen's Road central in Hong Kong. A visa from China is required plus certification of smallpox vaccination within the past three years and a cholera certificate within the past six months.

Prior to entry into the mainland, all American dollars must be converted to cash or travelers' checks in "acceptable" currency.

I RECALL during a trip to China in 1932, the exchange rate fluctuated daily from 3 1/2 to 6 yuan for each American dollar, and if a traveler placed a stack of German marks, British pounds or French francs on the exchange counter alongside a stack of U.S. bills, the attendant would invariably grab the American currency first.

Money merchants were scattered all over every seaport city and any mad dash to exchange American currency for the highest daily rate of exchange offered by one of these establishments usually resulted in the unsuspecting visitor receiving at least 50 per cent in counterfeit Chinese paper money and a goodly portion of counterfeit or altered coins in hard currency.

This type of "extra profit taking" worked equally well for the money merchants exchanging American dollars for Chinese paper money held by visitors leaving China. The offer of a low exchange rate enticed Americans to unload their China dollars for a greater margin in U.S. dollars only to discover their loss in leaving to be larger than they experienced on entering.

Stamp Notes

by Bernadine M. Rechner

The design of the upcoming embossed envelope marking The United States International Transportation Exposition (Transpo 72) has this writer fascinated. Surely it will look better attached to an envelope than does our photographic reproduction which, we hope, is printed right side up! Time will tell — first day ceremonies are slated for May 2 in Washington, D.C.

Transpo 72 was developed by the Department of Transportation and will be held May 27-June 4 at Dulles International Airport, Washington, D.C.

More than one million visitors are anticipated at this first exposition of its type devoted to transportation — rail, land, air and water — and to materials handling.

Exhibitors from many countries will present the most modern transportation equipment available plus glimpses into the future — models of cars that drive themselves on computer-controlled highways, 350 mile per hour trains riding on pillows of air, and ocean liners that skim above water on hydrofoils.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the Transpo 72 envelope should direct their requests to "Transpo 72 Envelope, Postmaster, Washington, D.C.

20013" enclosing 10c per envelope requested.

LOCAL COLLECTORS are invited to meetings of two area stamp clubs.

The Northwest Philatelic Club meets at 7:30 p.m. on the first Tuesday and the third Wednesday of each month at St. Mark's Youth Center, 205 S. Wille, Mount Prospect. The group holds auctions and trading sessions and tries to show slides from the American Philatelic Society each month. Several youngsters are also involved with this group.

The Northwest Suburban Stamp Club meets the second Monday of every month, also at 7:30 p.m., at the Des Plaines Funeral Home, 1717 Rand Rd.

STAMP COLLECTORS can now receive automatically first day cancellations of each new U.S. stamp, affixed to a souvenir page that is suitable for insertion in an album or for framing.

The 8 by 10 1/2 inch page, slightly shorter than a standard typing sheet, is similar to the stamp announcements that appear on post office bulletin boards. It consists of a photograph of the stamp, the stamp itself with first day cancellation, along with philatelic data and other information about the stamp. It will be printed in two colors.

U.S. POSTAGE 8c

FIRST U.S. INTERNATIONAL TRANSPORTATION EXPOSITION

An initial $10 deposit is required with each page costing 50 cents plus the cost of the stamp. Mailings will be made monthly beginning in June but including the souvenir pages of the parks stamps issued up to that date.

The pages are a pilot program of the new Philatelic Automatic Distribution Service and, if popular, may be expanded to other philatelic items.

There will be a guaranteed refund policy on the souvenir pages and the subscription can be cancelled with 30 days notice. The balance in his account will be refunded. Pages will be mailed flat.

Money orders or checks for $10 should be sent to Philatelic Automatic Distribution Service, Philatelic Sales Unit, Washington, D.C. 20036.

During the Depression, Pauline Tabor, daughter of a respected middle-class family, found herself the divorcee mother of two sons she had to support. After attempts to earn money by conventional means, Pauline opened and ran one of the most boisterous and booming bordellos in history. Today, at 66, Pauline has become a legend in her own lifetime and has candidly written memoirs on her career as a madam. 9.95

SURE, KITE FLYING is fun, but it can be dangerous, too. Safety experts warn that kite flying can mean possible injuries to young boys and girls who get carried away with rescuing a kite caught in a tree limb or on a power line.

Go Fly A Kite — Carefully

Kite flying is a great sport for youngsters, but sometimes it can result in tragic consequences if certain safety procedures are not learned and followed. Since telephone and power lines seem to have an almost magnetic attraction for kites, here are some suggestions for your youngsters:

—Fly kites in a level, open space away from power lines, airports, trees and street traffic.

—If the kite should become entangled in power lines, leave it. It is better to lose a kite than to risk your life.

—Kites should be flown only in dry weather. A wet string may conduct electricity down to the flyer.

—Kite strings should not contain any metallic fibers, tinsel or wire. They conduct electricity, and should the kite become entangled in a power line it could result in death or serious injury.

—Kites should not be flown over radio and television airdials.

—Don't fly your kite if the wind is freakish or changeable.

Billy Williams Will Appear At Randhurst Mall

Chicago Cubs outfielder Billy Williams will lead off Randhurst's baseball promotion April 13 - 16. Williams will make a guest appearance at the center from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 13 to meet fans, pose for photographs and sign autographs.

A baseball exhibit of souvenirs and memorabilia collected by Lon Kendrick will be exhibited on the mall during the four-day promotion.

Shoppers can register at all Randhurst stores for youth scholarships to two baseball camps. Two grand prizes of one-week scholarships to the Mickey Owen Baseball school in Miller, Mo. will be awarded with runner-up prizes of three scholarships to the Glenn Beckert Baseball Camp in Palatine and two box seat tickets to a Chicago Cub game.

A new commuter bus service has been initiated by United Motor Coach from Jefferson Park to Randhurst. Eight round trips daily run from the CTA terminal with passenger pickups at the corners. The bus route runs northwest on Milwaukee Ave. to Northwest Hwy., continues to Potter Road, then north to Dempster, west to Northwest Hwy. again, then on Route 83 north to Randhurst. A fare of 35 to 50-cents is charged.

TWO ART SHOWS will be exhibited at Randhurst. From Saturday, April 15 through Tuesday, April 18, the Mount Prospect Park District will sponsor its annual show in Wieboldt Court. Over 150 paintings and art objects will be included. On Monday, April 17 through Saturday, April 22, Lincoln School will exhibit over 200 student paintings with instructors and several young artists serving as hosts each evening.

The "Good Guys" from Dodge will be invading Randhurst on Wednesday, April 26 for a four day Trailblazer Fair complete with scenic travel pylons and a cavalcade of 15 Dodge campers, motor homes and station wagons.

Highlighting Dodge's Trailblazer Fair will be the presentation of 32 $10 Randhurst Gift Certificates good at any of the shopping center's stores.

There may never be a better time to start or add to your Towle service. One-third (1/3) off on 3-piece place settings—teaspoon, knife and fork.

A Spring Bonus

For The Small Saver

This spring, saving a little bit of money can save you as much as $300.

Your new savings deposits at Palatine Savings & Loan will enable you to purchase exclusive Howard Miller clocks at savings up to 45% off the listed retail price. Your net prices range from $12.50 to $398.

The deposit requirement for this unusual offer is only $50 for wall and desk clocks, both traditional and modern, and only $500 for stately grandfather clocks.

And the minute you save money with your purchase, you begin making money with your deposit at rates up to 5% on regular passbook accounts, up to 6% on savings certificates—higher maximum rates on these accounts than those offered by commercial banks for accounts with comparable balance requirements.

Schizophrenia: Tough To Identify

(This is a weekly column presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited, 135-bed psychiatric hospital, known for its programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

"The best way I know to start a fight among psychiatrists is to define schizophrenia," said a leading psychiatrist in the study of this illness, "even though it is probably the most common major psychiatric illness in this country."

According to Dr. Loren Mosher, chief for the Studies of Schizophrenia for the National Institute of Mental Health, schizophrenia does not have certain recognizable characteristics.

"IT IS GENERALLY thought to include a difficulty with interpersonal relationships," he said. "A disorder of thinking is also prevalent. Schizophrenics very often don't make sense in carrying on a conversation. They may shift from topic to topic without giving you the kind of cues you're used to getting when conversational subjects are changed."

"Another characteristic of schizophrenics that is generally agreed upon as common is that schizophrenics have some difficulty with the feeling state."

Mosher said: "In general the person doesn't have a lot of feeling, for instance in his voice — he won't have a lot of ups and downs in level. He may often also express himself in odd ways like laughing when he describes the death of a loved one. This split between feeling state and content has often been misconstrued and called split personality."

He added that another common symptom of schizophrenia is the hearing of a voice which has no objective reality.

"Although we have found a number of common characteristics of the illness, looking for the causes of schizophrenia is like looking for a needle in a field of haystacks," he said.

He feels that the reason that schizophrenia's causes are so hard to find is that there are probably a variety of causes.

"It is a complex interaction between genetics, constitution and environment. There is no readily identifiable lesion or pathology like there is in a physical illness.

"THERE IS THOUGH, a pre-disposition to the illness," he said. "If a parent was diagnosed as schizophrenic or if a person is born into a poverty situation there is a better chance he will be prone to the illness."

According to Mosher there are about two million Americans who have had to have been diagnosed as schizophrenics. It is a fairly common condition but in spite of this popular problem the cures are not easily found.

"Treatment usually starts with psychopharmacological drugs. Despite our relieve acute symptoms like anxiety but there's a lot left over after the drugs done their job

HOW THE RICH GET RICHER

It's really very simple. The Rich get richer by letting their money make more money. You can do the same.

You've heard a lot about the successes of the Rich in the stock and real estate markets. Here you can both gain — or lose — a lot of money. If you might need your money in a hurry, you risk having to sell your investments for a lot less than you paid for them. These are good investments for those who can afford to take risks or those who have a substantial base of savings behind them.

But very few of us are rich, or even on the road to being rich. Very likely you are most concerned with keeping the money you've already got and seeing it grow enough to prepare you for retirement or to provide you with extra income.

For people like yourself the best way to put your money to work may be 6% Certificates of Deposit from Palatine Savings and Loan. These certificates combine a high yield with the safety and convenience of a savings account.

Risk? None! Your certificate is insured just like a savings account. And the interest rate is guaranteed for two years or more. Return? 6% per annum compounded daily to yield a high 6.18% yearly — and without costly brokerage charges. That's earnings of $309.15 per year on a $5,000 investment or $1,236.60 on a $20,000 investment, if left in for a full year. Availability? With a 6% certificate you agree to keep a minimum of $5,000 with us for two years. But if you really need it, you can have your money on demand with the loss of only 90 days interest.

Some financial institutions are lowering their certificate rates. We are not. If you have $5,000 or more of hard earned money that you want to put to work, complete the coupon below.

Come get a little richer at Palatine Savings and Loan.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have had seizures since I was 11 or 12 years old, and I am now 32 and have them occasionally, but only at night after a nervous, exhausting day. My parents call them fainting spells and will not discuss this problem. My question is my husband feels I should tell our 15-year-old daughter that her children will probably have epilepsy. Can the type of seizure I have be inherited?

Dear Reader — There is no yes or no answer to your question. Unless your husband also has epilepsy, however, there isn't a real high probability that either your daughter or her children will have the problem. Actually only three to five per cent of the relatives of individuals with epilepsy also have the same problem. I am more concerned about your parents' attitude toward the problem and what it may have done to you.

Epilepsy is just another illness and a fairly frequent one at that. You certainly should be under medical supervision if you are not and a person with as infrequent episodes as your letter indicates is usually easily controlled with medicine.

It is always disconcerting to see someone attach a stigma to a medical illness. Some of the most important figures in world history have also had epilepsy, which was why Julius Caesar had the "falling sickness," and Alexander the Great is also reported by some authorities to have been an epileptic. The world would have been quite a different place without either of them.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 77 and have high blood pressure with poor circulation. I am taking medicine from the doctor plus fluid pills for swelling in my legs and I can't sleep at night. A friend of mine told me wine was good for the circulation. Would you advise this?

Dear Reader — Unless you have liver damage, stomach ulcers, or other medical problems that cause you difficulties, there is no reason that you couldn't take a little bit of wine at night. Some people find this very useful in helping them sleep.

To the extent that the alcohol in the wine acts as a sedative and relaxes a person's nerves and helps them sleep it is probably beneficial. It doesn't, unfortunately, do anything else that is particularly good for the circulation. In truth the person who uses too much alcohol in any form can even damage the heart muscle, but this occurs only in individuals who take considerably more than a glass of wine with their meals or at bedtime. You could use any of the wines that you find in your local supermarkets or liquor stores. Most of the table wines and the dessert wines are approximately 10 per cent alcohol by volume.

State Tax Questions Answered

Q—I BOUGHT 50 shares of stock in 1968 for $8,000 and sold them in 1971 for $16,000. My gain for federal tax was 50 per cent of $8,000 — $4,000. As of 8/1/69 the stocks were valued $15,000. For state purposes what would be my gain on this transaction?

A—Your gain of $8,000 would be taxable at 100 per cent. However, in view of the valuations limitations of 8/1/69 you will be entitled to subtract $7,000 of this gain, and thus have a net gain of $1,000 subject to Illinois tax.

Q—WHAT IS the estimated tax filing requirements for farmers for 1972 Illinois income tax?

A—If a farmer has gross income from farming and it is at least 2/3 of his total estimated gross income he may file his declaration and pay his estimated tax any time on or before Jan. 15, 1973.

Q—IS THERE a penalty for late filing?

A—Yes, there is. If you fail to file your 1971 IL-1040 return on April 17, 1972, there shall be added 5 per cent penalty to the amount of the tax. For each month or a fraction thereof an additional 5 per cent is added, not to exceed 25 per cent.

Q—IN CHECKING my retained copy of the state income tax I discovered that I filed my original return without any W-2's. What do I do now, send them in and a letter explaining my oversight?

A—Your return is incomplete and not acceptable for processing. The Income Tax Processing Center in Springfield will return the incomplete return to you so that you may attach the missing W-2's.

Be a Cub Scout Volunteer.

Here's how you can go from rags to riches in three easy steps. All you need to start off with is a little cash. Put it in our Regular Savings Plan, rake in 4½% interest, and before you know it you'll be on your way to becoming somebody.

Then when you feel you can part with $200 or more for at least 90 days, run down to the bank and stash it in our Golden Harvest Savings Plan. You'll haul down 5% interest compounded continuously and people will start calling you Sir.

Finally, when you can spare at least $200 for 2 years or more, open a Premium Golden Account. You'll reap 5¼% interest compounded continuously (equal to 5.92% a year) and you'll start getting stopped on the street for spare change. But that's life.

SOME 12,000 Scouts will again come to the Arlington Park Exposition Hall for the annual Scout-o-Rama show this weekend. Scouts from all Northwest suburban areas are expected to take part in the event.

12,000 Scouts At Scout-O-Rama

Some 12,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers will convene at the Arlington Park Race Track Exposition Hall in Arlington Heights for their annual get-together, the Scout-o-Rama.

Scouts from the entire Northwest suburban region, representing seven Scouting Districts and the entire Northwest Suburban Council will erect displays and booths about Scouting activities.

Theme of this year's Scout-o-Rama is "A Promise to Keep," reflective of Scouting's concern with the development of young men and Scouting's activities in fields such as conservation, fitness, sports, and civic affairs.

Among this year's special events will be a Cub Scout Little Theater which will offer the young Scouts the opportunity to get on stage before an audience.

Opening festivities for Scout-o-Rama are scheduled to begin about 12:30 p.m.

Saturday The display will close on Sunday, April 9 at 5 p.m.

Village, Developer Clear Up Problem

A disagreement over donation of land for highway right-of-way between a local developer and Elk Grove Village officials has been cleared up.

The village board of trustees Tuesday night agreed to not require developer Earl McLennan to provide the right-of-way, which Village Mgr. Charles Willis had requested be included in a pre-annexation agreement with McLennan.

The board approved a revised pre-annexation agreement which deleted a provision requiring McLennan to provide land for any highway right-of-way which might be needed.

McLennan had objected to the provision, noting that it would amount to giving a "carte-blanc check" to the highway department for future use of the property. He said he would rather have developed the land in the county rather than agree to the stipulation.

The approved agreement is for a 13.2-acre tract located between Touhy Avenue and Old Higgins Road east of Elmhurst Road.

Football Registration For George Halas

Boys 8 to 15 years old will be able to register Saturday for the George Halas League football teams sponsored by the Elk Grove Village Athletic Association.

Registrations will be accepted between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. at Elk Grove Bowl in the Park 'n' Shop shopping center. Teams will be formed for all weights and age groups and all teams will travel in league play next fall.

In addition, the monthly membership meeting of the association will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Elk Grove Village Public Library.

The Volunteer Bureau

Got Some Spare Time? Telephone The Bureau

THE VOLUNTEER BUREAU'S SYMBOL

by ESTHER RABCHUK

The Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County in the 3½ years of existence has been nurtured by a resource within the community which is referred to as the "power of the individual who cares" — the citizen who has an impulse to help his fellow man and his community.

For that individual, voluntary service is a public spirited act arising out of a highly personal instinct which may match or far exceed his drive for recognition, profit or personal comfort.

Individuals who want questions answered concerning where volunteers are working and what they are doing come to the bureau for consultations.

The chain of events leading to a volunteer project is often started by a consultation, but leading far afield and touching many others along the way.

The Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights has experienced a chain of events beginning with the placing of a single volunteer, Marlene Wilton.

MRS. WILTON, an Arlington Heights resident, came to the bureau looking for an assignment which would fit with her background and training as a speech therapist, and which would fit with the time she had available at this stage of her family responsibilities.

She was placed with the Lutheran Home to assist one resident who had been traveling to the Bensenville Home for a class in lip reading and who needed some tutoring between class sessions. Through her experience with the resident, Helea Schultz, Mrs. Wilton surmised that a class in lip reading would be of benefit to other residents of the home. With the aid of Winifred Stewart, director of the volunteers at the Lutheran Home, two more volunteers were recruited.

These volunteers are Joan Engel, Morton Grove, and Ettie Lovette, Arlington Heights, both of whom are former school teachers.

Mrs. Engel and Mrs. Lovette enrolled in training classes for teaching lip reading at the Chicago Hearing Society and today are conducting classes in the Lutheran Home for the residents. At advanced ages hearing aids are of some or no value, and the ability to read lips has considerably brightened up the days of those residents burdened with the loss of their hearing.

Mrs. Schultz, who was the original recipient of lip reading classes, was taken to those classes by a volunteer driver.

If you have a skill which you would like to share and do not know quite how it can be utilized, make an appointment with any of the branch offices or the central office and see if the bureau can help you in your search.

The Elk Grove Village branch is continuing to seek teacher aides in the kindergarten classes. If you have several hours a week which you would like to give, maybe this is the area where you would like to volunteer.

ENRICHMENT PROGRAMS are in progress in most of the elementary schools as the spring session begins. Drama, music, craft, cooking, foreign languages — an hour a week is the usual commitment and the regular classroom teacher is in charge of the discipline of the class.

The volunteer working in the classrooms is a member of a team consisting of the professional, the volunteer, and the supportive staff. The professional maintains his ultimate responsibility for the class and the students. The volunteer does not replace paid staff.

Any of the branch offices can assist you in finding a volunteer assignment in the schools, either as an aide or in the enrichment programs. Volunteering can be stimulating and fun as the evidence of second-and-third-time-around-volunteering tells the story.

As the weather becomes more pleasant the Arlington Heights Historical Society Museum will be the place to visit for adults and children in the area.

The Historical Society recruits and trains volunteers to conduct tours through the museum, 500 N. Vail.

The museum is open Wednesdays from 2 to 4 p.m., Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m. and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m. Contact either the museum or the Arlington Heights branch office of the Volunteer Bureau if you are interested in performing this friendly task. Open to teens, middle aged, elderly, men and women.

Plan To Alter School Year Delayed

High School Dist. 214 has decided to wait at least one more year before developing any plans to change the present semester system.

The district curriculum council has been studying the feasibility of a year round school divided into 12-week quarters since last summer, but recently voted to postpone further study. The delay is due primarily to the lack of enthusiasm among the school staffs and the need to further study the present curriculum, according to district officials.

After reviewing a preliminary report issued by the committee, the Rolling Meadows High School staff was generally in favor of further study and the Prospect High School staff was generally against it. Reaction in the remaining schools was mixed, but most of the teachers did not favor any immediate change.

In addition to the present curriculum, the committee will study issues related to school scheduling such as early graduation, the expanded school day and the expanded summer school. Other priority study items include grading and graduation requirements.

Assistant Supt. Roderick McLennan said further study of the present curriculum would be made, regardless of the status of the 12-month school year study. As for the 12-month school year, he said "There is interest in it, but it deserves further consideration and we may move in this direction in the future."

'Choose Catholic Schools' Campaign

The Archdiocese of Chicago has launched a campaign called "Choose Catholic Schools," to focus on the individual strengths and programs of each elementary school as well as on the corporate archdiocesan design, according to an Archdiocesan official.

Geared to increase registration, re-awaken interest in parochial education, and encourage both personal and financial support of the schools, the CHOOSE program looks to the '70s as a period of high-quality education in all archdiocesan schools. Schools throughout the archdiocese will be undertaking a wide variety of special programs throughout April.

According to Chicago's superintendent of Catholic schools, the Rev. Robert Clark, "Chicago's Catholic schools have moved from the grey twilight of the '60s into the brightening morning of the new day, the '70s."

"It's a brand new day for Catholic education," Father Clark insists, "looking to differentiated staffing, year-round schools, multi-age groupings, plant consolidation. Today we are stressing personalized learning, interdisciplinary education, shared decision-making, media resource development and a host of other in-depth quality programs."

The CHOOSE campaign is geared to touch all parishioners — pre-schoolers to senior citizens — through open-houses, coffee hours, panels, informal sessions, multi-media presentations, TV, radio and press coverage, mini-school conventions, school contests, and "nostalgia times."

School Group Hits Nixon's Education Plan

Paul B. Salmon, executive secretary, American Association of School Administrators, labelled President Nixon's proposals in connection with busing as inconsistent, regressive and unrealistic.

The proposals are inconsistent, he explained, because, in effect, they equate separate but equal education with equal educational opportunity. Educators committed to the concept of integrated schools know that these are not the same, he said.

He termed the proposals unrealistic in that the funds to be allocated to improve the education of poor children fail to provide desperately needed new money; they represent only a redeployment of present educational funds.

Dr. Salmon said, "The President has let the educators and education down. The hoped-for increases of the federal share to 30 per cent of education costs seem nowhere in sight."

The one note of encouragement Dr. Salmon sees in the proposals is the President's recognition of the need for a "critical mass" of funds "to make a difference" in the education of the disadvantaged.

"Now is the time," declared Dr. Salmon, "for the President to take courageous, immediate and effective action. A massive increase in federal support for schools is the most important answer to equal educational opportunity for the nation's young."

18 Harper College Students Included In 'Who's Who'

Eighteen Harper College students have been included in the 1971-72 "Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges."

Students were chosen on the basis of their academic standing, leadership, co-curricular activities, and community service. A committee of students, faculty and administrators selected the outstanding students from nominations submitted by students and faculty members.

The students include: Delores Powers, Hoffman Estates; Roy Vombrack, Hoffman Estates; Patricia Davidson, Des Plaines; Randall Von Liske, Des Plaines; Debra Hedges, Mount Prospect; Thomas Moore, Mount Prospect; Dianne Myzia, Mount Prospect; and Virginia Senko, Mount Prospect.

The journal also cites: Kevin Barthule, Wheeling; Roger Boike, Palatine; Cary Annen, Arlington Heights; Richard Cook, Arlington Heights; Michael Freeman, Arlington Heights; David Good, Arlington Heights; Rich Hahn, Arlington Heights; and Elizabeth Zilen, Arlington Heights.

ANNEN HAS BEEN senator and is currently president of the student senate. He was president of the Newman Community in 1970-71. Annen has received the student achievement award in 1970-71, student service award and is in "Who's Who Among American Student Leaders." His activities include membership on the student advisory committee to the Illinois Higher Board of Education and the Harper long-range planning committee.

Cook is student provost at Harper and winner of the 1971-72 student achievement award. He has been vice president of Harper's Newman Community and a student senator. Originator of Harper Veterans Club, Cook is activity counselor for a Luther League. He also helped develop the ecology task force.

Freeman holds several positions at Harper College Radio Station WHCR. He works in the capacities of business manager, engineer, newsman, announcer and spots reporter. Freeman has held several offices as student senator and has been a Newman Club member. He is now a member of students committed to racial justice and concerned metropolitan citizens committee.

Good is president of the Harper Studio Players for 1971-72 and was formerly vice president. He received a best director award for 1970-71. Good has been involved in every Harper Players production during the past two years.

HAHN HAS BEEN a student counselor at Harper and a member of the speech team. He received a certificate of merit for extemporaneous speaking and was local area winner of the Von Steuben Society of America award. Also active in music, Hahn played in Rolling Meadows Community Orchestra and a community German band.

MISS ZILEN has performed in Harper Players productions and with Harper's Camera Singers and Choir. She has given two voice recitals, and is a member of the Elk Grove Community Chorus.

Mrs. Powers has presented an original dental health puppet show to preschoolers and grade school children through Harper's dental hygiene community education program. She is a member of the Junior American Dental Hygienists Association and the Red Cross volunteer group.

Vombrack is managing editor of Harper's student newspaper "Harbinger" and a member of the program committee. At radio station WHCR, he has been music director and currently is a disc jockey. Vombrack's involvement in the community has included participating in a committee to determine the future of Hoffman Estates' old village hall.

Miss Davidson is a member of a criminal justice fraternity, Lambda Alpha Epsilon, and is secretary-treasurer of the campus chapter, Pi Theta Epsilon.

As a volunteer worker, Miss Davidson tutored Schaumburg School first graders in a Harper-sponsored program. She was also a volunteer candy striper at a nursing home.

VON LISKI HELD the positions of staff member, news editor and editor-in-chief on the "Harbinger." He was on the budget committee of the student senate, and participates on the speech team.

Miss Hedges has been a reporter for the student newspaper and was coeditor of the student senate newsletter. She helped produce a student senate television news program. Community services include volunteer work at Little City in Palatine and Sunday school teaching.

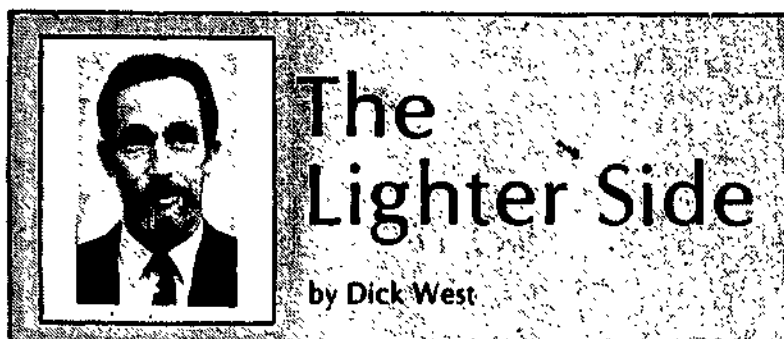

Moore is co-captain of the wrestling squad. He was voted most valuable player of the squad for 1970-71. He also participated in the student group "The Seekers." Miss Myzia won the future secretaries' award in 1971. She is working at an insurance company through the Harper Secretarial Science program. Tour guide and member of the carousel career committee, Miss Myzia also has participated in the choir and madrigal groups.

Miss Senko was 1970-71 vice-president, and is now president of the Bizarre fashion club. She has taken part in student fashion shows at the campus and throughout the community. She has also completed a window display job.

Barthule has been active in sports, as captain of the basketball team for 1971-72, and track team member for the 1971 season. He was named most valuable player at the DuPage Tournament and was a member of an all-tourney team for the Highland Classic Holiday Tournament.

Boike is a student senator and is chairman of the senate program committee.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressmen have in common with inventors the tough job of deciding whether to abandon an impractical plan or whether to keep tinkering with it in hopes of making it work.

In regard to a plan for bolstering the egg market, I believe the Senate gave up too easily.

Basically, the idea was sound. Egg prices having fallen too low for poultrymen to make a profit, and with the slump being blamed on surplus production, somebody hit upon the concept of solving the problem by killing thousands of hens.

The Senate, however, rejected this approach. The senators apparently felt that mass poultrycide would be political suicide. And with good reason.

For that might have created a chicken shortage.

Which is not a salutary thing to have happen in an election year.

A SITUATION like that could cost you the Colonel Sanders vote. Or cause a Pappy Parker backlash.

Even so, there is no need to scuttle the anti-egg project entirely. Let us put it back on the drawing board, rejigger a few angles and coefficients and see what we come up with.

What I come up with is a project that would retain the poultry population at its present level but would discourage hens from laying so many eggs.

Although there are always a few shirkers in every coop, the average hen lays eggs at a one-a-day rate, give or take the Fourth of July and other patriotic occasions.

If something were done to convert them to a semiweekly schedule, the benefits would be the same as dispatching half the flock to that great barnyard in the sky.

I'm not overly knowledgeable about the internal mechanism of hens and thus cannot guarantee that the egg deterrent I have in mind would be reliable.

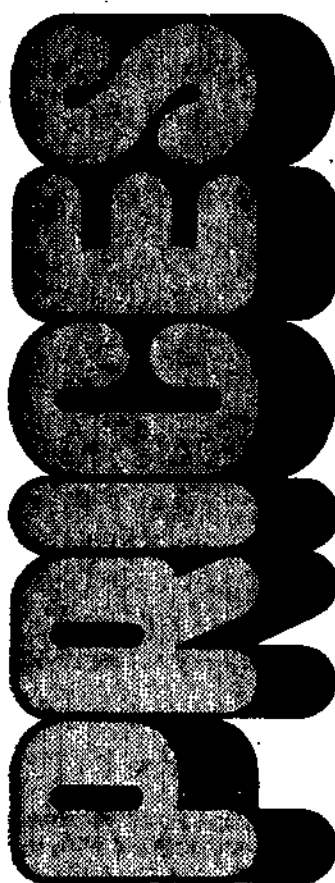

TO A LAYMAN, however, it would appear that the simplest means of reducing production quotas would be some type of cackle control.

It is the nature of hens to cackle after laying eggs. Block that cackle and you have the problem licked. For no self-respecting hen is going to strain herself laying eggs if she can't cackle about it.

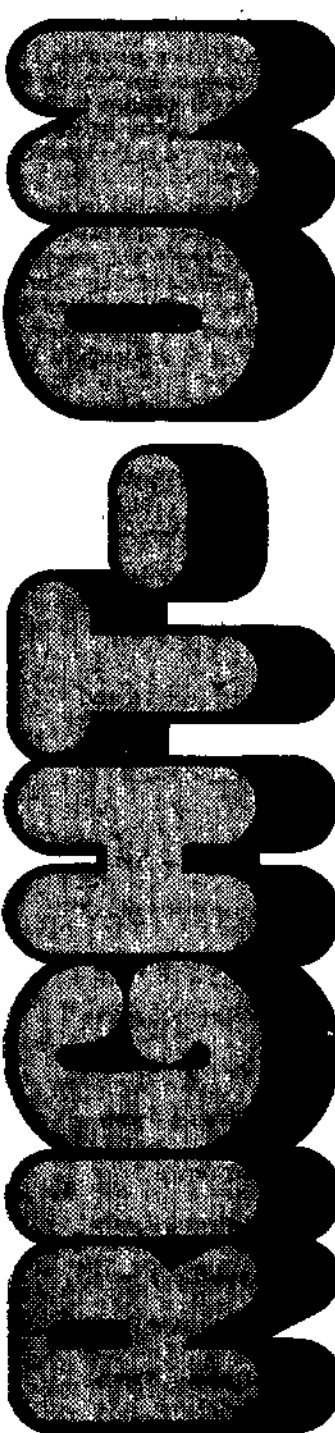

Introduce an anti-cackle ingredient into the chicken feed and overnight the henhouse would be gripped by procrastination.

If Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz can come up with such a product, I am prepared to offer a name for it. I suggest calling it "Layoff." Or maybe "Delay."

And a few weeks later, egg prices will be out of sight.

Road To Reality: Public Schools For Mentally Ill

School Provides Special Attention For Mentally Ill

by BETSY BROOKER

Second in a three-part series

Mental illness has all of the stigmas of locked doors, barred windows and men in white jackets chasing after wild-eyed lunatics.

Visitors at the Dwyer School for children with "emotional disabilities" may expect to see some of this bedlam. But it's not there.

The children are not monsters. They look like any other children. But their behavior is sometimes bizarre — that's why they need special attention. With a ratio of one adult to every two children, they are likely to get it at Dwyer School.

The school, located in Arlington Heights, is part of a network of mental health facilities operated by eight school districts under the Northwest Education Cooperative. The districts (15, 21, 23, 25, 26, 57, 59 and 214) are reimbursed 30 percent by the government for their services.

The program, called the "Center For Child and Family Studies," also includes a high school center at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights and a counseling center at 112 Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights.

Each of the four high school classes, eight elementary school classes and one pre-school class are manned by a special education teacher and a teachers' aide along with an auxiliary staff of psychologists, social workers and learning disabilities therapists. The size of each class is kept at about eight so the teachers can give individual attention to each child.

The children are assigned to a classroom by their age and the nature of their illness.

Some children express their frustrations with aggression. They are always ready for a fight, run instead of walk and like to hear themselves shout. The passive children hold their frustrations inside. They don't talk unless they have to. When the pressure gets too great, they cry. A third group swings between aggression and passivity.

LEAH RAWSON has a class of eight aggressive boys between the ages of six and eight. Her movements look leaden, like a slow motion film, next to the frenzied activity of her charges. One boy plops himself belly down on his desk and starts spinning like a top. Leah doesn't notice. Another races up to her desk waving a model car. She tells him he did a very good job. With barely a backward glance, two conspirators edge out of the door, but Leah's aide has them in tow before they get too far down the hall.

At 10 a.m. it's snack time. The boys race over to the table, jostling against each other as they try to get the "best" seat. One balances precariously on the back of his chair while he gulps down his milk. The boys grab at the cookie boxes, arguing over how many each takes. Leah quietly announces they may have two little cookies or one big one. They seem relieved that's been decided.

Leah pulls out a Dr. Doolittle book and begins reading in an animated voice with the pages turned toward the boys so they can see the pictures. Her reading is punctuated by small blasts as the boys stomp on their emptied milk cartons. She asks them how the characters feel, encouraging them to examine their own emotions. Once they may have hesitated, but now they are eager to talk about it.

Charlene Bopp has 10 boys and girls between the ages of eight and 10. Most of the children are passive, but some have bursts of aggression. Coloring sheets are passed out to the quieter children while four girls engage in an active game of "dolls" in the corner. Resting on her heels, with her elbows leaning on his desk, Charlene talks to a very withdrawn 10 year old. He blushes and looks down at his desk, but gradually she brings him out.

Another boy walks up to the teacher's desk with a morose look on his face and tells the teacher's aide he wants to kill himself. She looks sad and tells him she would be very unhappy if he did. She rests her arm on his shoulders and asks him to tell her why. They talk for about 10 minutes and then he returns to his coloring, death forgotten for the moment.

Gym time arrives and the children group at the door. Giggling in a corner,

Two special schools have opened in Arlington Heights for mentally ill children living in eight Northwest suburban school districts. The children do not simply have an emotional problem. They are seriously ill and require professional care. The schools are unique not only because of their students, but also because they are supported by local funds — both local and federal. In a three-part series, Education Writer Betsy Brooker examines the new mental health program.

two girls cram Barbie dolls under their blouses to smuggle out of the room. As they move toward the door, the aide tells them in crisp tones to put the dolls back — and they do.

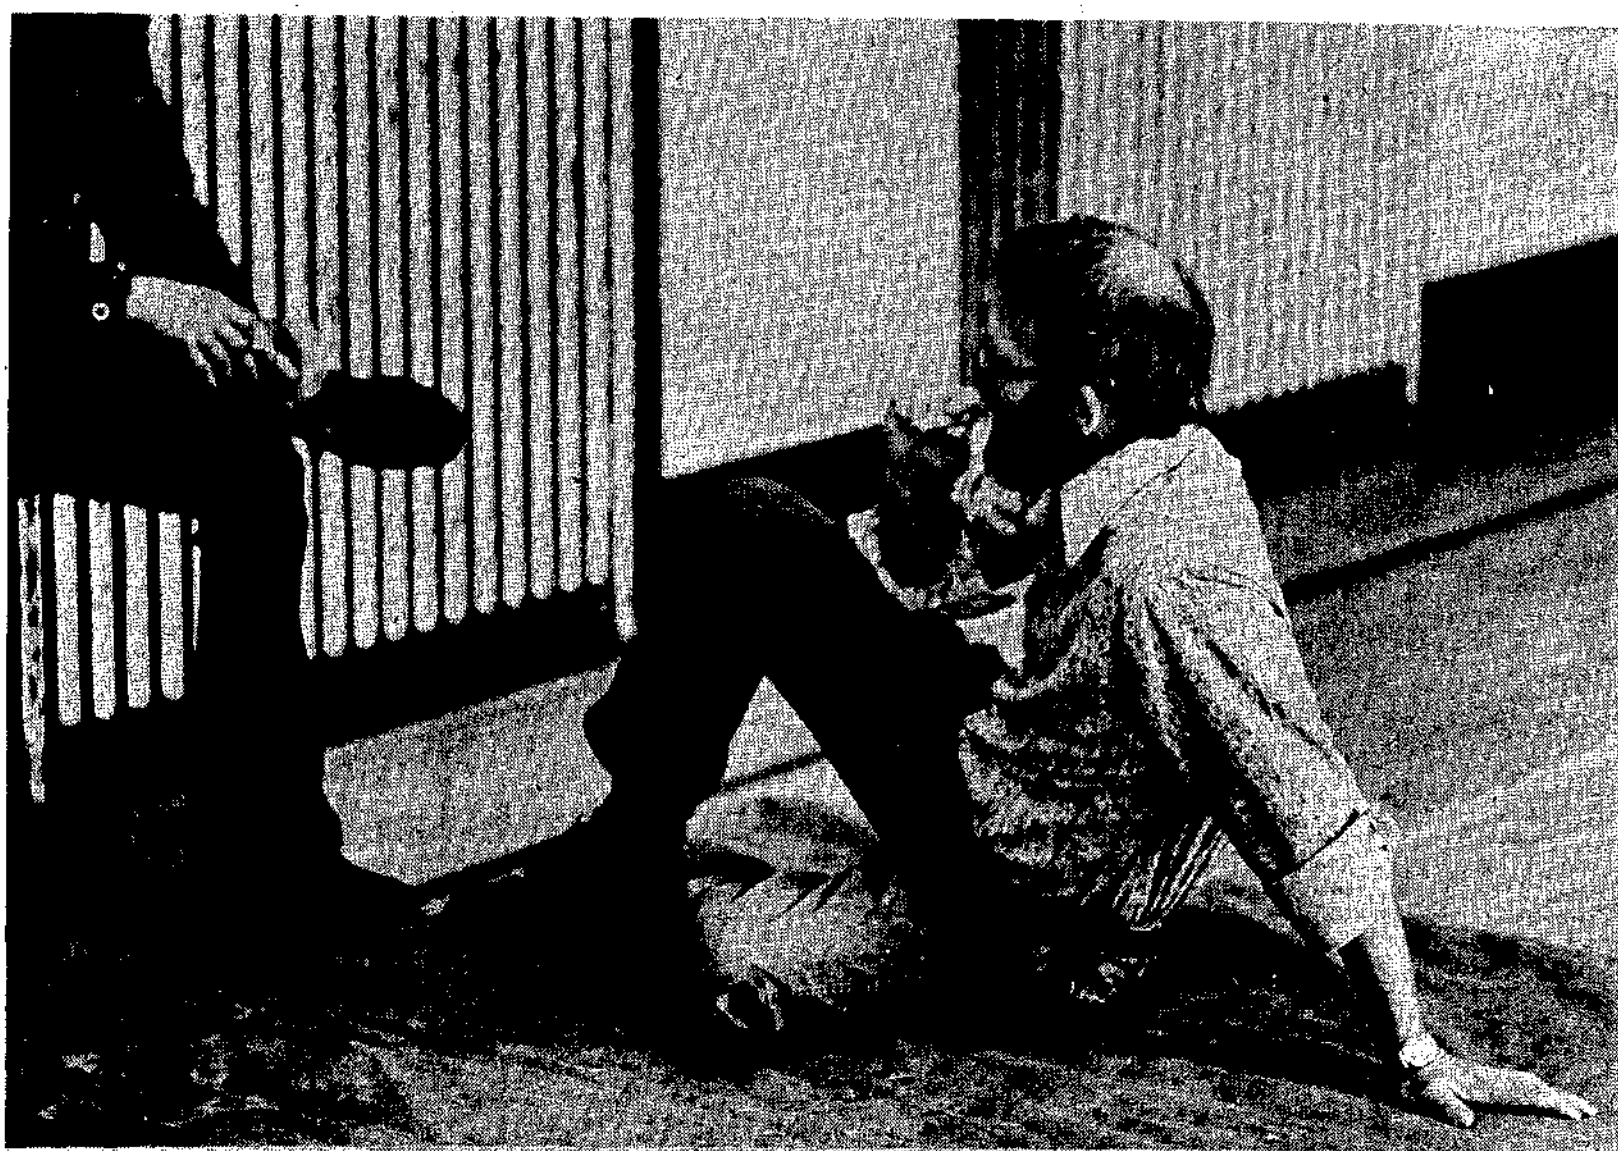

JOHN TREMBLE and his five fellow staffers work with 24 high school students in the top floor of a community building. They have a gym and several classrooms at their disposal, but the TV and radio equipped lounge is the center of activity. Looking as young as their students, the jean-clad teachers sit and "rap" with the teenagers in the cozy comfort of the small room. The room is a haven for the teens. A place free of pressures — a place where they can relax and sometimes talk about their fears and frustrations.

The children's formal academic training is fitted in between the social and therapy activities. About 40 minutes is devoted to group instruction and another hour or so to individual tutoring.

The academic training takes second seat to the other classroom activities because "when a kid has an emotional problem it has to override everything else," said one teacher. The school lessons are kept easy enough so the children will never fail. As their emotional problems decrease, the lessons are increased.

The teachers say their students don't get behind in their school work because it is so "concentrated and so individualized." And hopefully, they say, the children will learn to like it.

Firmness and affection is the formula the young teachers use to reach their students. "You have to let the children know there are rules," they say, "but you also have to let them know you care. They can't give love unless they feel love."

INFORMALITY SETS the scene as John Tremble tries to reach teens who have turned off an "uptight" society.

This warmth sets the tone of the special schools. They have all of the close security of a sorority house. Everyone there belongs. But unlike a sorority house, the schools are not exclusive. The atmosphere in the classroom permeates the teachers' lounge and greets visitors as soon as they walk in.

The teachers' firmness is supposed to balance their affection and so guard against permissiveness. "You have to control the children," said one teacher, "so they can learn to develop their own controls."

IF A CRISIS occurs — a fight or screaming fit — everyone in the class gathers together afterwards and talks about it. The teachers want the children to understand why they lose control.

Emotions are an important part of the school day. The staff shows them too, because they don't want to set an unreachable goal for the children. "If we make mistakes we admit it," said teacher Micki McLane. "We don't try to play God."

"We respect the children as people," added teacher's aide Micki Kania, "not as something less than ourselves. This is the only way they will learn to respect themselves."

The teachers say the hardest part of their day is to "tell a kid who is obnoxious you don't like what he did and then have to reward him the next minute for doing something good."

To carry it off, the staff needs a combination of training and sensitivity. The training, of course is essential, but as Micki Kania pointed out, "it's not enough if you don't like and care about the kids."

The staff has an advantage over their students' parents, because they can usually be more objective in their sensitivity. As one mother put it, "Bob is a handicapped child to the teachers, but to me he is just Bob."

John Whipple, director of the program, selected his staff with care. He says he looked for people who are "young, intelligent and kind of crazy. They believe in what they are doing and put their guts into it. It's not just a job to them."

Almost all of the teachers joined the program after a stint of regular teaching. Some became bored, others said they didn't like the rigidity of the regular school structure.

But at Dwyer "you feel challenged," said Micki McLane. "You feel like you are really doing something."

But while the compensations may be greater, the problems are too.

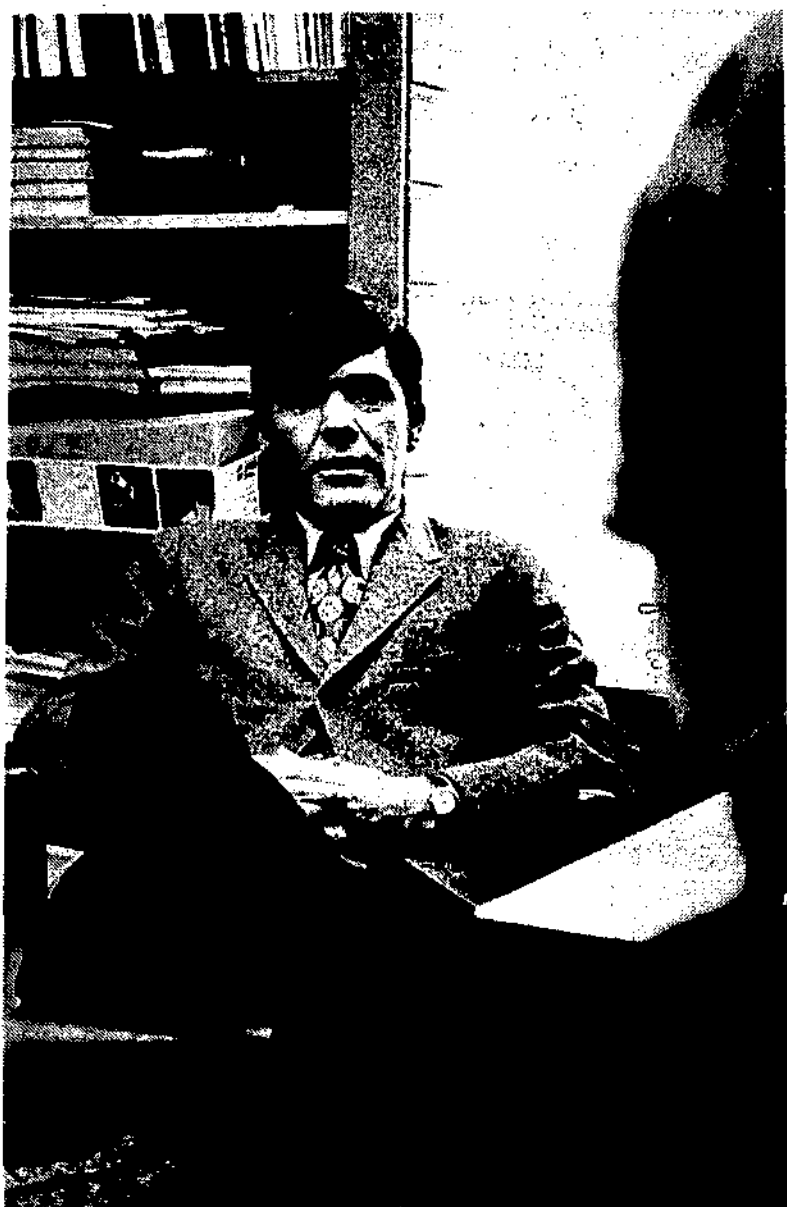

"THE KIDS ARE really good at psyching out a teacher," said Leah. "They pick out your weakness and zero in on it. But you can't let them manipulate you."

Sometimes it's repeated failure that makes a teacher feel depressed. Seeing a child regress after weeks of work is hard to take. The staff talks about it at sessions every week in the teachers' lounge. A good laugh or a team approach to a problem can give a teacher all the boost he needs.

"You can't work with these kids year after year and expect to stay healthy without help," said teacher's aide Virginia Zimmerman.

"The bad days are all worth it though," said Leah. "When a child finally starts caring and showing interest. That's what keeps you going."

"PARENT COUNSELING is half our program": John Whipple

For Three Decades He Was Saturday Review

Cousins Has New Worlds To Conquer

by RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK — Unseen Mr. Hyde-ish demons are shrieking telepathically that the Saturday Review was his, his alone, his and nobody else's, his, his and not theirs.

But Norman Cousins is saying quietly: "It's their magazine and they're legally entitled to do what they want with it." "They" are John J. Veronis and Nicolas H. Charney, who headed a group that bought the Saturday Review last year. What they wanted to do with it bothered Cousins enough that he quit after 31 years as the magazine's editor, gritting his teeth and concluding in his farewell editorial in the Nov. 27, 1971 issue, "I resign without animus or rancor. But I want to leave while my memories are still whole and warm."

He resigned, he said, because he was "in philosophical and professional disagreement" with the new owners, specifically with their plans to expand Saturday Review's activities (by adding a book club, for starters) and change the magazine's format.

But his separation from the magazine was more like a divorce than a resignation.

"I WAS IN LOVE with the Saturday Review," he says now, not seeming to notice the taxi-honking, construction-rumbling noise of mid-town Manhattan that flaps in through an open office window, nearly smothering his soft, calm voice. "I had the finest job in the world and when I realized that I was going to lose the magazine it was as low a point as I've ever known."

Cousins, now 56, had nurtured the Saturday Review, building its circulation to more than 600,000 and molding it into a slick but not shallow weekly that concentrated on the arts, education, science and the environment. Cousins was the Saturday Review, the Saturday Review was Cousins.

When he left the magazine he talked about enjoying an extended vacation, reading, writing, relaxing. But he started getting offers — four college presidencies, a television show, a syndicated newspaper column, books. And people also began urging him to start another magazine.

"I was the last to be convinced it would work," he says, sounding as if he didn't need all that much convincing.

His new magazine — WORLD: A Review of Ideas, Creative Arts and the Human Condition — now has a staff, a growing list of subscribers, a June 16 first issue date and a suite of offices. But mainly it has Cousins.

HE WON'T EXPAND on this description of WORLD that is included in its advertising. "Our hope is to see the world as the astronauts saw it — a beautiful wet blue ball with millions of factors in the delicate combination that makes life possible. Our dominant editorial concern, then, will be the proper care of the human habitat — protecting it against war, world environmental poisoning, overcrowding, or any of the things that indignify and humiliate human beings."

By refusing to be any more specific about the magazine's content despite rather lofty subscription rates ($12 for one year, $25 for three years), Cousins is relying on his own reputation to sell WORLD.

"There are two ways to produce a magazine," he says. "You can get a marketing organization to tell you what people want and then edit to meet their needs. Or you can edit to please yourself, as I do, and hope that enough people share your enthusiasm and concerns to make the magazine a success."

The product of this kind of thinking is not likely to threaten the position of Reader's Digest or TV Guide as the magazine for the millions. But Cousins says, with half a sigh, that he is resigned to not reaching the masses.

"I edit for the people in our society who feel comfortable with ideas and are in a position to help effect change," he says. "There is always a small group that starts ideas and they spread out from there."

All of this hints strongly that Saturday Review is going to have a new competitor but Cousins demurs.

"NO, NO, THAT would be too painful and I'm not up to it," he says, grimacing.

Would Cousins feel any satisfaction to hear that someone had replaced a Saturday Review subscription with one to WORLD?

"That's an unfair question," he says. "I'm human and deep down, I suppose, I have a mean streak like everybody else."

Have there in fact been any letters from people saying they were canceling Saturday Review and subscribing to his new magazine?

"Thousands," he says, giving in and smiling, eyes flashing. "Thousands."

With the demons back again and already shouting the answer, there is no need to ask Cousins how he felt about those letters.

Eye Vehicle Tag Explanation

The role local Township officials are expected to play in the sale and distribution of vehicle tags in unincorporated Cook County is expected to be clarified soon as a result of action taken by the Board of the Town Auditors Association of Cook County.

The board voted unanimously to question the Cook County Board of Commissioners regarding the township's role in the proposed sale of vehicle stickers by the county to motor vehicle owners residing in unincorporated areas.

In another area, the board was told of plans to attract the annual convention of the township officials of Illinois to the area for 1973.

Other meetings in the planning stage are the County Association of Township officials in the fall of 1972, and a meeting with other associations of township auditors from the other Illinois counties. The next regular meeting of the group will be held April 27th in the Proviso Town Hall. A prominent speaker on Township government will be featured.

Do-It-Yourself

Concrete is a little bit like a cake — you can bake it yourself starting from scratch with all the ingredients, you can use a dry mix to which you add liquid, or you can get the stuff all mixed for you although you will have to do the finishing yourself unless you want to hire someone for that, too.

For small jobs your best bet is to get a ready-mix product to which you add the water. There are a variety of these using sand or gravel and cement in the right proportions.

A mix is more expensive than buying ingredients separately, but if you are mixing only a small amount, it will be money-saving in the long run. When you shop for sand and gravel you will find that you can buy it only in large amounts.

This is fine for large jobs, but mixing concrete for a driveway, for example, is not an easy job. What you will probably want is the ready-mix concrete brought right to your home in a cement mixer.

Aside from the labor saved, which is considerable, you will get a mix that has been put together in exactly the right proportions of sand, stones, cement and water.

One thing about ready-to-use concrete that you must remember — you must order exactly what you need. You can't save it for use at another time as you can dry ingredients.

CEMENT CONTRACTORS can help you figure what you will need if you give them the dimensions. Concrete is sold in cubic yards and one way of figuring what you will need is taking the area in square feet and dividing by certain figures for the thickness you want. Divide by 50 for a thickness of 6 in.; 75 for 4 in.; 100 for 3 in.; 150 for 2 in.; 300 for 1 in. The answer is the number of cubic yards needed.

If you are putting in a slab 10 ft. square and 3 in. thick you will need one cubic yard. This formula allows for a little excess in case of error.

There is a great deal of advance work when you use a completely mixed concrete, including placing your order well in advance.

Before that day comes, have your forms in place and tightly made. Line up all the help you will need, plenty of friends and relatives. Concrete dries faster than you think so don't try to handle it alone if the job is at all large.

HAVE PLENTY of tools for everyone. You will need shovels and rakes to spread the cement around. Speed is more important than skill at this point.

You will need a long length of wood, longer than the widest part of the form and absolutely straight. Use this to level the concrete.

It is to your advantage to get the mixer as close to the work as possible. Hauling concrete to the site is a lot of work and you will pay for all the time the driver has to wait around.

If you think the driveway won't take the weight of the mixer, get some 2x12 planks for the mixer to drive on. Use planks if it has to drive over the lawn and don't do this sort of thing at all if the lawn is wet.

Q — I WAS honorably discharged from the Army after serving four years, part of it in Vietnam. Can I get a GI home loan and go to school under the GI Bill at the same time?

A — Yes, you may take advantage of both of these VA benefits at the same time.

Q — DOES VA pay dividends on "RH" life insurance, and what interest rate is paid on National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) dividends left with VA as credit?

A — The answer to the first part of your question is "no." Effective the first of this year, the interest rate on NSLI dividends held as credit with VA was increased from 4.24 to 4.5 per cent.

Q — I RECEIVED a VA pension check made out to my husband who died last month. Shall I return it, and if I do, will VA reissue the check to me?

A — Yes, you must return the check. If you are eligible for a widow's pension, your first check from VA will be issued at your husband's rate of payment, if his rate was greater than yours. Thereafter, you will receive checks at widow pension rates.

Veterans Fill Schaumburg Lineup; Pitching Is Key

by KEITH REINHARD

Experience and versatility. These are the watchwords at Schaumburg this spring where coach Roy Hascup has the pleasure of welcoming back a whole dugout full of veterans for the upcoming baseball season.

The Saxons were originally scheduled to commence action by hosting Maine North Tuesday but this game has been rescheduled on April 7 and Schaumburg will now open at Dundee Thursday.

Contrary to most varsity outfits, which may have a handful of returnees or perhaps just one or two, Hascup can boast of having a letter owner at practically every starting position. This is the result, of course, of a rugged first-year campaign without a senior in camp for the brand new school last season.

Last season is behind Hascup and company now however. His group forged a 5-11 record and impressed more than a few people with a hard-hitting lineup that sported a hefty .278 team batting average when it was all over.

"Pitching is the key for us this year," Hascup pointed out, noting, "Even though the Mid-Suburban League is going to be a tough challenge for us I believe we have the versatility to hold our own offensively and defensively."

That sort of guarded confidence is encouraged by the likes of all-area standout John Blasco, pegged for the outfield but a first baseman as well; veteran Jeff Larson, who is starting at first base but can play third or short if called upon; third baseman Rich Kuchnia, who can also handle short and second; and outfielder Steve Hull, a part-time relief pitcher.

"If a youngster is hitting the ball, I'm sure with this flexibility that we can find a spot for him in the lineup no matter what position he plays," the coach added.

Cracking the Schaumburg lineup still appears to be no small chore. Blasco for instance hit at a torrid .542 pace last year, socked six home runs and churned up 32 RBIs. He and Hull will flank speedy cage playmaker Marty Hjertstedt, who has been designated team captain for the upcoming season.

The infield looks equally solid. Larson, who logged a hefty .415 batting average, will team with Dave Merrigan at second and juniors Art Abraham and Kuchnia at short and third to provide a slick fielding unit with plenty of stick potential.

And to top off a starting alignment that Hascup looks upon as strong up the middle from the four lines in, is catcher John Gimmier, another .300 hitter with the perfect take-charge attitude.

In support of this front-line group are a number of young candidates with good potential. Junior Sam Aiello will back up Gimmier behind the plate, junior Tony Phillips is a first base prospect, junior Pete Kowalski will play behind Merrigan at second and junior Greg Pasek is Kuchnia's backup man at third.

The twirling staff starts with Ken Gast, another letterman and the only hurler with strong established credentials. The senior righty worked in eight contests last spring and fashioned a 4-3 log with a decent 2.88 E.R.A.

Grid star Glen Hayes is another letter holder. He saw more limited action on the mound in '71 but the senior right hander could possibly nail down the number two starting assignment. Other probable starters include junior righty Randy Anderson, also a veteran with a 1-1 mark last year, and Frank Hannon, another junior right-hander, who might also see action in the bullpen.

Relief pitchers include a couple of transfer students. Both righties, senior Chris Schieck is a transfer from Minnesota and for the first time while junior Larry Annable is from Washington, D.C.

Rounding out the pitching department are Tony Aiello and sophomore letterman Dave Hill, who joins with juniors Wally Gervais and Joe Dowling in a reserve outfield role as well.

Hascup indicates high spirits and hard work are the order of the day in the Saxon camp despite the weather of late. "Everyone's hustling and bearing down with a great degree of enthusiasm and it seems to have filtered right on down through the whole program here. It's a good sign."

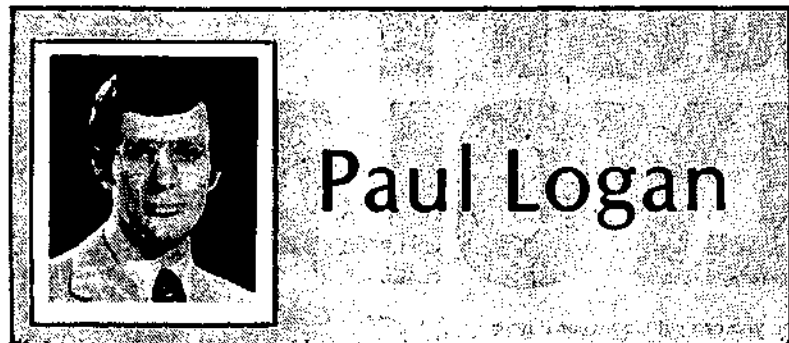

The mentor and his assistants, Don D'Antonio, Dick Stephens and John Stiefvater, are aiming at making their diamond debut in the MSL a respectable one following an exceptionally fine turnout at Schaumburg this spring. Hascup credits the abundance of talent to the efforts of Schaumburg and Hanover Park baseball associations which feed the Saxon program.

SELDOM DOES A day go by that you don't see a sports story dealing with money. Personally, I'm SICK of it.

The baseball strike has just been one of a multitude of headlines during the past couple of years. Frankly, all those connected with pro sports are to blame as far as I'm concerned — players, owners, television networks, etc. Their greediness seems insatiable.

I watched two hard fought basketball games, one this week and one last week. Both had giants under the boards, fast braking guards, outstanding shooters and tough defense. One striking thing, however, set them apart — the prize for winning. Trophies at one and cash at the other.

I enjoyed both games but, surprisingly enough, there were some moments in the Wheeling Park District men's league championship that were just as exciting as the action of the Bulls-Lakers game at the Stadium.

What made the game meaningful to me was the total effort these amateur athletes put into their play. Here were two teams which had lost just once, to each other, during the regular season and were playing game No. 15 to decide who was the best.

On one side was the muscular Henry's team which played two huge frontliners, both at least 6-8 and weighing way over 200 pounds. Decked out in fancy uniforms, Henry's looked like the defending champion it was, ruler of the park district league the past three years.

On the other side were the Bruins, much shorter but quicker. Helping guide this team was Bob Campbell, a 32-year-old athlete who could be called a kind of two-sport star of the park district set.

Bob's team, as anybody who plays park district 16-inch softball knows, has been noted for its outstanding Bruins' record the past three years. The Bruins' 14-9 mark speaks for itself.

In order to keep his team together during the off season, Campbell and his buddies formed a basketball team this year. Their winning summer tradition carried over this winter as they roared through the basketball season and the final game to dethrone Henry's team, 82-73.

When the final seconds were ticking off, I asked Bob's wife Meredith about his collection of trophies. She said he had at least 50 and had promised to stop competing when he had reached that mark. Then she just laughed and watched the end of the game. Trophy No. 51 was coming up.

Bob Campbell has been winning trophies for about 15 years now. I call him a "kind of" park district super jock because he doesn't fit the usual mold of a star player on this level.

Usually the P.D. hero type enjoyed great success in high school or college. When he couldn't progress any farther, he chose to play in his neighborhood P.D. and dominated the proceedings. That's not Bob Campbell.

He played briefly on the varsity as a sophomore at Austin High School in Chicago. That's the only connection with the prep sports for him, however. He never went to college.

Bob Campbell broke into the Chicago P.D. programs as a teenager and has enjoyed a great amount of success in both softball and basketball ever since.

His first trophy, back about the age of 17, came on the hardwoods. However, his true love as far as sports are concerned is 16-inch softball. Although he's plenty tough on the court, he is seemingly unsurpassed on the dusty slow-pitch fields.

Bob proved how good he is on the diamond last fall in the World Tournament. Although his team didn't win the title, he landed a spot on the All-American team.

"I'd say that is the one I treasure the most," says Bob of his most prestigious trophy.

You might think this special team was his all-time goal. It wasn't.

"Winning the world championship — that's been my goal for the last four years," says Campbell.

Back in 1944 he played on a title team with the Bobcats. That was naturally a thrill, but only two teams have ever won the championship the past 10 years — the Bobcats and So-Becs. Both are from Chicago. Campbell would like to lead a suburban team to such an honor. This year could be the one, according to the Bruins' 5-9 leader.

"You've got to get everybody else to think the same way," says Bob of his positive thinking philosophy. "This year we've got the right personnel."

"Everybody seems to think the Bruins are a bunch of all-stars, but that's not true. I go after guys that give 100 per cent, that are always going to be there and that like to win. I think that's why our team has been successful."

"A lot of teams play for a couple of years. Then somebody doesn't play and the team busts up. This happens a lot with amateur sports."

There's a unity on the Bruins that's something to see. It's not a dollar sign togetherness like the pros seem to have. These amateur athletes simply love the game.

As one of them carried off his trophy, he muttered, "It would be worth playing even if we didn't get these."

This type of athlete participates simply for the sake of winning, for the chance to be No. 1. That's a refreshing thought during these trying times in sport, isn't it.

Elk Grove Diamond Year Opens Today At Addison

by JIM COOK

Pitching without hitting is trouble. Hitting without pitching is trouble. Pitching and hitting is Elk Grove.

The Grenadiers, the only team in the Mid Suburban League to survive football, cross-country, basketball, wrestling, swimming and gymnastics without a losing conference dual-meet record, have come into their own.

Baseball should not be an exception. Head coach Larry Peddy boasts nine lettermen back from last year's 5-9 club and doesn't appear to have a weak spot on the entire 23-man roster.

Returning insignia winners include seniors Scott Pruitt, Dan Connelly, Jeff Sronkoski, Rick Hauserman, Bob Chen, Steve Scholten and Mark Workman while juniors Jeff Stewart and Tony Tringali round out the talent-laden list.

Scholten and Pruitt are entering their third year on the varsity club while both Tringali and Stewart are tackling their second as three-year men.

Pruitt and Gary Adams will find work at first base while Loren Crites, Mike Dukwich and Tim O'Hara vie for second. Juniors Bob Prince and Ray Fedel join Connelly at short with Sronkoski and Hauserman labeled for third base.

The outfield candidates are Chen, Tringali, Workman, John Romano and promising sophomore John Paul. Scholten, Tringali and Romano are in line for the catching duties.

The pitching rotation will probably consist of Bob Streich, Stewart, Jim Em-slie, Steve Pritz and Jim Laing while Ron Sobin and Mike Vizzone are tagged as relievers.

"I think we've got key players in the key positions," Peddy surmised. "Of our seven pitchers, five are juniors and four of them may be starters. Although it'll probably be a junior staff, it's a seasoned staff because all of them did some pitching for me last summer."

When Elk Grove takes the field at Addison Trail today at 1 p.m., Peddy will get a look at Streich, Stewart and Emslie who are slated to share the non-conference opener on the mound.

"These kids are winners if they get the job done," he said. "But in this game, you can't count out anybody. Ever since we went from last place with a 2-14 record to the top in successive years, we know that any team can be tough on a given day."

"The Grenadiers, who will not be hurting for speed, power or quickness, have set their immediate sights on winning more games than any team in the school's history. If those dozen are achieved, their secondary goals of winning their division and the entire MSL may go hand-in-hand. The first district-winner from Elk Grove would presumably come next.

Peddy's initial plans are to go with four seniors, four juniors and a sophomore in the starting lineup. His roster of juniors this season have won the conference both as sophomores and freshmen over the last two years.

"We should have some good sticks in the lineup and I won't be afraid to go to the bench," Peddy said. "We'll just have to see how the season goes."

With the potential budding from Elk Grove, it may be a long season for opposing clubs.

Ridgewood Nips Fremd In Tennis Opener, 3-2

Wet weather forced a halt in the middle of Fremd's season opener in tennis Monday with Glenbrook North. So the Vikings had to wait a day later going the route against visiting Ridgewood at the Harper College courts.

All three Viking singles players pushed their opponents three sets before falling and the doubles teams won in the 3-2 setback.

Posting the victory in first doubles was the duo of Kim Abbott and Carl Papp. The two seniors polished off Ron Dabe and Rod Stark, 6-1, 6-3.

Going at No. 2 doubles, Rich Cortney, and Jeff Leswing stopped Ron Paradiso and Kevin McGowen, 6-2, 6-1. Cortney is just a sophomore and Leswing's a junior. Both are transfers.

The singles setbacks came like this: Sophomore Chris Laffy, Fremd's No. 1 man, lost to Ron Peertl, 6-4, 5-7, 6-1; junior Pat Erwin, going in the No. 2 spot, lost to Stan Wawro, 6-3, 1-6, 5-7; and senior George Jane lost No. 3 singles to Bill Dickinson, 2-6, 7-5, 2-6.

The Fremd sophomores won 5-0.

Three other seniors that should be seeing some action this season are John

Lawrence, Kim Plantert and Larry Bow-

ard. "I'm pretty optimistic," says Coach Rick Gablenz of the season. "Things look pretty good."

Gablenz has three lettermen — Abbott, Jayne and Lawrence — off last year's 7-9 team, the best overall record ever by a Fremd team. Another reason for his optimism is the amount of play during the off season by his boys at indoor tennis clubs.

Assisting Gablenz this season will be Carol Hawley.

Barrington Blanks Saxons, 5-0

Barrington, showing the power that comes from plenty of indoor play, blanked hosting Schaumburg in the latter's tennis opener Tuesday afternoon, 5-0.

The Saxons lost in straight sets as follows:

Singles — Randy Madon to Rog Stephen, 6-2, 6-0; Dale Fenwick to Chuck Allison, 6-0, 6-0; and Harvey Scharlau to Jim Kretschmar, 6-1, 6-0.

Doubles — Bill Homowun and Larry Willer to Pat Hill and Cary Larson, 6-2, 6-4; and Steve Bach and Rich Reese to Steve Sponker and Jim Richter, 6-1, 6-1.

Juniors Hold Key In Conant Tennis

by PAUL LOGAN

Only three lettermen dot the list of tennis players at Conant, but one of them is last year's first singles star.

Buddy Edmondson, only a sophomore,

At Striker Lanes

The Inconsistents are still in first place in the Cambridge Quartettes Bowling League at Striker Lanes. The Alley Cats hold second and the Should've Beens remain in third in the handicapped competition.

Sue Libby shot 222, Bobbie Cavallero 219 and Jill Klein 216 while Ulrika Kay hit 387, Liz Kilpatrick 560 and June Ferber 559. Jackie Nilson, a substitute, won the "ham roll" with a high game of 239 and high series of 632. Jane Carpenter picked up the 3-4-7 split.

At Beverly Lanes

Carol Fogarty zipped out a 543 series for the Polka Dots League at Beverly Lanes to pace the women's action. Nancy Schiller contributed a 563 set off games of 178, 163, 162. Carol's games were 175, 196, 172.

Barb Weber hit 488 off 182, 135, 171 and Sandy Weller added a 470 off 152, 136, 182. Ginny Byrne notched a 172 game and Billie Puls a 170. Sub Sue Culligan scored 131 pins over her average in hitting a 446 series.

will again be the Cougars' ace when the young team of Coach Roger McCoy opens the season this afternoon, weather permitting, against visiting Addison Trail at 2:00.

McCoy, entering his first year as head coach, isn't making any predictions as to how the Cougars will finish this year.

"We're basically a junior team (9 of 12)," says McCoy. "If the juniors come along well, we could do all right. It just kind of rests on their shoulders."

Besides Edmondson, only two others — seniors Jim Michaels and Chuck Evans — are non-juniors. Both are lettermen.

Also out for the team are Marty Rohr, Bruce Koehler, Eric Burseth, Mike Knop, Vince Kirby, John Schuller, Bill Seger, Mike Gibbs and Mark Hennessy.

McCoy has had experience with youngsters having coached the Homewood-Flossmoor sophomore team before coming to Conant.

McCoy said that Rohr was the No. 2 man behind Edmondson and "from there on down we're having challenges."

Countryside 'Y' Scores Well In Swim Finals

At the recent state YMCA swim championships at George Williams College pool, Larry Ratcliffe paced his Countryside YMCA team with a pair of fine finishes.

Ratcliffe, swimming in the Cadet division, finished second in the 50 yard freestyle and was fourth in the 25 yard breaststroke.

Also recording points for the boys were Ron Turcotte with sixth in the Prep 50 yard butterfly and John Habenicht with 11th in the Intermediate 200 yard freestyle.

Taking 12th in the girls' races were Cindy Wolfe in the 100 yard butterfly and Jill Molo in the 100 yard breaststroke, both Junior events.

St. Viator Drops Tennis Opener

St. Viator's tennis team will be looking for its first win of the frigid season this afternoon against visiting Fremd beginning, weather permitting, at 1:00.

The Lions found Glenbrook North too tough to handle in their opener on Tuesday by falling 5-0.

This was how the singles matches went:

Mike Revnes lost first singles to Scott Hugelot, 6-3, 6-1; Gary Aldrich lost to John Clouse, 7-5, 6-4; and Mark Savage lost to Stewart Slink, 6-2, 9-7.

The first doubles team of Tom Cole and Tom Marshall dropped a pair of 6-4 decisions to Steve Clark and Ken Johnson. The No. 2 team of Tom Klein and Larry Deger lost 6-2, 6-3 to John Murphy and Jim Johnson.

Hosting Glenbrook also won the frosh-soph meet, 5-0.

Harper Roms In Opener

Harper College was to have hosted Wright College in the season baseball opener Tuesday, but the Hawks' field wasn't playable. So the site was moved to the Chicago team's home field.

The Hawks, always losers to the perennially powerful Rams, humbled their hosts with ease this time. Scoring heavily in four of the six innings played despite near freezing temperatures, the Hawks romped to a 13-4 victory.

Coach John Eliasik's team will now try to improve upon their record with three games in the next two days, weather permitting. The Hawks will take on hosting Parkland College of Champaign for a doubleheader beginning at noon today and then head for Danville for a single game on Friday.

Things looked bad for Harper in the second inning as Wright scored on a balk to take a 1-0 lead.

The Hawks bounced right back with three runs in the top of the third on a double by Mike Honel.

Wright handed them four more in the fourth on two wild pitches and a pair of errors. The Hawks scored one in the fifth and five more in the sixth.

After two quick outs in the bottom of the sixth, starting pitcher Irv Hahnfeldt became wild. He filled the bases, walked two runs in and sent another across on a wild pitch.

Dave Hildbrandt then relieved him and struck out the last batter with the bases loaded.

Wally Wiener had the best day at the plate for both teams with 2-for-4 and scored two runs.

Wright Optimistic On Prospect Chances

by PAUL LOGAN

Jim Wright, Prospect's head tennis coach the past five years, remembers what the caliber of the sport was in this area when he broke in.

"The freshmen coming in this year could beat the seniors of five years ago," says Wright. "The whole league just gets better and better every year. I'm really optimistic."

The Knights will open their season this afternoon, weather permitting, at Maine West beginning at 4:15.

Although Wright is looking forward to his sixth campaign, he would be even more anxious if one of the Mid-Suburban League schools wasn't in the conference — Arlington. Just like everybody else, Wright concedes first place to the powerful Cardinals.

"I've got some secret plans for Arlington," kids Wright of the early showdown with the perennial championship team. "We can't do worse than last year against them. Nobody in the league got a point off of them. I think they're one of the top three or four teams in the state."

"If we don't get second, I'll really be disappointed."

Five lettermen give justification for his optimism. He has fine singles players in Bob Zimmanek, Jeff Risteen and Mat Sopchuk and a crack doubles team of Mike Gross and Steve McMurtry.

Zimmanek finished second in the conference in No. 1 singles and the Gross-McMurtry combination finished the same way in No. 2 doubles.

Risteen and Mark Mavis, both juniors, will probably play second and third singles, according to Wright. Juniors Chuck Clemens and John Waters will probably make up the other doubles team.

Other tennis possibilities are juniors Steve Ristow and Chuck Ruckstaetter, and seniors John Schoebit and Alan Snyder.

"The kids have played a lot over the winter," says Wright. "We've also been out every day that it's been humanly possible."

Wright is hoping that all of this practice will help his Knights in their battle with Palatine, Hersey and Rolling Meadows for second place. Prospect is the defending runner-up 'champ' in the MSL.

Our Choices For Harper...

Two trustees will be elected to the Harper College Board of Trustees this Saturday. Six candidates are vying for the two three-year terms.

In the past, the board's primary concern was establishing a campus. The new board will be confronted with problems of expansion. College officials are scrambling now to keep construction up with the skyrocketing enrollment. So far, the battle has been contained within state offices, as Harper officials plead for more government aid.

The board needs progressives who can handle the challenges of growth. They must be leaders who have the initiative and the courage to make the community college a success.

Election campaigns have been a mixture of contrasts, with some candidates offering nothing but praise for the present operation and others heavy on criticism. However, we do not see the college issues as all black or all white. The board needs candidates who can see all sides of the issues and are able to propose solutions.

We endorse incumbent Larry

Moats and Marilyn Marier to fill the two board seats.

Moats' three-year record on the board has been impressive. He has been an impartial and hard-working board member, a fact which dispelled fears about his youth and student status. (When elected, he attended Harper.) Moats has had the courage to stand up for realism in the matter of the President's salary; he's economy-minded, but he has also pledged to work for more communication within Harper and between the college and the outside community.

Mrs. Marier's only contact with Harper has been as a member of a curriculum advisory committee. However, she has served on the Volunteer Service Bureau, the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission and the League of Women Voters. She is an enthusiastic and informed person who should bring new ideas to the board.

Harper College is remote to many residents, but it shouldn't be. As a community college, Harper serves both young and old — those that are degree bound and those that aren't. And Harper relies on your tax dollar. The college deserves your interest.

... And Oakton

Oakton Community College, which began classes in 1970 and made substantial progress in its first year of operation, is in the midst of a serious crisis that has been harmful to the college and its relations with the community.

For more than a year, Oakton officials have been searching for a suitable permanent campus site in the two townships, Maine and Niles, served by the college. Their choice of a vacant Niles cemetery, and their unwillingness to abandon that choice despite heavy opposition, have become the main issues of the election Saturday that will fill four seats on the Oakton Board of trustees.

In a showdown vote of confidence race, Oakton Board Pres. Milton Falkoff has chosen to run for the open one-year term against incumbent Trustee LeRoy Wauck, who has opposed the board's handling of the campus issue.

We endorse Wauck. Both men are highly qualified and have done competent jobs on the board. But in our opinion, the Oakton trustees have suffered from a lack of sensible leadership in their poor handling of the campus issue. Wauck's election would aid in getting Oakton back on the right course.

Of the three men running for the open two-year term on the board, we favor incumbent Trustee Griffith MacDonald. Although he has supported the board majority's unwise course in handling the campus site issue, MacDonald is more qualified than either of his opponents.

Five candidates are vying for two three-year terms on the Oak-ton board. We endorse incumbent Trustee Meyer Kamin and John Swalec, an educator who worked for the formation of the junior college district. Again, we must note Kamin's support for the majority in the campus issue, but we feel he is well qualified to be re-elected. Swalec will make an excellent trustee.

It is unfortunate that controversy over a narrow matter like buying a piece of property should have so much effect on the college. Oakton officials handled the matter poorly from the start. They bungled negotiations with the cemetery owner, the Catholic Archdiocese, ignored a large adverse community reaction to the choice and then went ahead and filed a condemnation suit.

The board's majority has also fought with the Illinois Junior College Board and is now suing the state, seeking reversal of a decision cutting off expected state funds for the permanent campus.

The board should change its course, drop both suits and form a blue-ribbon committee to seek an acceptable campus site. A useless squabble in the courts with the state junior college board will bring Oakton no closer to having a campus of its own.

We are also distressed to see that some incumbent trustees are trying to make an election issue of "local control" because of the fight with the state. The real issue should be the board majority's handling of college affairs over the last year and the qualifications of the respective candidates.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Arlington Housing Study Lauded

We commend the Arlington Heights Village Board and Joint Study Committee on their decision to provide housing for people of low and moderate-income. The recommendation for 50 units of low and 150-250 units of moderate-income housing to be provided within the next two years is a beginning toward the solution of the housing problems of poverty level families. These problems were tragically illustrated by the death of the Arenas children in a fire in Elk Grove on November 29, 1969. As citizens who have been concerned about this issue since that time we recognize the step taken by the Arlington Heights Village Government as a significant sign of responsible government leadership at the local level.

It is our hope that in the implementation of these recommendations, the Arlington Heights Village Government will make the necessary policy changes, i.e., in their zoning laws and building codes, so that Homes Phase I will indeed be just a beginning, and that the development process will be altered from one which is economically oriented to one which is people oriented. This means that it is necessary to take affirmative action in planning for land use. If one examines the development process as it presently exists, village government has only negative power in land-use decisions — that is, they merely respond to proposals brought in by developers. Since the developer plays the major role in planning for land use, economic feasibility is the primary consideration. For a racially-just society to become actualized, this process must be altered significantly.

There are some immediate steps which could be taken to change the present housing policies in suburban areas — policies which de facto are racially and economically unjust and provide an example of institutionalized racism. Present zoning laws must be revised, particularly in the area of restrictive bedroom requirements so that accommodating families becomes consistent with economic feasibility. In order to insure that housing needs will be met, a fixed percentage of all future development should be set aside for low and moderate-income housing.

It seems clear that unless these kinds of changes are made immediately, the implementation of the Joint Study Committee's recommendations will have little effect on present housing needs of low and moderate-income families, and no effect on the long-range needs — that is, the suburban development process will continue as it has in the past.

It also is important that low-income and minority people will be integrated into the fabric of the community, that the housing built will be consistent with their needs, and they will be able to participate in the decisions which affect their lives at a significant level. As the first step toward these ends, minority groups should be represented on the Housing Commission in Arlington Heights, as well as in other communities which are seeking solutions to the housing problem. Other means to this end are small, scattered site, mixed-income developments, which are located in desirable areas of the community. It is imperative that low and moderate-income developments not be located only in fringe areas of the community, or on land which is undesirable for other kinds of developments, such as in tracts surrounding industrial development.

We wish to thank CMCC for providing leadership in the voluntary sector on a crucial issue. Since some of our membership overlaps, we know first hand of the long hours they have spent initiating and pursuing this issue. We hope that they will continue to provide the leadership on this issue. Arlington Heights is only the beginning, and we are far from realizing the American ideal — "one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

'It Was A Vote Against Taxes'

After analyzing the results of our recent referendum, I feel that the vote was against higher taxes and not against our educational system. The voter turnout set a new record for District 57, and it was apparent to observers that the overwhelming majority of people were older, or did not have children in District 57 schools. Since taxpayers have direct control of only four out of the eleven items levied on their tax bill, (elementary schools, high schools, junior college and park district) voting 'no' on a school referendum becomes a means of voicing opposition to taxation in general. Because of declining enrollment, the number of dwellings having children in District 57 has been decreasing. Out of a total of approximately 6000 dwellings, only 2800 have children in District 57 schools. Any simple projection indicates that it will be increasingly difficult to pass a referendum that calls for any sizable tax increase.

It is unfortunate that our present system of financial support for schools creates a situation where people must make a choice between the needs of our young people or the needs of older citizens. Active support of pending legislation to limit a retired persons tax contribution to 8 per cent of his income could help eliminate the tax burden problems in future referendums, thereby making the issues more clear-cut.

Comparing precinct voting patterns for the '68 and '69 referendums with this years shows about the same consistent parent support in three out of four precincts. Although Revision I may not be entirely perfect in its present form, it does allow us to retain at least a part of most of our programs.

I would like to offer my sincere thanks for the untiring efforts of all the P.A.S.S. Committee members and those who gave coffees or otherwise donated their time and efforts. Also my thanks go to the administrators, principals, teachers, central office help and lastly, my fellow board members.

The School Board will have many issues before it in the next few months, some which have been initiated recently, others that arise as a result of the defeat of the referendum. I don't feel that the board is at all peevish or petulant about the outcome of the referendum and we are ready to take up the business at hand and fulfill the obligations of the office to which we were elected.

Two Dist. 57 Candidates Boosted

Battle Won! War Lost?

On Saturday March 25 the citizens of Mount Prospect "won the battle" against increased taxes by defeating the S.D. 57 referendum asking for 39 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

In "winning the battle," will we "lose the war"? — the opportunity to continue quality education for all children presently enrolled in our district, as well as those yet to be enrolled.

As citizens — senior, parochial parents, as well as parents with children in district schools — we should all be as concerned about the administration (by the school board) of our tax dollars as we are about the amount we pay for education.

Election of competent school board members will assure this "fiscal responsibility."

Go to the polls on April 8 and elect Peter Olesen and William Holloway and insure Dist. 57 of quality education with fiscal responsibility.

And we will win the war also!

Cop's Dog Story Irks Resident

On Monday, March 27, at approximately 8:30 a.m., my little French Poodle managed to get out of my fenced-in yard and followed the children on the way to school, which is two blocks away. A sergeant of Rolling Meadows Police Department appeared at my door, and in a very rude manner told me to go and get my dog. I explained to him that I was without transportation, my two year old daughter was still asleep and my four year old son was there, and I didn't know how I could leave them alone. He then said he would have to impound the dog if I didn't go and get her.

I tried to get in touch with my neighbor, but she was not at home and then tried another one who was not able at that time to watch the children. I was beside myself at this time, and the sergeant then said he would drive me back to the school, but would not drive me home — I would have to walk. Incidentally, this day was the one following the snow storm on Sunday.

Ordinarily when a dog is found in Rolling Meadows the police are courteous and very helpful, but this officer was extremely rude and belligerent.

I might add that we come from a family of Chicago Police officers and have ways had an extremely high regard for all law enforcing men, but this one certainly should take a course in manners and attitude towards people.

Would it have been too much for this Sergeant to drive back two blocks to my house? What did he expect me to do about my little girl alone in the house? This man is a person without compassion for anyone and I certainly think he should be reprimanded and some disciplinary measure taken in this instance.

It's Bad Ecology

I also live in Surrey Ridge West and enjoyed the visits by the geese. But they were just that — visitors. All permanent inhabitants were forced to leave when the park district regraded and sodded the area. Where now are the Killdeer and other birds and the occasional Quail that nested when the area was kept wild and unmowed. There is no cover for any birds now. Last year two clutches of Killdeer eggs were found in my small flower garden, presumably for lack of other cover.

From articles printed in this paper we hear that the drainage problem is not solved so the regrading did little help. Certainly the green grass is fairly attractive, but it seems to me that more pleasure is derived from seeing and hearing birds in the wild than another expanse of grass. Let's not fool ourselves into thinking that sodding the area was an ecological "improvement."

Fewer Rumors, Please

I'm surprised at Marcia Kramer's article in Friday's first page about Sister Patricia Ann at St. Thomas school. To write what several women say, without using their names is just gossip to me. There are plenty of people in St. Thomas's parish who wouldn't mind standing behind their opinions and including their names. Let's have more honest reporting, and less rumors.

EDITORIAL: Violence on television needs to be reduced — for the sake of our children.

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — A system of raising operating capital without going to banks has proved so successful for a diversified holding company in Kansas City that companies which once scoffed now are trying to find out how it worked.

On May 1, 1971, ISC Industries, Inc., a company which loans money to the public, decided to borrow from it by selling notes. And it sold them over the counter at branch offices.

In order for ISC personnel to sell the notes they had to pass a National Association of Securities Dealers examination.

"WE OFFERED our employees, mostly the branch managers, a $500 bonus if they passed the examination," said Paul Hamilton, Jr., a happy, round-faced dynamo who heads ISC. "We also offered them a commission on each sale."

It worked better than even Hamilton had dreamed. From the first day of operation until Dec. 31, ISC sold $2.9 million of the notes. In the first two months of 1972 alone, after the sales force had jelled, sales totaled $3.7 million. Securities were sold in minimum $500 denominations with $100 increments.

At present the company has 190 employees trained and licensed to sell in 11 states. It plans to extend the note selling into six other states.

ISC also has brought out a Series B junior subordinated note in an offering up to $20 million. It carries an interest rate of 7 per cent per annum on 36 month notes, 8 per cent on 60 months and 9 per cent on 90 months.

"WE GOT INTO this market so we could control our own destiny," Hamilton said during a recent visit to New York. "We felt the money crunch of 1969-70 when the commercial market dried up for us and the prime rate soared to 8.5 per cent. So we decided to do it ourselves even though a lot of people said it was impossible. Some of them now are asking us to explain how it was done."

ISC's in-house system of generating cash currently operates in Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana, Nebraska, Arkansas, Florida and Alabama. It anticipates moving the system into Ohio, Kentucky, Colorado, Georgia, South Carolina and Louisiana.

ISC loans money, sells insurance, prepares income tax statements, makes custom built trucks and railway and highway conversion units, deals in residential and commercial security and monitoring systems, has a retail furniture operation, owns one television station and four radio stations and makes pens which are sold, among other places, to the White House and the Vatican.

Think Inflation's Bad Now? Read On

The housewife's burden is being lightened by inflation.

"The $30 worth of groceries which filled her shopping cart not too long ago, she can now carry in one bag," says Myron D. Winkler, chairman of Winkler-Scheid Corp.

Winkler-Scheid is a Los Angeles-based national investment banking and consulting organization associated with agriculture and real estate investment, as well as with growth-oriented industrial, financial and services companies.

"You don't need to consult an economist about inflation," Winkler adds. "Just ask any mother or housewife and she can give you some realistic figures. To support hers, food prices over the past few years have risen 157 per cent; transportation costs are up 118.7 per cent; medical care costs up 149.6 per cent; clothing up 162 per cent; and college education costs up 132 per cent."

WINKLER POINTS out if the situation continues, by the year 2002 — only 30 short years away, the prices will really be mind-boggling. He adds that inflation has been a part of life for years and there is no reason to believe it will be vanquished within the foreseeable future.

"Within the past 100 years there were only 25 periods of 12 months when the dollar gained in value and the cost of living declined," he adds.

"Looking forward a few years to 2002, the average middle-income family out looking for a new home in their $11,800 car will find a nice three-bedroom ranch with yard that they can have for only $100,000," he says. "The floor plan fits their needs right down to the den where they will put their new $1,960 color TV set. And the refrigerator will nicely accommodate the $157 worth of groceries they buy each week."

These prices may well be typical if inflation continues to advance at a rate of only 5 per cent compounded annually, Winkler says.

"In terms of 1972 dollars, the $100,400 house would be $25,600 on today's market; the $11,760 car would be $3,000; the $1,960 TV set, $500; and the $157 grocery bill, $40," he adds. "As for salaries, a $10,000 annual income in 1972 probably would amount to $39,200 by the year 2002."

A comparison of 2949 and 1972 dollars shows how sharply purchasing power has dwindled, Winkler notes.

"It currently takes an annual after-tax income of $7,769 to equal the buying power of an after-tax income of $4,656 in 1949. That represents a loss of $3,113 in actual purchasing power in only 23 years," he says.

GM Recalls Vegas After Nader Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — General Motors Corp. announced the recall of 130,000 1972 Chevrolet Vegas after Ralph Nader charged the automaker was "carrying out an illegal silent recall" to correct a possible fire hazard in the compact auto.

GM denied Nader's charge, which was contained in a letter to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The safety crusader said the defect in the cars could cause them to burst into flames "with little or no warning."

The big auto manufacturer said the recall already was being prepared when it learned of Nader's letter. The firm said corrective measures to the fire hazard had been developed and the government was advised of the correction.

General Motors, which said it would make the correction at its expense, said parts to fix the defect would be at Chevrolet dealers later this month. GM said the cars involved in the recall were equipped with optional 90 horsepower engines.

NADER SAID the fire hazard could be traced to machine-fastened screws which held the carburetor cover. They can work loose, he said, and cause them to backfire because the air-gasoline mixture to the engine becomes too lean. He added the backfires can blow out the wall of the muffler on the cars.

"A fuel line is in close proximity to the point at which the muffler comes apart," Nader wrote Administrator Douglas Toms of the safety agency.

"The high temperatures of the exhaust gases escaping from the muffler can rupture the fuel line and further backfires ignite the gasoline," Nader claimed.

He cited two specific examples of fires in Vegas and said "numerous 1972 Vegas have met their demise in this manner."

Nader claimed the company had been aware of the problem since January or February and had told dealers to carry out an informal recall by fixing Vegas brought in for service, but GM denied any attempt to bypass the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's recall procedures.

Travel Agencies Topic Of Panel

Charter practices, bonding and financial controls of the travel industry will be in the spotlight in a Chicago meeting of the Illinois Travel Agency and Passenger Carrier Study Commission today.

Testimony will be offered by representatives of the travel industry at the session. It is slated to start at 9:30 a.m. at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago, Illinois. Sen. Edward McBroom, R-Kankakee, and Rep. John J. Houlihan, D-Park Forest, are co-chairmen of the event.

Mrs. Jane Byrne, commissioner of the department of consumer sales, weights and measures for the City of Chicago, is scheduled to testify. She plans to discuss the filing of deceptive advertising complaints against nine travel agencies in the Chicago area.

Travel agency licensing and regulation under consideration in other states will also be discussed. Final recommendations of the commission will be submitted to the Illinois General Assembly.

Dividend News

Investors Mutual, Inc.

A second quarter income dividend of 10 cents a share, payable to shareholders of record March 23, was declared by the board of directors of Investors Mutual, Inc.

The current dividend is derived from dividend and interest income and amounts to a distribution of approximately $27,915,000.

Investors Mutual paid a 1971 second quarter dividend of 9 1/2 cents per share, totaling approximately $27,315,000.

Richardson Co.

First quarter sales of the Richardson Co. are running ahead of the same three-month period in 1971, Pres. William B. Basile announced.

He added that 1972 should be a "constructive year" for Richardson, but that legal and economic restraints have made it difficult to pass along the rising costs of doing business.

Basile said that Richardson, located in Des Plaines, is concentrating on improving its products and marketing services, as well as reducing operating costs.

THE HOUSE THAT SECURITY BUILT

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and
James Jacoby

Sir Lancelot du Lac, the best bridge player at King Arthur's square table as well as the best knight, felt that he had more than enough to jump to game even though he knew that his partner, Galahad the Pure, was apt to have raised on nothing but faith in the ability of the peerless knight to play the dummy. Galahad put down the dummy and Lancelot saw that there really was no play for his contract. The wily Mordred had opened a club right up to Lancelot's ace-queen. That was certainly a pleasant start but it wasn't going to be enough.

Lancelot would have to knock out the ace of hearts and Mordred would surely attack the diamond suit and set the hand with three diamond tricks.

Lancelot saw all this in less time than it would take him to parry a sword thrust. He also saw a possible way to make the contract.

It all depended on which club Agravaine sitting East would play. Agravaine played the jack and Lancelot was ready. He won the trick with the ace, not the queen.

Then he drew trumps and led his king of hearts. Mordred was on lead with the ace and fell right into the trap just as anyone would. Clearly Agravaine held the club queen. Clearly it was most important to put him on lead.

Mordred led a low club and the peerless one had won another rubber.

Social Security and You

Q—I RECENTLY hired a handy man to help me with light jobs around the house. I pay him $50 a month. Since he is over 72, he claims I do not have to deduct social security from his pay. Is this true?

A—No. Regardless of the age of the employee, you are required to report the earnings and send them to the Internal Revenue Service if you pay him at least $50 or more in cash in a calendar quarter.

Q—I WORK part time as a waitress at a supper club. I collect all the tips at the tables I serve, and later I share them with the bus boys working my tables. Do I report all these tips for social security?

A—You must give your employer a written report of your tips within 10 days after the month you receive them when they amount to $20 or more for a month. Report only the amount you keep for yourself. The other employees should also report their tips to the employer if they amount to $20 or more in a month.

Q—I HAVE just been ordained into the ministry. I was told that I have to file a form with Internal Revenue Service to get social security coverage. Is this true?

A—No. Clergymen are now covered automatically under the social security program. You do have to file a form 4361 with the Internal Revenue Service, however, if you want your earnings in the ministry exempted from coverage. The form can be secured at any social security office or from the Internal Revenue Service.

Explains Condemnation

While most property owners will never face the problem of a condemnation that forces them to sell their house and business and move elsewhere, it can happen.

When it does happen, what are your problems? What problems will the state cause you? What problems will you cause yourself?

Recently, the Chicago Real Estate Board invited Thomas A. Foran, former U.S. attorney and now in private law practice, to discuss the matter of condemnation from the owner's point of view.

Foran currently represents owners faced with dislocation by the proposed Crosstown Expressway. Previously, he represented the government in acquiring land for the Congress Street, Dan Ryan, and Kennedy expressways.

In most instances, Foran said, the first you or your client will know about condemnation for certain is when you're contacted by a negotiator.

"Ultimately, you will receive an offer for the property and an offer of relocation costs," Foran said. "The offer will be based on the state's appraisals done by competent real estate men."

The state, with federal urging, follows what is called the one offer system. To some degree it is a take it or leave it sort of proposition.

"I would suspect that if you are knowledgeable enough about real estate and the negotiator is knowledgeable enough, and if you can demonstrate some gross error in the factual data within the state's appraisal, you might be able to generate a further review of the figures," Foran said. This is most unlikely since at this stage of the proceedings, the state need not disclose its appraisal to you, he added.

The areas to consider in negotiating begin with the market for similar properties. "Say you are offered $23,000 for a small home and the home next door, which is a dead ringer for yours, sold on the open market for $25,000 two years before," Foran said. "A good negotiator will listen and consider it. A poor one will not."

Assume you are like most people and believe passionately that "you have the best home in the neighborhood" and feel that the state is confiscating your property, said Foran. If you can't agree with the negotiator, the state will, in all probability, exercise what is called its "quick take" powers.

This begins by the filing of a petition for condemnation and a motion to vest title in the state. To do this, the state must deposit 125 per cent of its appraisal of the property with the county treasurer or, in this case $28,750. You are permitted under the law to get the $23,000, but the state will own the property upon its deposit and have a right to possession immediately.

"By very recent law you will be entitled to relocation assistance," Foran explained. This includes many things that could not be considered under previous law, such as moving expenses, storage costs for furniture, temporary lodging costs, title costs, pre-payment penalties on mortgages, loss of advantageous financing, including necessary commissions for new loans.

These apply to both owners and tenants, and to residential and business properties.

Special considerations are given to businesses for necessary abandonment of personal property and for time spent in finding another location. Residential property owners and tenants may be eligible for other payments for necessary expenditure in obtaining replacement housing or rent supplements, he said.

"Generally, what you will be entitled to will be actual, unavoidable expenditures," he said. "You will not receive a bonanza in connection with these, but they do help take some of the sting from the inconvenience of displacement."

"Do not let a negotiator add the offer for the house and the relocation cost reimbursement together and argue that the two together are an offer for your property," he warned. "You are entitled to each separately."

Get prior approval from the relocation agency, Foran went on. If you are dissatisfied with the offer for your property and the state will not reconsider it, you are entitled to have a jury determine the value, he said.

There are many elements which may contribute to such a disagreement: lack of market experience or knowledge on the part of the state appraisers; human error in major factors of value; difference of opinion on highest and best use; unmovable equipment; special use; and where only a part of the property is taken, misunderstanding of the proper elements to be considered in the determination of damages to the remainder. Other elements in a disagreement may be loss or limitation of access, light, air, and view; reconstruction cost; necessary changes in interior design; loss of business during reconstruction period and loss of rent during these same periods.

All of these areas of possible disagreement have an arena for determination, a jury trial. "Over the years, I have found juries particularly adept in matters of this kind because of the general interest of people in real estate," Foran said.

Foran concluded that all property owners are protected by the section of the constitution which says: "No person's property may be taken for public use without just compensation."

Mills Is Copywriter For Food PR Firm

Mills, Fife & MacDonald, Inc. of Des Plaines recently named James R. Coari to the position of copywriter. The announcement was made by agency president, William H. Fife Jr.

Coari was previously copy chief with Chapfield Advertising and Public Relations, Inc., the in-house agency for Pronto Foods (a Hershey Foods Co.). Prior to this, Coari received his master of science degree in advertising from Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism. Earlier, he was a copywriter with Montgomery Ward and Co.

A native Chicagoan, Coari attended Loyola Academy in Wilmette, and received a BS degree from Loyola University before going on for his master's degree. He presently resides in Chicago with his wife, Julie, and their son, Kyle.

Residents Plan Leisure Program

The social, cultural and recreational programs at Kaufman and Broad's Barrington Square community are a major attraction to new townhome buyers, according to the developers.

Add Heating Control

If one side of your house is cold, or if all the bedrooms seem too hot or too cold, it's a safe bet, says the Chicago-based Better Heating-Cooling Council, that something is wrong with the controls on your heating system.

To solve this problem, many people raise the setting on their thermostat. It may eventually warm the cold part of the house, but now the rest of the house is overheated.

Replacing or moving the thermostat is not usually the answer either, the council said. Different parts of the house have different heating needs, and each of these main areas needs its own separate thermostat, or zone control, as it is termed.

Based on inquiries it receives from homeowners, the council says the need for zoning is not limited to any one type of house. Split level houses generally need a separate zone for each level, while colonials and other two-story houses usually need separate zones to control the upstairs and downstairs independently; even ranch houses may need separate controls for one side or wing.

Zone control often can be added easily to many existing heating systems, including a hydronic (hot water) heating system. In other cases, heating system modernization may be required before zone control can be added.

Hoffman Estates, was opened in August 1970. It has a range of activities as described by Terry Bickel, marketing director for Kaufman and Broad Homes, Inc., of Illinois.

With the help of the developers' professional social director, the homeowners plan and operate the community's programs. Residents volunteer to serve on various community committees, including the social committee which coordinates all the events.

"The residents of Barrington Square have a strong sense of community involvement," said Bickel. The Governor's Club, membership of which is granted automatically to all townhome owners, is the center of activity at Barrington Square. This $500,000 clubhouse, whose architecture was inspired by the Governor's Mansion in colonial Williamsburg, features indoor and outdoor pools, tennis courts and recreation centers. There are fully-equipped health clubs with saunas, billiard and game rooms, a teen room with separate entrance, a library, meeting rooms and a vast ballroom for a variety of social events. The club borders a man-made lake, which is used for fishing during the summer and for ice skating in winter.

A community newsletter keeps residents, informed of the various planned programs at Barrington Square. A welcoming committee also greets new residents.

The programs range from preschool classes to arts-and-crafts demonstrations and art fairs; from coffee klatches to bridge groups; from girl and boy scout meetings to holiday parties and picnics.

One of the most successful of the educational programs is the Barrington Square Cooperative Preschool, which began six months ago and now has received an Illinois state license. Volunteer mothers initiated the ground work for the Preschool's formation and now members of the cooperative committee are responsible for its operation. They hired a teacher to direct the preschool and to plan the curriculum. Toys, books and other items were donated and, in some cases even hand-made, by parents in the community.

Mothers of children under 2½ years of age, who are not old enough to attend the Preschool, have helped plan an informal playgroup which they supervise on a volunteer basis.

For children aged six to twelve years, Barrington Square families have formed scout troops. Guitar and tumbling classes are held at the Club. Other plans for the future include instruction in baton twirling, cheerleading, tennis and swimming.

Volunteer adults work along with teens and assist with their plans in a Teen Club. The Teen Club arranges for speakers for its meetings. Presently, the Teen Club members are putting together their film on the lifestyle at Barrington Square, which they plan to show homeowners.

The Men's Club and the Women's Club provide a variety of activities for their respective members. The Men's Club is mainly sports-oriented. They play touch football on the weekends and plan to enter their baseball team again this year in the local area league. The Women's Club members have organized a series of monthly meetings which have included fashion shows; recipe-tasting-and-trading; and lectures by various speakers.

A Garden Club is another facet of the adult activity program. Another group is the Ecology Club. Bridge is another activity which is enjoyed by many adults. There is a couples' bridge club; a marathon women's group; afternoon women's bridge session; and a new evening course of instruction.

The two-and three-bedroom townhomes at Barrington Square range in price from $24,990 to $32,990. The model townhomes are open for inspection daily and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and on Saturdays 6 p.m.

VERY ORIGINAL.

We call it The 14th Colony. You'll probably call it revolutionary. It's located in the scenic Fox River Valley countryside about a half mile east of Batavia. The 14th Colony is a settlement for families who value such old-fashioned virtues as good taste and community pride. It has been carefully planned with vital protections written into every deed, in the same manner Arthur T. McIntosh & Company has established the enviable communities of Inverness, Prestwick and Farmington. And it's very original. Each piece of land is irregular about one-third of an acre. The homes are inspired by Early Americana and reflect tasteful architecture and craftsmanship rarely found in the homes of today. The detailing is exquisite and warm touches of elegance abound in quarry tile foyers, beamed ceilings, curving staircases, oak floors, huge raised hearth fireplaces and wood paneling. All are built with honest quality. And while we believe in independence, every homesite has water, sewer and underground utilities. You can homestead at the 14th Colony from $38,750 to $55,000 including the fully improved homesite. Our boundaries are open every day-10 am till dark.

Buy your homesite now under contract. If you are planning to build in the future, or wish to invest in land, you can purchase your 14th Colony homesite direct from Arthur T. McIntosh & Co.—20% down, 7% simple interest.* Homesites range from $9,000 to $12,800.

*Example—$10,000 purchase, $2000 down, 84 monthly payments of $120.75, 7% annual percentage rate.

Centex-Winston Opens Homesites

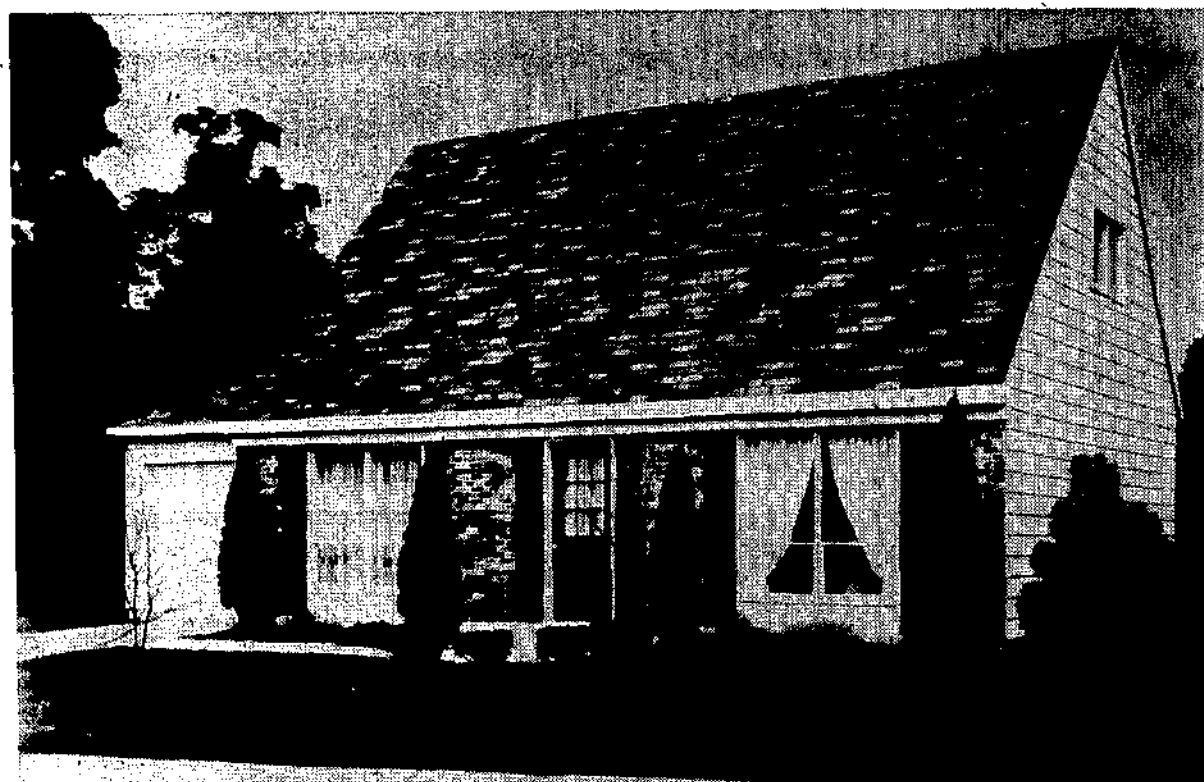

Winston Park South, a new community being built by Centex-Winston Corp. at Crawford and 175th Street in Country Club Hills, has announced the opening of the last 17 lots in Unit Four. These sites are located on cul de sacs.

Five models are featured. The Brighton split level is a popular choice for families who desire a three bedroom home now, with the option of finishing the lower level in the future. The Aberdeen, a three-bedroom, one bath ranch is priced at $24,450; the Coventry, an expandable Cape Cod is available with two bedrooms and one bath and an unfinished upper level for expansion later as family needs change. It is priced at $25,450 or finished as a four bedroom two bath home at $27,950.

The Devon mid-level features two options — a two-bedroom, one bath home (with living room, dining room and kitchen) with the lower level unfinished priced at $26,450 or with the lower level completely finished with family room, bath and two bedrooms priced at $28,950.

The Edinburgh, is a four-bedroom, one bath ranch priced at $24,950. Optional attached one-car garages are available with all homes except the Brighton which provides a one car garage as a standard feature.

Carpeting, ceramic wall tile in the bath and vinyl asbestos floor tile are standard features at all homes in Winston Park South. Also included in the price of each home are: washer, dryer, free-standing range and oven with power exhaust hood, and frost-free refrigerator. Homebuyers may substitute a dish-

When you're selling or buying a home, the job is made easier when you have expert help.

And Baird & Warner can give you all kinds of it.

We have over 200 full-time salespeople in 28 offices, serving 60 Chicagoland communities.

Our salespeople reach thousands of buyers and sellers each day, so they know exactly where to find a buyer for the home you are selling, or the home you want to buy.

We also provide a free executive relocation service (called RESET) for companies transferring executives to and from the Chicago area.

And our sales message rings out loud and clear, backed by an advertising program that includes 7 day metro newspapers, over 100 community papers, Time Magazine, O'Hare dioramas, and outdoor billboards.

In short, you can expect more effective help from us than from any other real estate company in the whole Chicago area. So call Baird & Warner. And get moving.

Kole Is Hosting Television Show

Forms of home ownership will be discussed on TV Sunday, April 9, by two Northwest Suburban attorneys.

James S. Sheldon of Des Plaines, vice president and trust officer of First National Bank of Des Plaines, and John R. Rafferty, city prosecutor for the City of Rolling Meadows where he is a resident, will appear as guests of Realtor Robert A. Kole on his weekly program The Many Worlds of Real Estate. The show is aired in color Sunday at 2:30 p.m. on Channel 44.

How To Hold Title To Your Home is the topic for the April 9 program, fifth in a 13-week series, said Kole, president of Kole Real Estate, Ltd. He is presenting the series to inform the public of the many phases of buying and maintaining a home, and to showcase the listings from his six offices in the Northwest suburbs.

Wendy Wassell, reading and speech teacher at Brentwood Elementary School in Des Plaines (District 59) is announcer for the series.

A graduate of John Marshall Law School, Rafferty specializes in real estate transactions in his law practice. He is former chairman of the zoning board of appeals in Rolling Meadows and currently the city's prosecutor.

Sheldon has headed First National Bank's Trust Department since 1966, and previously served as tax counsel for the trust department of one of Chicago's largest banks. He holds degrees in economics and law from The University of Illinois in Champaign.

What To Look For In A Home was the subject of Kole's television show aired on Easter Sunday, with Harold Thelin of the Federal Housing Administration and William Saari, real estate editor of Chicago Today as guests.

Future programs will cover such topics as New Home or A Pre-Owned Home? How to Shop For A Mortgage, Closing The Deal On The Home, Tips For Selling Your Own Home, and The Attorney and His Role. This latter topic will be discussed on the May 21 program, when Jack Rafferty will again be a guest.

Kole Real Estate, Ltd. offices are located in Rolling Meadows, Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights and Wheeling, with corporate headquarters at 208 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect.

Course Opening Set For May 22

May 22 has been set as the date for the grand opening of Hildale Villages new championship golf course, located in Hoffman Estates.

The par 72 course was designed by Robert Trent Jones, Jr., along with other golfing professionals, will be among the guests invited to the opening ceremonies.

The rolling, partially wooded 6,500 yard course features five water holes, several doglegs, narrow fairways and large greens. The minimum size of the greens is 9,000 square feet, with a maximum of 14,000 square feet.

The clubhouse will include a pro shop, stocked with a complete line of golfing accessories and equipment. A restaurant adjacent to the course is also due to open in time for the summer season. Both motorized and manual carts will be available on a rental basis. A professional greenskeeping staff of 12 persons will also be on hand to maintain and groom the course.

The course will be managed by the Branigan Organization of Medinah, a recreational and leisure land developing firm. Branigan also manages Midlane Country Club, Buffalo Grove Country Club, Indian Lakes Country Club, and Sportsmans Country Club, all located in the Chicago area.

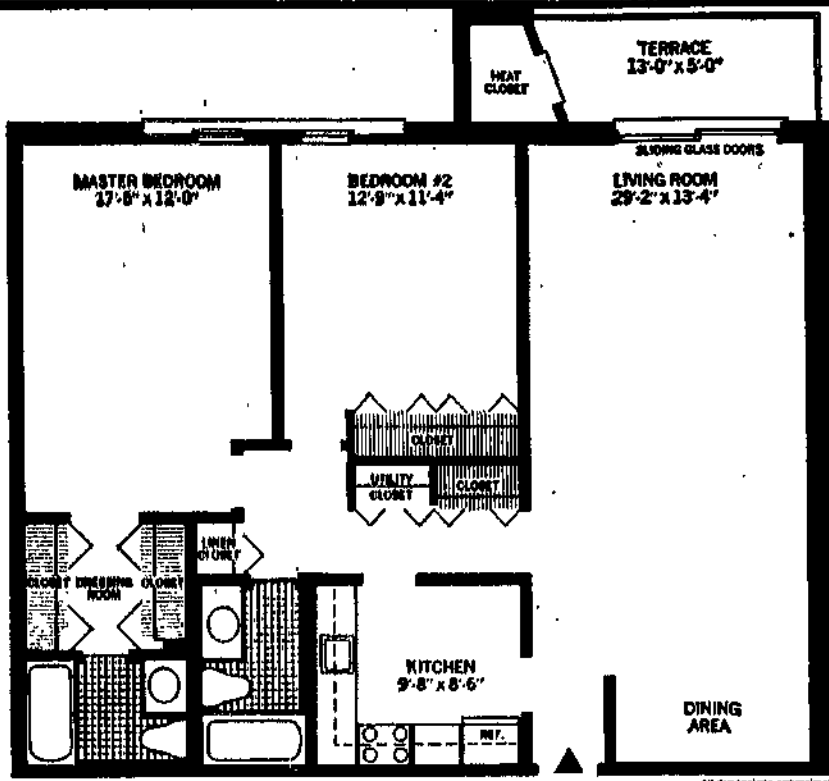

The golf course is situated around the 250 acre Hildale Villages apartment complex. Tenants will receive a free membership for the 1972 season.

The Country Club and Hildale apartment community is located on Higgins Road (Rt. 72), one mile east of Barrington Road in Hoffman Estates.

Deal With Radiator

If you are planning to give your home a new look, plan every detail. According to the Chicagoland Better Heating-Cooling Council, many of the failures of home modernization can be traced to neglect of the heating system.

For instance, if you plan to panel your den, make sure you do something about the free standing radiators. One way to deal with large radiators, says the council, is to replace them with modern hydronic (hot water) baseboard heating panels. Standing no higher than your ankles, hydronic baseboard panels are unobtrusive. They can be painted to blend or contrast with the room decor.

$26,000 buys this 2-bedroom, 2-bath condominium in Palatine.

Lack Of Luxury Drawing Buyers

The lack — rather than the lap of luxury — is the aim of millions of Americans, according to Sabino Marinella, senior vice president-finance, Continental Investment Corp., Boston. He identifies these millions as avid hunters, fishermen, and outdoor enthusiasts who are buying undeveloped land at a record rate.

Continental Investment, whose shares are traded on the New York Stock Exchange, is a national financial services and real estate-oriented organization managing assets of over $4 billion and whose subsidiaries include: Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston, a leading insurer of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans; Diversified Advisers, Inc., Coral Gables, Florida, investment adviser to Diversified Mortgage Investors, a Boston-based real estate trust; American Lakes & Land Company, Memphis, developers of leisure homesite communities; and Waddell & Reed, Inc., Kansas City, and John P. Chase, Inc.,

Boston, mutual fund groups whose assets exceed $3.4 billion. Waddell & Reed's domestic and Canadian life insurance subsidiaries have over $1 billion of life insurance in force.

"People who consider a week-end in a motel as 'roughing it' will not understand," says Marinella, "but these outdoorsmen will spend more than $7.2 billion in 1972 to get outdoors where there are no conveniences and where they follow their own particular leisure-time activities."

In addition, he notes, it is estimated that in 1972 the total spent by such sportsmen for recreational land and dwellings will reach $8 billion.

"The property off-times is not improved at all. Half of the people buying undeveloped land use it merely as a campsite where tents or other temporary structures are erected."

"Our studies show that about 27 per cent use the location for a trailer, camper or other semi-permanent structure. About 15 per cent see the land as an eventual site for a leisure or second home. Some 10 per cent leave the land entirely undisturbed," Marinella said.

The average cost of a plot — roughly four acres — of undeveloped land removed from urban areas will run between $800 and $1,400 depending on the location and the section of the country, Marinella notes. In many areas, it is substantially more, perhaps up to $1,000 an acre or more for plots with water fronttage and easy access.

"There are almost 40 million hunters and fishermen — 6 per cent of these are expected to acquire undeveloped land in 1972. You can anticipate that about 2.4 million people in all age groups from 18 up will be headed for the woods in 1972 looking for a plot of land of their own.

Kunkel Firm Named Agent Open Apartments

Wm. L. Kunkel & Co. Realtors, has been named exclusive sales agent for the new Kingsberry Homes Subdivision on Thacker St. between Wolf and Mount Prospect Roads in Des Plaines. The development will consist of 80 new Kingsberry Homes manufactured by the Boise Cascade Co. and now under construction by Poess Builders, Inc. of Harwood Heights.

The signing of this exclusive sales contract took place recently at Kunkel's Des Plaines office. It was attended by Ralph H. Martin, vice president of Kunkel; Ernest G. Schlanbusch, Kunkel sales manager for the Kingsberry project; Jack Schuepfer, president of Poess Builders, Inc. and David A. Brown, sales representative for Boise Cascade Kingsberry Homes.

Five different Kingsberry models are offered, each with different floor plans, exterior elevations, a choice of outside finishes and many deluxe extras. Buyers may select from homes with three or four bedrooms, one, one-and-one-half or two baths, one, one-and-one-half or two car garages, basements and recreation rooms on certain models. Model homes are now on display and are open every Saturday and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Glenwood Apartments being built by Riverwoods Development Corp. in Glenview feature living rooms averaging 20 feet by 15 feet in size.

Glenwood Apartments include one, two and three-bedroom residences, priced from $215, $275 and $325 respectively, in a group of 10 buildings. There are two, five-story elevator buildings, each with 45 apartments, including one and two-bedroom residences. Eight, two-story buildings, each include 22 apartments, including one, two and three-bedrooms. Each unit has a separate dining room located next to a kitchen with counter space and a breakfast area. The kitchens also have separate entrances to the hallway for service use. The size of living rooms varies with the floor plan.

The master bedrooms in all apartments measure 16 feet by 11 feet with private bathrooms. Some also feature walk-in closets. The second bedrooms in each apartment can be used as dens, and have their own private full bathrooms.

Glenwood Apartments are located on a 17-acre site. The buildings all overlook the landscaped park areas with their recreational facilities. The facilities, for the use of residents, include a swimming pool and a free-form children's playground. There is also an outdoor putting green and croquet lawn for summer use.

Other features included at Glenwood Apartments are air-conditioning, private patios or balconies, and fully-applianced kitchens, each with built-in hooded gas range, refrigerator/freezer, dishwasher and custom wood cabinets. The bathrooms are ceramic-tiled and some residences include woodburning fireplaces.

Announce Recent Schaumburg Sale

Richard R. LaReno, president of Industrial Development Engineering Associates, a division of Arthur Rubloff & Co., announced the completion of negotiations for the sale of land in Schaumburg Industrial Park totaling over $200,000.

Lederer Industries, Inc. has purchased approximately seven and one-half acres for future development in the industrial park. Plans call for construction to begin in the spring of 1972 of an incubator-type building with 30 to 50 units ranging in size from 1,400 to 4,000 square feet. This will become one of the largest buildings of this type in the area, said LaReno.

LaReno and vice presidents Willard A. Brown Jr. and Lee Miglin of Arthur Rubloff & Co., were co-brokers in the negotiations. LaReno represented the seller. Brown and Miglin represented Lederer Industries.

Schaumburg Industrial park is a joint development of Arthur Rubloff & Co., Chicago-based real estate firm, and the State Mutual Life Assurance Co. of America.

Briefly on Business

by LEA TONKIN

CENTURY 2 CONFERENCE was held recently in Chicago by Montgomery Ward, celebrating the firm's 100th year of business. Among the participants was F. W. Bryant, Ward's store manager at the Randhurst store in Mount Prospect. More than 700 Ward managers from across the country gathered for the meeting, according to company president Edward S. Donnell. A review of merchandising plans was included in the program.

MERIT AWARD in the environmental improvement awards program of the Associated Landscape Contractors of America (ALCA) was recently presented to the Ronald A. Ahlman of Arlington Heights and Clarence R. Lawrence of Morton Grove. They are the principals of the Dundee-based landscape contracting firm, Lawrence and Ahlman, Inc. The firm was recognized for a landscaping project at the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago. The planning concepts included the provision for simulated natural habitats for zoo animals, and their display wherever possible without the visual confinement of bars. The design award was presented at the recent ALCA annual meeting and exhibit in Las Vegas, Nev.

HARRY M. GAGE, president of O'Hare International Bank, Chicago, has been elected to the board of directors of All American Life & Financial Corp. Gage joined O'Hare Bank in September, 1971, as president and chief executive officer. He previously had been in charge of the national division of one of the major California banks. In February the Bank's first officer-director conference was held at Harrison House in Lake Bluff for the purpose of reviewing the goals and plans for the future growth of the bank. Alan Johnson, vice president, Continental Bank, Chicago, was a guest speaker.

ANNE GEORGES has been named saleswoman of the month for the Des Plaines office of Kote Real Estate, Ltd., according to Robert A. Kote, president. She recorded sales and listings totaling $300,000 for the month of February, making her the top lister and seller for this period in the local Kote operations. She started her real estate career in Kote's Mount Prospect office, transferring to the Des Plaines office two months ago. A Des Plaines resident for 10 years, Miss Georges formerly was with A. B. Dick & Co. in Niles for 19 years. She served in the U.S. Navy as a WAVE.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & Co.'s 5,261 employees in the Chicago area have earned the Crusade of Mercy Silver Award for outstanding employee campaigns. They are one of 50 organizations in the entire metropolitan area to earn the award which is given to campaigns where 50 per cent to 75 per cent of employees pledge Fair Share gifts to the Crusade — 1 per cent of annual salary or one day's pay. Carson's employees pledged per capita gifts of $30.22. The Crusade of Mercy conducts an annual campaign on behalf of the Community Fund of Chicago, the Mid-America Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Suburban Community Chest Council and its 92 participating churches and funds covering 155 suburban communities. The annual Crusade is conducted at a cost of 5 per cent. Pledges to the 1971 campaign have reached $30,150,000.

RECENT ANNUAL meeting of Zonolite Roof Deck Applicators was held in Port

St. Lucie, Fla. The sub-contracting firm of Hoge-Warren-Zimmermann Co., Rolling Meadows, was honored for 20 years' service as an approved Zonolite roof deck applicator. On hand for the presentation were Ted Johnston, vice president of the applicators firm; Dick Bonkamp, of Hoge-Warren-Zimmermann's Cincinnati office; and Tom Egan, Zonolite regional manager for Construction Products Division, W. R. Grace & Co.

Hallgren Notes 45 Years With Company

Clarence A. Hallgren, 2808 W. South St., Rolling Meadows, is celebrating his 45th anniversary at GTE Automatic Electric, Northlake.

Hallgren, a quality evaluation inspector in the technical services department, joined the communications equipment manufacturing company as an assembler of telephone parts. He advanced to adjuster in the same department, and has spent most of his career in inspection work.

Insure Home Comfort

One way to make sure that your home is comfortable is to place your heating distributors on all outside walls, against the cold.

This advice comes from the Chicago-Land Better Heating-Cooling Council who adds that hydronic (modern hot water) baseboard heating panels can be installed the entire length of the wall. At ankle height they erect a curtain of warmth against the cold.

Den Is Featured In Condominiums

The condominiums at Chatterton, a 56-unit, six-story elevator building developed by Charles G. Matthies, Inc. in River Forest, are selling well. This is the report of Charles G. Matthies, president of the firm.

Chatterton condominiums range from 1,800 square feet to 2,165 square feet in the two-bedroom-with-den residences. Size is important to former single-family home owners who are used to lots of space and have furnishings to fill it, said Matthies.

At Chatterton, there are three different floor plans for the two-bedroom-with-den residences. They feature living rooms as large as 27 feet x 16 feet, separate dining rooms (up to 17 feet x 12 feet), and master bedroom suites with private bathrooms and walk-in closets. The master bedroom itself is about 18 feet x 12 feet. The second bedrooms and dens are each at least 12 feet square as are the spacious kitchens, each with large breakfast area. These units have either 2 or 2½ baths.

The den, which is convertible to a third bedroom, can be used in a number of ways. It can be decorated as a library/study, studio or family room.

The prices of the two-bedroom-with-den condominiums at Chatterton begin at $42,800. All come fully carpeted, and with complete kitchen appliances including refrigerator/freezer, oven and range, sink with disposal, dishwasher, formica counter tops and custom-wood cabinets. The bathrooms are ceramic-tiled and have dressing table vanities. Each unit is centrally air-conditioned and gas heated. There is private outdoor parking while optional indoor heated-garage parking with electrically-operated doors, is available.

Chatterton is located at 407-411 Ashland Ave., 1/2 block south of Lake St. and one mile west of Harlem Ave. in River Forest. Furnished model condominiums are open weekdays and on Saturdays and Sundays, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

TWO-BEDROOM-WITH-DEN residences in three floor Forest. The project by Charles G. Matthies, Inc., features 56 units in six-story structure.

Bell Reports Housing Surge

The total number of housing units for which permits were issued in February, in the six county Chicago metropolitan area, exceeded those reported for the same month last year by 43 per cent. This was reported in the Bell Federal Savings Survey of New Building.

The combined totals of single and multiple units, for which permits were issued last month, climbed to 2,432 exceeding the 1,597 reported in February, 1971.

The significant increase occurred in multi-family units which reported a whopping increase of 80 per cent last month over the same period of last year. In February, 1971 only 804 apartment units were reported while 1,448 were recorded in February of this year. In the apartment category the City of Chicago rose significantly from 28 to 252; suburbs jumped 717 to 927; and the unincorporated areas climbed from 59 to 269.

Single family structures continued their rise from 893 in February, 1971 to 984 last month, an increase of 10 per cent. Within this classification the unincorporated sections posted the greatest increment reporting a 30 per cent rise (140 to 182). Suburban townships increased 7 per cent going to 732 in February, 1972 from 684 in the same period last year. The City of Chicago was practically a standoff in single family homes reporting 69 in February, 1971 and 70 in February of this year.

Debbie Berg Promoted At 'Y'

Debbie Berg of Rolling Meadows recently became assistant aquatic program director at the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines.

Debbie Berg

Debbie is not a newcomer to the "Y". She started as a Day Camp Counselor in 1967 and joined the part-time pool staff in September of that year. She has been active in teaching all phases of aquatics, including porpoise and lifesaving. She has attained all three levels of leadership training, the most current being an aquatic director swimming rating. In addition to her swimming duties and assisting Nicki Doehler, aquatic program director, she will be teaching in the gym. She attended Harper College for two years and then transferred to Northern Illinois University where she received a bachelor of science degree in education. While at NIU she received her major in physical education, and became actively involved in intercollegiate sports. She is also a member of Alpha Phi Sorority.

Pitfalls And Pleasures Of Buying Country Home

by LEA TONKIN

Making the transition from city slicker to country folk can be a rewarding experience. Millions of Americans are making the great escape to a golden years retirement home, a weekend Shangri-la or a working farm.

Although some of the "escapees" do not build a permanent residence at their country retreat, the boom in second homes tells part of the story. Last year, according to the National Association of Home Builders, 85,000 second, or vacation, homes were built in the U.S. The figure is expected to reach 180,000 by 1980.

This land rush is boosting the prices for rural property. Yet even the most determined and sophisticated seeker of a tranquility in the boondocks needs a working knowledge of the nitty-gritty in buying country property, contends real estate man, banker and builder, Irving Price.

Leafing through a catalog of rural properties in the market or drives through the countryside won't be much help when it comes time to translate your fantasized country estate into reality, Price warns. There are pitfalls and pleasures in the purchase of country property, he warns.

Price is currently on a cross-country tour to promote his new book, "Buying Country Property." In an interview last week, he discussed the growing interest in rural properties and the need for sound consumer information in this area.

He'll offer an easy smile and a handshake to anyone interested in chatting about the "country way." Born and raised on a fruit and dairy farm in upstate New York, Price will reminisce about his memories of early rising, berry-picking and simply enjoying the outdoors.

As a 25-year veteran of the real estate industry and president of Hudson Michael Realty, Inc., in New York, Price is excited at the prospect of booming trade in country properties. Yet he is amused at the willingness of many urban dwellers to buy a home in the sticks without taking precautions to insure the investment.

His tell-it-like-it-is approach to land investment in the country offers counsel for would-be country gentlemen. Too many couples looking for a retirement or vacation home have been financially and physically unprepared for this way of life, he warns.

Would your average realty super-salesman fill you in on the real meaning behind those catchy ads for country homes? Price maintains that disclosure of the drawbacks as well as the attractions of country property is part of the salesman's responsibility.

He's good-naturedly compiled a glossary of terms in touting rural real estate. For example a "country kitchen" could mean four walls and an old sink; "good drainage" might well be a big ditch; "amenities" could indicate electric lights; and nearby cultural center might mean a Grange hall with a bulletin board, Price said.

Getting down to the serious business of buying a place in the country, Price laments the tendency of many families to invest in rural property hundreds of miles from home without so much as a visual inspection. The family of limited means would be better off investing in property close to home they can enjoy as a weekend retreat, he says, rather than investing in out-of-state property.

Buying country property solely as a means of amassing a fortune involves more know-how than the average buyer can muster, according to Price. True, the value of many country properties has risen substantially over the years, but appraisals can also swing downward, he said.

The hardy soul who'd like to save a few dollars in commissions to seek out country properties unassisted, should beware the pitfalls of the business, Price says. He advises potential country dwellers to seek out and befriend a local real estate professional, a reputable "country" attorney with a knowledge of area real estate practices and a local banker.

Only through careful investigation can the buyer of rural property be assured that his country estate materializes, according to Price. This means the documentation of a safe, adequate supply of water; certification of adequate sewage disposal system; certified land survey to protect your investment; and title insurance.

The antiquated land assessment practices in many rural areas can and should be investigated, Price warns. If a property is sold for the first time in many years the property taxes could skyrocket. Inadequate zoning can also pave the way for deterioration of a country area, he said. The cost of installing utilities in rural areas can be high.

Financing is another subject to be studied carefully, Price advises. Banks may not be willing to finance unimproved property so alternate means may be used.

Additional considerations confront the buyer of lakeside property, warns Price. And a good way to break up a friendship is to buy a country property in partnership with other families, he adds.

The American Dream of going "back to the land" for your daily bread can turn into the American nightmare, he cautions. Price has talked with many professionals in other fields who wanted to take up full-time farming. Those who go into the business without a knowledge of the hazards are often in serious financial condition within a short time, he said.

He'll tell you about the idiosyncrasies of country folk. In Price's mind the charm of country homes and people far outweighs the hazard of moving to the boondocks. He doesn't want to scare the city slickers, Price insists, but to help them to make an easy transition to new way of life.

Announces Lease

Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates has announced that J. E. Bernard Company has entered into a long term sublease for the one story 30,618 square foot building located at 1111 Nicholas Boulevard, Elk Grove Village.

The building is being subleased from American Machine & Foundry for a total term consideration in excess of $380,000. Their move represents a consolidation of their office space and warehousing facilities from three different locations.

Brokers in this transaction were Donald W. Schaumberger and Robert A. Stone of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates.

Way Out Of Your Lease

Maybe you've been transferred suddenly to another city, or there's been a change in your family status, or you've lost your job. These can be among the many conditions that can lead you to seek a way out of your apartment lease ahead of time.

If you've ever found yourself in any of these situations, you may have discovered that ending your lease ahead of time is not an easy task. "The reason is, frankly, that sub-leasing and re-leasing cost money," said William D. Sally, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., and general manager of the firm's property management division.

"For one thing, there's the administrative paperwork involved. For another, move-ins and move-outs disrupt the building and often result in some damage to the halls, elevators, and apartments themselves. Therefore, owners and managers are not anxious to encourage sub-leasing or releasing."

However, if your situation is such that trying to get out of the lease ahead of time seems necessary, your first step should be to check with your building's agent or owner. They will advise you of what steps must be taken.

"A number of the units we manage change tenants each year through re-leasing, so we are quite familiar with what's involved and what apartment dwellers should know about," Sally said.

To begin with, there's a significant difference between subleasing and re-leasing. Under a sublease assignment, a new tenant agrees to take over the unexpired portion of your lease. But you still remain legally responsible for the rent, any damages, and following the building rules. If the new tenant defaults in any way, the building owner can collect from you.

"Most owners will refuse to give permission to sublease for short periods, because of the damage caused by two move-ins and move-outs and because they don't want a transient tenant who may only stay a few months," Sally said. "We think subleasing assignment is a poor method for both tenant and owner, which is why Baird & Warner will consider only re-leasing."

In re-leasing the building manager writes an entirely new lease for a full term for the new tenant. Only after this new lease is negotiated and signed does the building manager cancel the unexpired portion of your lease and you are then freed from all further responsibility, your security deposit is returned, and the new resident has the obligation to meet the lease terms.

The management agent or owner must agree in writing with the tenant to the transaction: this is clearly stated in the original lease, said Sally. The present tenant is responsible for finding the new tenant, while the manager or owner has the privilege of accepting or rejecting him.

Because of the administrative processing involved, the present tenant has to pay the management agent a fee or charge for handling the procedure, plus any penalty charges.

"Many tenants misunderstand this part of re-leasing," Sally said. "They think that written permission is all that's needed, and then they're surprised when they learn money is involved, but someone has to pay for the extra work involved in terminating a contract ahead of time and installing a new tenant on all records. Since the present tenant is asking for the change, he has to pay the bill." This charge varies from building to building, and may be a flat charge or a percentage of the unexpired rent.

Another item that may vary is the rent asked under the re-lease. Assuming that normal market conditions prevail, apartment demand is high, and that rents aren't frozen, the manager or owner may ask a higher rent on a re-lease, even though the existing lease still has several months to go at a lower rent.

Or, if market conditions are soft and the vacancy rate is higher than normal, the agency may be accommodating and write the re-lease at the rent level of the former lease. If he estimates that demand for this type of apartment will increase in the future, he can write the re-lease so that the old rent applies for a part of the lease, and then a higher rent comes into effect for the rest of the term.

Young Builders Slate Meeting

The Young Builders Council of the Home Builders Association of Chicago-Land will hear about financial and legal aspects of condominiums when they meet on Wednesday, April 12. The meeting will be held at Armando's Restaurant in Chicago, according to Jerry Wilke of 3H Building Corp., president.

A cocktail hour at 6 p.m. will be followed by dinner at 7 p.m.

Dominic Cannon, president of Mortgage Investment Service and a lawyer, will discuss conventional and insured condominiums with an emphasis on quadrangle.

Reservations for the meeting can be made by calling Diane Moore at the Home Builders office, 782-9657.

This is known as an "escalator."

The actual terms of re-leasing are often subject to negotiation between the present tenant, the new tenant, and the management agent or owner. The point is, Sally emphasized, that the present tenant remains liable under the old lease until a new contract is signed.

"Tenants who are extremely anxious to terminate their present lease may use incentives to attract prospects to take over the apartment," he said. Some tenants will agree to leave something in the apartment to increase its livability, such as curtains or draperies, a shower curtain, or some carpeting. Others will assign their security deposit to the new tenant. This may amount to several hundred dollars to the prospective new tenant. A lower monthly rent. A third incentive is cash to the prospective new tenant. Depending on the amount, this may be cheaper than paying the balance of the rent on the unexpired lease.

There is one other situation where sub-leasing or re-leasing may be involved, and that's in the case of death. Unless a death clause has been inserted in the lease, the estate of the deceased is liable for the rest of the rent. The executor may then seek to negotiate a sublease or re-lease with the building manager.

Illinois Bell Has New Office

The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. has signed a lease for approximately 12,000 square feet of space in the Suburban National Bank Building, 100 E. Northwest Highway, Palatine. Strobeck, Reiss & Co., Realtors, made the announcement.

The space, located on the fifth and sixth floors, has undergone major remodeling in order to house the telephone company's Arlington Heights Business Service Center and Marketing Department.

Harold K. MacCarthy of Strobeck, Reiss represented Illinois Bell in the leasing negotiations. Michael Krozorek of Centex-Winston Corp., represented the building.

The large master bedroom suite (21 by 17 feet) includes full walk-in closet space as well as a sitting area off to one side. A private bath is also featured in the master suite.

Downstairs, a central entry foyer gives direct access to either the large 20 foot living room, kitchen or family room.

The kitchen area is 13 by 10 feet and includes custom made cabinetry, built-in oven, dishwasher and garbage disposal, plus a double-bowl sink coordinated to the owners choice of appliance colors. It is centrally located between the utility room and the breakfast area.

The 20 by 13 foot family room is wood-paneled and includes a fireplace. Sliding doors make for easy access to an outside patio.

The exterior of the home contains face brick on all sides, plus a choice of aluminum or rough-sawn cedar siding. A two-car attached garage is also included. The home is situated on a 75 by 135 foot landscaped lot.

The second model is the Kingsbridge and is priced at $62,500. It is the "big brother" of the Queensford. In total, this colonial styled home contains 12 rooms with over 3,000 square feet of living area, not including a two-car attached garage and full basement.

On the second floor of the Kingsbridge, there are four twin-sized bedrooms in addition to the 23-foot master suite. Reached through a double-door entry, the suite includes a private sitting room, full-sized bath and a walk-in closet. A second upstairs bath features a double-bowl vanity.

The wood-railed stairway spirals down from the second floor to a 20-foot reception foyer. The large hallway is unique and useful offering circulation to every part of the home.

The downstairs is comprised of a living and dining room. The U-shaped kitchen features custom cabinetry, a built-in oven, range, dishwasher and garbage disposal.

A special feature of the Kingsbridge is the 14-foot study or "sixth" bedroom, located on the main floor. A double-door entry separates it from the 20-foot family room. Thus, with the doors open, families can enjoy the added room when entertaining.

Again, a choice of aluminum or rough-sawn cedar siding is offered along with a 75 by 135 foot lot, landscaped. A porch sheltering the front entryway is also included.

The third model, the Tiffany, is a U-shaped one level ranch home containing four bedrooms and two full baths, and priced at $57,800. The heavily traveled areas of the household, including the living room, family room and kitchen, are on one side of the home, with the bedroom area on the opposite side.

The family room features a raised hearth fireplace. Kitchen appliances include a built-in oven, range, dishwasher and garbage disposal. The front entrance is enhanced by a large inner courtyard, adding a Mediterranean flair to the home.

A full basement and two-car attached garage along with a paved concrete driveway, and big 75 by 135 foot landscaped lot are also included.

Kenilwicke is located on Hicks Road, one half mile south of Dundee Road (Rt. 68) in Palatine.

Trusts Furnish Building Funds

There are many real estate investors who do not actually own any real estate.

"Impossible? Not at all," said Durand A. Holladay, of Continental Mortgage Investors, Boston, Mass. Continental Mortgage, the nation's largest real estate trust in mortgage lending, has made more than $1 billion in mortgage loans since 1962.

"These are people who considered investments in real estate but didn't think they had sufficient funds," he explains. "or they were wary of the complexities of real estate investing — or both." They purchased shares of real estate investment trusts (REITs).

This means of investing in real estate is made possible by the way the trusts are structured, Holladay said. "They operate much in the same manner as mutual funds, providing diversification of investment and professional management. The difference — and a big one — is that mutual funds invest in corporate securities, while REITs invest in real estate, mortgages, or both."

"Thus, as shareholders in a real estate trust, investors may have an interest in a host of real estate projects — shopping centers, office buildings, apartment complexes, industrial facilities, leisure homesite developments," Holladay said.

He points out that in addition to being a simple means of investing in real estate — with diversification and professional management in a complex area — REITs offer another advantage which is attracting the small investor. "The real estate trusts are required to distribute at least 90 per cent of their ordinary income to their shareholders in order to maintain their tax-exempt status. The trusts pay no tax on this distribution," he explains. "In case of corporate securities, on the other hand, the company pays an income tax on its profits before distribution to shareholders. Then, the shareholder is taxed on the dividends he receives — in effect, a double tax."

Holladay said the real estate construction industry in 1972 and beyond will require more and greater infusions of capital which will be furnished by well-managed trusts.

MAP TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

SPRING TIME IS HOME SHOPPERS TIME!

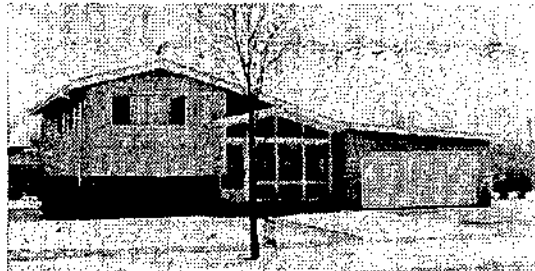

Generally speaking, there is really no bad time to sell a home, but it is safe to assume that of all the seasons, Spring is generally considered the most active period for home buyer interest.

Obviously, as the days become longer, the brightness of early Spring brings more home buyers out to look around and see what is available on the home market.

If you are thinking of putting your home on the market, anytime is a good time but Spring time is generally considered the best because of the increased activity in home buying interest. We recommend you do things to help sell your home quickly and economically.

1. Make any necessary repairs to the home including all needed cleaning and minor decorating (this will enhance the value of the home considerably) and...

2. Call a M.A.P. Multiple Listing Service Real Estate office for the professional service that assures you of guaranteed satisfaction.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

You can still get a spacious Village on the Lake condominium at no increase in price.

But not for long.

Building One is already sold out. And there are just a few homes left in Building Two.

Every week, more people take to condominium living at Village on the Lake. It's all here.

Just 35 minutes from the Loop. And a stone's throw from all the good things surrounding Elk Grove Village.

Your choice of one- or two-bedroom homes, in a variety of spacious floor plans. For room to live as you've always wanted.

Air conditioning, appliances, wall-to-wall carpeting and private balcony are included.

The landscaping? Beautiful. And carefully tended by your maintenance crew. So you never have to lift a finger.

But you're sure to find a way to pass the time in your private social room, on your own 35-acre lake, or by your own swimming pool and tennis courts.

Meanwhile, you build up valuable equity while enjoying the tax benefits of owning your own home.

And you pay as little as $217.83* per month, for a $21,000, one-bedroom home.

We'll even offer to buy your present home, if it qualifies. Fair enough?

Don't delay. With Building One already sold out, can Building Two be far behind?

Models open daily, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday to 5 p.m.

Exit the Northwest Tollway at Route 53 south. Drive four miles to Biesterfeld Road. Then turn east to Village on the Lake (two blocks past Alexian Brothers Medical Center). Phone 593-0340.

McKeon Features New Development

Fremont Junction in Hanover Park will contain 552 "Quad-Plus" homes, a housing concept McKeon Construction introduced in California (as the California Four, a McKeon Service Mark). McKeon is currently selling Quad-Plex type homes on the West Coast at a rate of more than 5,000 per year. Fremont Junction represents the builder's first project in the Midwest.

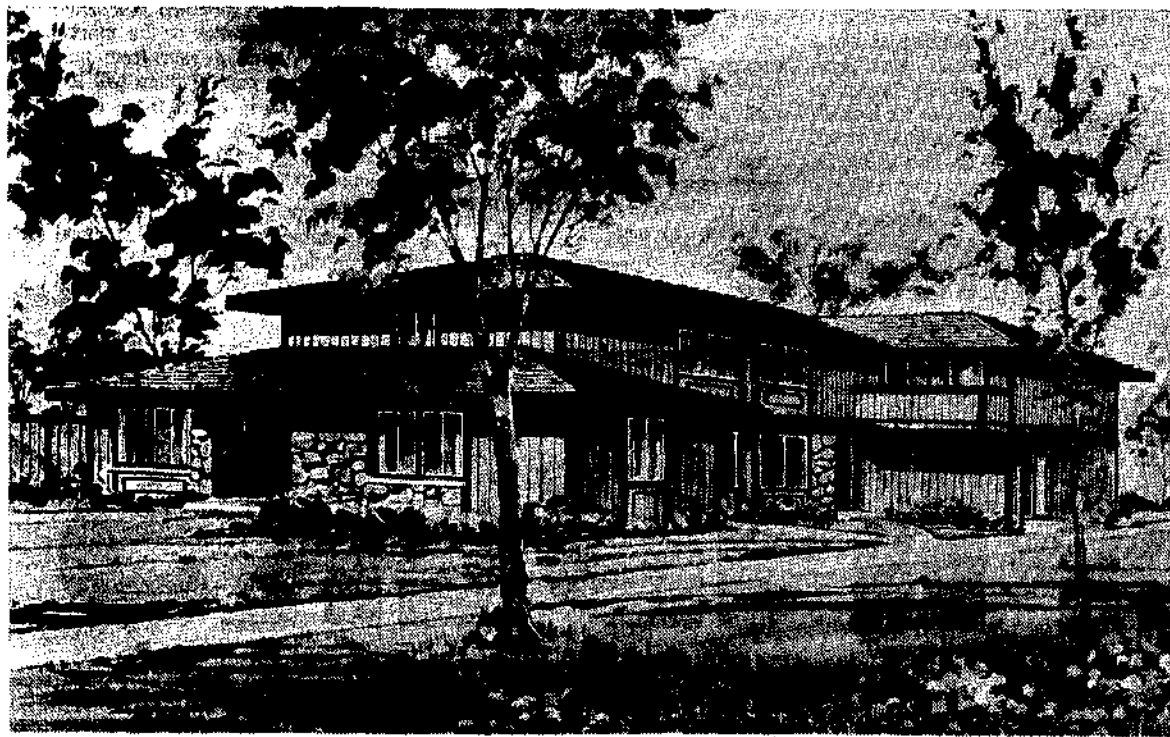

According to Frank A. Martin, president of McKeon's Chicago division, the Quad-Plus homes of Fremont Junction will include features such as private enclosed garden patios, central air conditioning, walk-to-wall carpet even in the closets, individual garages that can be locked, decorator chandeliers with dimmer switches, and automatic disposals. Outdoors there will be heated swimming pools with bathhouses, game slabs, playgrounds, landscaped courtyards and winding walkways.

Fremont Junction homeowners will have a maintenance-free plan. All outside landscaping, grass cutting, snow removal, painting, roof repairs and swimming pool maintenance are handled for the home owner. Total monthly costs — mortgage payments, insurance, taxes and maintenance fee — are competitive with rent, said Martin.

Fremont Junction prices will begin at $20,900, and 95 per cent financing has been arranged for everyone who qualifies, Martin said. The most expensive model is $22,490, and that includes carpeting, air conditioning and enclosed patio.

Every Quad-Plus building is actually a cluster of four private homes, each with its own private entrances, private garage, and no neighbors above or below. The cluster has the appearance of one single-family home. Five architectural styles are used, each in three different color combinations, providing 15 variations.

Fremont Junction, located 1/4 mile east of Barrington Road on Lake St., is one of several more McKeon developments scheduled to open in the Chicago area and neighboring portions of Indiana by the end of the year. These will include Quad-Plus homes, townhomes, and single-family dwellings.

QUAD PLUS DESIGN resembles a single-family home in living units are in each structure, by McKeon Construction Co.

Globe-Amerada Glass Forms New Position

George L. Veigel, 37, of Joliet has been named to the newly created position of operations manager of the Elk Grove Village plant of Globe-Amerada Glass Co.

Veigel joins Globe-Amerada, a leading fabricator of laminated automotive glass and laminated architectural glass for environmental and security applications, after serving six years as the general manager of MSL Industries' Wrought Washer Division in Joliet.

As operations manager, Veigel will direct the growing Elk Grove Village manufacturing facilities of Globe-Amerada, reporting to Jack L. Heller, group vice president, finance and operations.

Veigel is a 1965 graduate of Temple University, where he majored in industrial management.

Mike McNally With Teletype

McNally

Michael S. McNally, 700 N. Fairview, Mount Prospect, an instructor with the Teletype Corp., recently moved into the company's new Technical Training Center at 110 N. Wacker Dr., Chicago.

A veteran of six years with the center, McNally specializes in high speed punches, readers and Teletype equipment.

The charm of old country homes is attracting an increasing number of home buyers, according to Jackson Goss, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston, Mass. The desire for individuality and a touch of nostalgia account for the appeal of older homes as indicated in a recent company survey.

Investors Mortgage, a subsidiary of Continental Investment Corp., also of Boston, is an organization in the private mortgage industry. The company works with private lending institutions such as savings and loan associations, commercial banks and mutual savings banks by insuring the top 20 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

Goss pointed out that most of the people surveyed were contacted by IMI's underwriting office in Chicago. The bulk of the calls were to families in the greater Chicago area.

"Real estate people around the country report a surge of interest in old homes,"

Goss said. "There are now some three million such homes on the market. It is estimated that a year from now more than 68 per cent of them will have new owners. These older, more comfortable homes offer the buyer a wide selection and many are in a price range better suited to the buyer's purse."

Goss points out that older homes offer a greater variety of architectural styles than can be found in most newer homes. "It's often easier to suit individual tastes for such items as porches, fireplaces, larger rooms, higher ceilings and that constant demand — more storage space.

"Older homes — for dollars invested — often have more space for the money," he adds. "They were constructed before the trend developed — largely because of rising land and labor costs — toward smaller, more functional homes."

"The rooms and the house itself probably will be more gracious, more spacious and the house generally more comfortable. They have entrance halls, walk-in closets, pantries, basement space and attics," he said.

Landscaping around an older house is often developed with large trees and bushes and flowerbeds. Sidewalks, waterlines, sewers and curbs are usually in place.

"A house in an established neighborhood means that schools have been built and are nearby, as are shopping and recreational facilities," Goss said. "In addition, such services as trash collection, police and fire protection and street maintenance are an accepted fact."

Goss observes that the demand for housing has put many new homes out of the financial reach of many young couples. They are finding the answer in homes they can purchase for between 15 to 20 per cent less and get many of the things they cannot get in new homes. "The increasing demand for older houses — sparked by reasons both practical and sentimental — is adding a new dimension to the booming housing market," Goss concluded.

Convention Held At Arlington Towers

Women Students Set Humanist Goals

IAWS.

The Intercollegiate Association of Women Students.

It is the only nationwide collegiate organization of women with feminist goals that is pressing for change within established structures — be it a school administration or the federal government.

IAWS is coming of age. It is being recognized nationally as an organization with strength. And it is using that strength.

IAWS began in 1923 with what executive director Grace Ellen Rice termed a "tea party image." It became a national organization in 1925 and slowly became concerned with women's rights on campus. Members in the approximately 150 chapters in colleges and universities across the country lobbied with school administrations for changes in women's hours, visitation in dorms and other regulations.

DURING THE NATIONAL convention of IAWS held at the University of Alabama in 1969 the organization swung from its traditional concepts to the more contemporary.

"IAWS has been moving in a political direction in the last two years," said Casey Eike of the University of Kansas who last week ended her term as national president during IAWS's four-day convention at Arlington Park Towers in Arlington Heights.

"I ran for president last year because I wanted to help establish IAWS as a political voice," she said. "This year a lot more has been done on a national level in the organization and that is a strength we need."

During its 1971 national convention

IAWS drafted and endorsed 13 resolutions to guide the national officers and chapter members in their efforts. One of those resolutions, the endorsement of the Equal Rights Amendment (recently passed by Congress and now before the states for ratification), received a great deal of attention from Casey.

"IT IS VERY important now for IAWS to have a voice in national affairs and decision processes," Casey said. "I've mainly established contacts in government so that they can come to us when they need testimony on certain bills — such as the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA)."

Immediately after last year's convention Casey submitted testimony endorsing the ERA and women's equal involvement with men in the selective service system to a House Judiciary Subcommittee, to major newspapers and to all congresswomen. All members of Congress received letters from Casey on behalf of IAWS again seeking their approval of the bill. IAWS worked with the National Federation of Business and Professional Women in sending special night letters to all 100 senators the night before the ERA was introduced in the Senate.

DURING THIS YEAR'S convention Rep. Martha W. Griffiths (D-Mich.), who spoke at Saturday's session, commended IAWS for its diligent work in passing the ERA. Mrs. Griffiths sponsored the constitutional amendment and urged IAWS members to now direct their efforts on campus to the ratification of the ERA.

Casey made successful contacts this year with a number of national women's organizations with similar goals as well as some of the top women in government. "All of these people were very interested in our organization and the young women it represents," Casey told the members.

"I truly believe that now is the time for young women to become involved — not only in the realm of politics, but within educational institutions, long standing and new organizations and policy-making groups . . . All kinds of groups are becoming aware that youth and women are a force they must deal with."

NINETY-TWO chapters of IAWS sent delegates to this year's convention. Among them was the eight-woman delegation from Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas, which included Arlington Heights resident Marybeth Koch.

The SMU chapter has been one of the most active in IAWS. "We used to have a policy committee in our chapter which succeeded in changing the campus policies regarding women students and making them the same as the men's," Marybeth said. "Before we went to the administration we were very careful that we had the women students behind us. We took surveys on the rules and at times had as much as 90 per cent of the women behind us."

"Now the policy making is under the university and we are directing our efforts to programming and leadership training," she continued.

The SMU chapter sponsors seminars such as a recent one on changing concepts in marriage. Its leadership training is practical rather than theoretical with a number of the members acting as dorm representatives, organizing programs or holding offices.

THE 1971 SMU DELEGATION took the convention resolutions seriously and returned to their campus ready to put them into effect. They actively supported the ERA, and, as another resolution directed them, set out to educate the women on their campuses to the Social Movements for equality between the sexes.

One of the hardest workers was Joan Allison of Oklahoma City, who served on this year's resolutions committee at the convention and made an unsuccessful bid for the presidency of IAWS. "I don't think there would have been any changes on our campus without our organization," she said. "We are kind of the ground level for woman's lib in that we are giving women the training and the education."

But woman's lib is not the only thing IAWS is all about despite the fact that Gloria Steinem was a featured speaker and a number of resolutions passed this year dealt with women's rights.

"IAWS is all out for humanity," said director Grace Ellen Rice, "and the convention is the proof."

"THIS YEAR'S THEME, 'Women and Men: Partners in Humanity,' means a great deal to me," said Casey. "I have found that no other method or philosophy of change can come as near the goals of human liberation as one which regards as inherent the idea that women and men must work together in the final stages of the betterment of our society."

"We wanted this convention to center on both humanism and social change. We invited speakers to talk of their careers and how they got there as role models; we had a renowned spokeswoman for women; we tried to deal with many levels."

"IAWS has the potential to incorporate the very conservative and the very radical among women students," Casey continued. "We have all types of women here and the convention will be a success if this group can get together on their commitments for the coming year."

A NUMBER OF RESOLUTIONS were successfully passed this year after being hashed out — intelligently — on the convention floor. Among them were a resolution supporting legislation for quality child care centers on campus for children of students, staff and faculty; another supporting the repeal of all restrictive abortion laws; another urging Congress to allow students to vote in Federal elections on their respective campuses; and another urging each chapter to educate women in politics, to persuade women to work for women's and youth's priorities and humanist goals and to recruit and rally behind candidates who support these goals.

"The increased emphasis of the woman's movement has given IAWS something to concentrate on, something to educate our members on," said Grace Ellen. "We want our members to be aware of what's going on — to know and take action."

JOAN ALLISON, Southern Methodist University, worked diligently but unsuccessfully to become president of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students during the group's national convention last week at Arlington Towers.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

OPERATING ROOM NURSE Shirley Phillips of Lutheran General Hospital is helped into her scrub gown by Margaret Soderquist, nursing instructor, while student nurse Robin Brundage looks on. The floral disposable scrub hat on Mrs. Phillips is the latest in operating room "fashions." She and Mrs. Soderquist will join a panel discussion at Tuesday evening's meeting of area O. R. Nurses.

Operating Room Nurses On Panel

Recruiting student interest in the operating room is the current project of Northwest Suburban Chapter of the Association of Operating Room Nurses. In order to evaluate the O.R. experience for nurses and students, the group is arranging a panel discussion for next Tuesday evening's meeting at Lutheran General Hospital.

All professional nurses and student nurses are welcome to the 7:30 program in the 10 East dining room.

Panel members include Mrs. Margaret Soderquist, nursing instructor at Lutheran General; Myra Levine, associate professor of nursing at Loyola University; Delores Johnson, director of North Park College School of Nursing; and Charles J. Staley, M.D., chairman of the department of surgery at Lutheran General.

Mrs. Shirley Phillips, operating room instructor, will moderate the program.

Independent Political Force

Women's Vote Worth Wooing

by GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Anyone running for office from the presidency on down had better woo the women's vote with special ardor this campaign year, and future ones. For the women just may represent the deciding votes.

A Louis Harris poll of 4,000 men and women finds "There is every likelihood . . . that for the first time in relative peacetime women will become a majority of the voters to cast their ballots this November."

Women have been 51 per cent of the eligible electorate but in the last presidential year (1968) made up no more than 49 per cent of the actual voters. Women have just been turning out in fewer numbers than the men.

But Harris finds a "real chance" that in 1972, with women's struggle for improved status and the "new politics," women will pass the 50 per cent mark and once there, for the rest of the century, it is entirely likely that women will continue to be a majority of the voting constituency in the United States.

Harris says that the "news cries out" from the poll that "women have sprung loose as an independent political force . . . to become active not only for their own self-interest, but for the interest of society, the world, and most of all, out of compassion for humanity."

"Once you let a force like that loose, I would suggest that it can never be bottled again."

"The day is also passing when the vote of the women could be taken for granted as simply reflecting the prevailing male sentiment in the family," Harris continues. "It is now a rare occasion, indeed, when one of our poll-takers finds the woman of the house saying, 'Well, my husband has to make up his mind and then he will tell me whom we are for.'"

The poll, by Harris and his associates, is the second they've made on women's views on contemporary topics for Virginia Slims "You've come a Long Way, Baby" cigarettes. They did in-person interviews with a representative cross-section of 3,000 U.S. women and 1,000 men.

Among other things the study indicates that women:

—Despite their criticism of President Nixon on Vietnam, women are high on him for his efforts to "work for peace in the world."

—Support Nixon's economic policies, but think income will not keep pace with the cost of living during the next two years.

—Are more likely than men to support Sens. Muskie, Humphrey and Kennedy and Mayor Lindsay for the presidency, less likely to support Nixon or Gov. Wallace. But the President runs much stronger among the men, as does Wallace.

—Are distressed by the drug problem but are against stiff jail terms for hard and soft drug users.

—Oppose busing to achieve racial integration and this opposition comes from many black women too.

—Express contentment with their own lives as homemakers but frequently want their daughters to have careers.

New Periodical For Mothers

A quarterly periodical called Good Mothering is being edited and published by Mrs. Bonnie Pasteur of Sycamore, Ill., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Reimisch, 238 Reseda Pkwy., Palatine.

Mrs. Pasteur, mother of two pre-school children and a journalism graduate of Northern Illinois University, said the periodical is for women "who enjoy their role as wives and mothers and who agree with us that the family is still a viable institution in America today."

The first issue includes an article on "How to Eliminate Spring Cleaning" and one entitled "Ten Commandments for Parents" by Dr. Frieda Kehm, widely known psychologist and sociologist. Another article by Mrs. Len Sly of Hoffman Estates will appear in this first edition.

Staff artist for Good Mothering is Robert Reimisch of Rolling Meadows, the editor's brother and a commercial artist in Des Plaines.

Subscriptions at $1.25 may be obtained from Mrs. Pasteur, 432 E. Elm, Sycamore 60178.

Identity Seminar Starts At Harper

Women who would like to know more about themselves may become involved in the Harper College workshop series, "Investigation Into Identity," which will be meeting twice a week during April.

The series is being presented for the fourth time because of enthusiastic response from northwest suburban area women.

"Investigation Into Identity" sessions meet Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 to 11:30 a.m., starting today and running through 29. Fee is $15 with an optional testing fee of $25. There is also a parking sticker fee of $1.

The workshop program gives each woman an opportunity to examine her life and self. Its aim is to help the woman strengthen herself beyond the roles she is asked to play by society.

Reservations and inquiries may be made through the Community Services Office, at Harper College, Algonquin and Roselle Roads in Palatine. The telephone number is 359-4200, extension 248.

Next On The Agenda

ELI SKINNER NSDAR

Eli Skinner chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is meeting in the home of Mrs. John Bowen, 516 S. Beverly, Arlington Heights, at 1 p.m. today. Co-hostesses are Mrs. John Bruning and Mrs. E. H. Janssen.

Regent Mrs. William F. Hallquist, will give highlights on the state conference held in Chicago last month.

"The Heritage of Silver" is the program to be given by Persin and Robbin to members and guests.

BETA SIGMA PHI

Rho Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will be meeting tonight at 8 in the Schaumburg home of Mrs. James Letterer to discuss the May 20 garage sale. Proceeds from the sale will be donated to the Sonia Zager Trust Fund established at Dooley School, Schaumburg.

There will be a program on "Sculpture and Painting" by Mrs. Daniel Kubicek following the meeting. The group will also hold a bake-auction sale.

Mrs. Douglas Fallgatter was recently re-elected president of the group. Mrs. Wayne T. Bower is vice president and Mrs. William McClure, recording secretary. Corresponding secretary is Mrs. T. Patrick Costello, and Mrs. Frank Rutigliano, treasurer. Extension officer is Mrs. James Letterer.

MOUNT PROSPECT WOMEN

The April meeting of the Veteran's Service Department of Mount Prospect Woman's Club will be held at 1 p.m. Monday in the Maple Room of Mount Prospect Community Center. Last month members delivered to Downey Hospital 25 pairs of socks, a wool afghan, 154 paper back books, 60 National Geographic magazines, 39 Readers Digests and 24 assorted sports magazines.

Mrs. Leslie Parker, 392-5963, may be called for further information on this department's work.

The club's Round Robin Bridge will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Chestnut Room of the center. Proceeds go toward club philanthropies.

The club will be holding an Appreciation Tea Sunday, April 16 honoring Mrs. Leroy Hutchings of the Mount Prospect

Library and her staff. The public is invited to the tea which will be held in the library from 2 to 5 p.m. The tea is being held on the first day of Library Week in conjunction with the Garden Club of Mount Prospect.

INVERNESS WOMAN'S CLUB

In 1910 Edna Ferber created a character named Emma McChesney, a saleswoman in the Midwest for the Feather Loom Petticoat Co. Mrs. McChesney's trials and tribulations will be presented Monday in a humorous review for the Woman's Club of Inverness. Carolyn Stein Stillman will be the reviewer.

Mrs. Stillman, who has played leading roles in little theaters in Illinois and Michigan, teaches dramatics at Western Springs Theater. The review will follow a 12:30 tea in Inverness Community House.

Mrs. Robert Bowles will be hostess chairman, and her committee members are Mrs. Florian Kamin, Mrs. Travis Marshall and Mrs. LaVelle Plak. Members may make reservations with Mrs. Bowles at 358-4809, or Mrs. Kamin, 358-1432 by this Friday.

ARLINGTON LA LECHE

La Leche League of Arlington Heights will hold the fourth in a series of four monthly meetings, "Nutrition and Weaning," at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Raymond Hornbostel. Group leader will be Mrs. John Peters, 394-3340.

DENTAL ASSISTANTS

Northwest Suburban Branch of the Chicago Dental Assistants Association will hold a dinner meeting Tuesday at the Scandia House Smorgasbord, Mount Prospect Plaza. Smorgasbord is at 7:30 and the meeting at 8:30 with election of officers. Program speaker will be Dr. Charles Schimben who will talk on orthodontics.

Mrs. Rosel Schamne, 253-7686, is taking reservations.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Zeta Tau Alpha Northwest Suburban Alumnae Association will tour the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged in Arlington Heights Tuesday at 8 p.m. Members will meet at the home and hold a short meeting after the tour.

Zetas interested in attending may call Mrs. Paul Hauer at 394-2662.

Linda Trimmel Weds Chicagoan

After a week's honeymoon at Lake Geneva, Wis., Herb S. Kauer and his bride, the former Linda M. Trimmel of Arlington Heights, are making their home in Rosemont. The bridegroom, a graduate of Roosevelt University, works for Harry Hardenbrook and Associates in Elk Grove.

Linda is the daughter of the Joseph C. Trimmels, 1119 E. Olive St., and a graduate of Arlington High School. She also attended Elmhurst College.

She and Herb were married the afternoon of Feb. 26 in St. Edna Catholic Church, Arlington Heights, and then greeted guests at an evening reception at Ray Foley's Hyatt House in Lincolnwood.

MRS. WILLIAM GARTH, Palatine, was Linda's matron of honor and her cousins, Mrs. Jack Bychowski, Chicago, and Cheryl Ann Hofmann, Mount Prospect, were bridesmaids. Christine Eickmeier, 6, the flower girl, and Ewald Weiss, 11, ring bearer, are both cousins of the bride and live in Des Plaines.

The groom, son of the Matthew C. Kauer of Chicago, chose his brother-in-law, Frank Fendt of Orange, Calif., as best man and his cousins, Adam Horn and Richard Ily of Glenview, as ushers.

A Sunday Tea For CCW Models

Sunday is the day chosen by Mrs. Ernest Lenzini to host a tea in her Hoffman Estates home for models of the forthcoming St. Hubert's Council of Catholic Women's fashion show-luncheon.

Among models expected to attend is Miss Hoffman Estates of 1972. Purpose of the tea is to introduce the models to each other and to finalize plans for the May 6 show at Lancers. Theme will be "Happiness is Something Beautiful" and fashions will be from 10 Woodfield stores plus shoes from I. Miller.

Tickets at $5.50 are now on sale by calling 894-1094.

The Home Line by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Have been having an argument with my mother about wrapping meat for the freezer. She says you can put it in the freezing compartment just as it comes from the market. I was under the impression that it had to be rewrapped in moisture-vapor-proof material, with the air squeezed out to keep it safe from freezer burn or transference of odors. Which of us is right?—Amy P.

A family argument is the last thing I'm looking for, but you're right. It's important to open a package of meat right after bringing it home, if only to let the stale air out. And it does collect when meat is on a counter for any length of time. You can reuse the cellophane the meat comes in, but the proper overwrapping is necessary.

Dear Dorothy: Can you recommend a method that will completely remove cooked-on grease that has collected in the drip pans of my stove? Nothing I've tried has worked.—Paula Branham.

As a rule, you can soak drip pans in a detergent solution and it's then a simple matter to wipe them out. If fairly dirty, use No. 3 steel wool and the soap made with pumice. If there is much burnt-on grease, you have to use a powerful metal cleaner. As with all potent cleaners, one has to be careful and follow instructions.

Dear Dorothy: My wife says she has received most of her tips about baking soda from your column. Maybe you'd like to add one I found useful. We drove over a freshly tarred road and got a coating of tar on the car. Remembering that we used baking soda to take off the pitch when working with the Christmas tree last year, I sprinkled baking soda on a damp sponge and went to work. The tar came off with very little effort.—Paul M.

An Easter Party

Dancing, Easter baskets semi-pre-assembled for the children to complete and decorated bags of cookies were included when members of Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club visited Countryside School in March.

Besides the monthly parties Arlington Juniors have several projects underway for Clearbrook and Countryside. Scrapbooks for Countryside emphasizing big and little are nearly completed. Color charts for Clearbrook were made by arranging large color pieces in 6 or 7 color combinations to help co-ordination and the ability to distinguish color families such as reds and purples. Individual color pieces are provided for matching to the chart.

Sorting trays containing various small items of differing sizes have been given to Countryside children to teach them to distinguish size and shape. A puzzle of a map of the United States was made in colors to co-ordinate with the map painted on the pavement at Clearbrook.

Members of the Social Service Committee, Mrs. Wayne Rockenbach chairman, are responsible for the Clearbrook and Countryside projects.

Sing-Along Dance

Alexian Brothers Medical Center Auxiliary has issued a call for all sopranos, altos, tenors, basses, and all voices in-between, to join them in song at their spring dance and sing-along on Friday, April 14, from 9 p.m. to midnight. The event will be held at the Holiday Inn, Elk Grove Village.

Music will be provided by the Swingers III, a local group who will play for dancing as well as singing.

All proceeds from this event will be applied toward the Auxiliary's pledge to the hospital.

For ticket information readers may call Mrs. Leslie Larson at 437-0913.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Chase

Greetings from the harbinger of spring — with a Danish accent. That's what came my way today.

Our friend, Fred Jorgensen of Palatine, is involved in a spring project with the Chicago Regional Rose Society District 1 that is guaranteed to whisk away gardeners' winter blahs... a rose pruning party.

Open and free of charge to everybody who would like to learn more about spring pruning, the pruning demonstrations will be conducted by American Rose Society Consulting Rosarians from Illinois-Indiana district this month. Four locations in the Chicago area have been chosen as sites, and the garden of Gerda and Fred Jorgensen, 1112 S. Plum Grove Road, Palatine, is the one in our area. The date is Sunday, April 16; the time, 1 p.m.

THERE ARE FEW individuals who know more about roses than Fred, who, like his father before him in Copenhagen, is a professional gardener. (Fred owns the Rose Garden Sales and Maintenance Service in Palatine.)

Fred recently received credentials from the American Rose Society, which honored him (as well as Russell J. Ward of Arlington Heights) with its Consulting Rosarian Award.

Said Fred: "Consulting Rosarians are usually referred to as THE EXPERTS. I do not consider myself an expert for the reason that in my opinion an expert is a person who can make something you already knew sound confusing."

The last time I visited Fred's "Tivoli Garden" in Palatine, there were about 150 plants in bloom with some tree roses, some hybrid teas. Hey had fat, vigorous canes free of disease, big, bushy plants with glowingly healthy leaves and enormous, bug-free blossoms.

The way to grow roses has traditionally included fungicide for black spot and mildew, systematic insecticide for borers, rose dust for aphids and leaf hoppers, and chemical fertilizer for growth.

FRED SAYS that he has spent the winter studying ecology in the rose garden and he has learned "that it is no longer enough to adapt the pace of nature; it is far more important to learn nature's ways with the help of common sense."

"I hope by the end of this coming growing season to be able to prove rose-growing can be done organically," he said.

Don't forget the pruning demonstration on the 16th! A visit with friendly, Fred, who's not afraid to share the secrets of successful rose-growing, is worth the Sunday drive. And he can make any stranger feel most welcome.

"Inner City Gardens" is the topic of a luncheon program which will be presented by the Chicago Horticultural Society, Friday, April 14, at the Museum of Science and Industry. The featured speaker will be Charles E. Lewis, director of the Sterling Forest Gardens, in Tuxedo, N.Y.

LEWIS HAS worked for 10 years with the New York City Housing Authority in developing an extensive urban garden project involving thousands of residents of low income housing. He will also explain similar efforts now being made in Philadelphia and Boston.

Deadline for reservations is Monday, April 10. Information is available at the Horticultural Society, 332-2868. Tickets are $5 for luncheon and lectures; $1.50 for lecture only.

Depression Characteristic Illness In Women Today

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Jessie Bernard, sociologist and author of books on sex and marriage, sees the mental and emotional health of contemporary women as "Public Health Problem Number One."

The professor of sociology at Penn

State University made that point at a New York seminar on "The Family of the Future."

"The characteristic illness of women today is depression," Dr. Bernard said. "It has become almost the natural state of women."

What she said wasn't exactly news to the seminar's 60 family counselors and executives of New York and New Jersey member agencies of the Family Service Association of America (FSAA). For family service counselors, women — particularly married women — are clients who most need assistance.

FAR MORE married than unmarried women today exhibit symptoms of psychological distress, mental strain and neurosis, Dr. Bernard reported. She based her case on several mental health studies — "data that has been around for some time, but which we had not read in this perspective."

The sociologist described marriage as "great for men, awful for women today..." One of the most serious handicaps: isolation of the housewife.

But marriage isn't as popular with women as it used to be, according to Dr. Bernard. She cited these statistics: The marriage rate is changing. For the first four months of 1971, compared with 1970, the number of marriages was lower, though there are more persons of marriageable age. The proportion of the population between the ages of 18 to 24 not married was higher in 1970 than it was in 1960. Divorce rates, which were going down and stabilized in the late 1960s now are going up once more.

DR. BERNARD'S most recent book is "The Future of Marriage" (MacMillan). Others include "American Family Behavior," "Remarriage," "Marriage and Family Among Negroes," "The Sex Game" and "Women and the Public Interest."

In terms of directions and patterns of planning for changes in family life, Dr. Bernard told conference participants that men are most interested in sexual variety, while women are more interested in "total revamping of the human relationship."

Mailing Party Sunday For AOPi

A "mailing party" is slated at the Daniel Pelletiere home in Palatine Sunday afternoon for Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority. Both the collegians from Rho Chapter at Northwestern University and the alumnae from Northwest Suburban Chapter will be on hand to help prepare a large fund-raising solicitation.

The sorority women will work from 1 to 6 p.m. at Mrs. Pelletiere's, 1132 Sky-lark, and are inviting all interested alumnae to join them. Besides the hostess, Mrs. Jack Clark of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Samuel Smith of Buffalo Grove are co-chairmen of the mailing. A light luncheon will be served during the afternoon.

THE ALUMNAE will hold their April meeting next Wednesday evening at the Laurence Frerk home, 1523 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights. The initiation of newly elected officers highlights the agenda.

Mrs. Pelletiere will become president; Mrs. Donald Keenan, Park Ridge, vice president; Mrs. Leon Henson, Des Plaines, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Boldt, Des Plaines, treasurer; and Mrs. Charles Kallevang, Park Ridge, recording secretary.

Executive board chairmen will soon be announced so they may attend a board meeting scheduled for April 27.

Sugar 'N Spice Moves To New Location

"Sugar 'N Spice" Gift Shop has moved to a new location in Des Plaines, 730 Lee Street. The shop will continue to feature handcrafted items as well as reviewing new and unusual items by local craftsmen.

In conjunction with the boutique they also offer craft classes, teaching the newest as well as the most popular crafts. New classes form every month and run for an average of three weekly sessions, with the exception of decoupage which is six weekly sessions. Classes are scheduled both days and evenings. Supplies are available.

Sugar 'N Spice also offers demonstrations for groups or organizations for a nominal fee.

New store hours will be Monday and Friday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Harper Faculty Wives Offer Aid

Two $200 grants are offered by Harper College Faculty Wives organization to qualified area students who will attend the college during the 1972-73 school year.

Anyone interested in applying should contact Fred Vaisvil, director of financial aids and placement at the college.

The Faculty Wives were busy in March helping the Easter bunny prepare for his deliveries on Sunday. As a service project, the women made colorful Easter baskets for the children at Herrick House Children's Center in Bartlett and Lutherbrook Child Center in Addison. They also gave baskets to residents of Magnus Farm in Arlington Heights.

Mrs. John Papandrea, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Jack Fuller, Hoffman Estates, were in charge of the project.

A table trip to the mysterious Far East can be provided as quickly, easily and economically as an everyday meal. Just place Oriental Pork and Pears on the table and you're set to embark on a delicious dining adventure.

Pieces of boneless pork, browned golden, co-star with canned Bartlett pears in this globe-spanning recipe. Green pepper strips, tender yet crisp, and halved cherry tomatoes also share the sweet-sour sauce.

Served at a spring luncheon, the dish will bring honor to the hostess. But don't slight the family; they'll enjoy this culinary journey, too!

Oriental Pork and Pears

- 2 pounds boneless pork shoulder, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 can (1 pound 13 ounces) Bartlett pear halves
- 1/4 cup cornstarch
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1/2 cup vinegar
- 1 medium-sized green pepper, cut in strips
- 8 cherry tomatoes, cut in half
- 1 can (3 ounces) chow mein noodles

Brown pork cubes in lard or drippings. Cover and cook over low heat for 30 minutes. Pour off drippings. Season with salt. Drain pears; reserve and measure 1 1/4 cups syrup. Mix cornstarch and brown sugar. Stir in pear syrup, soy sauce and vinegar. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thick and clear. Pour sauce over meat. Add green pepper strips and cook over low heat for 5 minutes. Remove seeds from cherry tomatoes. Cut each pear half in half lengthwise. Lightly fold tomatoes and pears into meat mixture and continue heating 1 minute, stirring several times. Serve with chow mein noodles. 6 to 8 servings.

Sugar 'n Spice

AND EVERYTHING NICE ABOUT FOOD

To intrigue family or guests, let the menu sing "spring!" Plan it around a platter of golden broiled pork chops. To round out the menu in spring fashion, serve parsleyed new potatoes, fresh asparagus and light rolls with the chops and Spring Pear Salad.

If desired, add a few frills such as hollandaise sauce and a relish tray. Angel cake crowned with strawberries will top off dinner with a seasonal flourish.

Spring Pear Salad

- 1 can (1 pound 13 ounces) Bartlett pear halves
- 2 packages (3 ounces each) or 1 package (6 ounces) lime gelatin
- 1/4 cup lemon juice or vinegar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup coarsely grated carrot
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup diced green pepper
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- Carrot curls

Drain pear halves, reserving syrup. Add enough water to pear syrup to measure 3 1/2 cups liquid. Heat 1 1/2 cups liquid to boiling and dissolve gelatin in it. Stir in remaining 2 cups liquid, lemon juice or vinegar and salt. Chill until syrupy. Arrange 4 to 5 pear halves in bottom of a 6-cup mold. Pour in enough gelatin to cover pear halves. Chill until almost set. Chill remaining gelatin until it mounds (or until thick as egg whites) and add carrots, celery, green pepper and onion. Pour over pear layer. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with carrot curls and remaining pear halves, cut into wedges. 8 to 10 servings.

Broiled Pork Chops

- 8 rib or loin pork chops, cut 1 to 1 1/2 inches thick
- Salt
- Pepper

To broil in range: Place pork chops on rack in broiler pan. Insert pan so tops of chops are about 5 inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes, turn and broil 8 minutes longer. Continue broiling, turning occasionally about 15 to 20 minutes longer or until well done. Season. 8 servings.

To broil on outdoor grill: Allow charcoal to burn until briquettes are covered with gray ash. Place pork chops on grill about 5 inches from heat. (This distance allows the chops to become the desired well done inside by the time they are browned on the surface.) Broil at moderate temperature (350 degrees measured by grill thermometer) 10 minutes on each side. Continue broiling, turning occasionally, about 20 minutes longer or until well done. Season with salt and pepper. 8 servings.

Walnut Dressings For Vegetables

Vegetables needn't be the same old thing. Make them wonderful with walnuts. Plain cauliflower, for example, takes on company glamour when served with a real, tangy walnut-mustard sauce that's good with asparagus and green beans too. Or if you like a hint of curry, you'll want to try a Walnut Curry Sauce with carrots or with green beans. And a third winter vegetable idea is Caramel Walnut Sweet Potatoes. These are really elegant when flamed at the table. And still another idea — what could be easier than sprinkling toasted California walnuts, plain or seasoned salted, into a winter vegetable salad, or over creamed onions, or creamed peas. And simple Walnut Butter Sauce is ideal for wintery green beans or broccoli. Just saute walnuts in an equal amount of melted butter and pour over the beans or broccoli. If you like, add a little lemon juice to the sauce to point up flavor.

To toast walnuts, just drop kernels into boiling water and boil three minutes; drain well. Then spread in shallow pan and toast at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. If you want them salted, while they are still hot, brush lightly with butter or margarine, then sprinkle with salt, seasoned salt or garlic salt, as you prefer.

WALNUT MUSTARD SAUCE WITH CAULIFLOWER

1/2 cup plain or toasted walnuts
1 tablespoon butter
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
2 tablespoons brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1/4 cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/2 cup whipping cream
1 head cauliflower, cooked and drained

Chop walnuts medium-fine. Melt butter in a small saucepan or skillet. Combine beaten egg, sugars and mustard; combine vinegar and cornstarch. Blend both mixtures into melted butter. Cook, stirring, until mixture boils and begins to thicken. Stir in cream, continue cooking over moderate heat until thickened and smooth. Add walnuts; spoon hot sauce over hot cooked cauliflower; sprinkle additional walnuts over top. Makes five to six servings.

WALNUT CURRY SAUCE

1/2 cup plain or toasted California walnuts
1/4 cup butter
1 1/2 teaspoons curry powder
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/4 cup chicken broth
1/2 cup light cream
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 quart hot cooked vegetables such as carrots or green beans

Chop walnuts medium-fine. Measure butter and curry powder into a small saucepan or skillet; heat until butter melts. Add onion and cook slowly until soft but not browned. Blend in flour and salt. Slowly stir in broth, then cream. Cook and stir until sauce boils and thickens; lower heat and simmer one or two minutes. Add lemon juice and walnuts. Combine sauce with hot cooked vegetables; top with additional walnuts. Makes five to six servings. (Curry may be cut to one teaspoon if desired).

CARAMEL WALNUT SWEET POTATOES

1/2 cup California walnut halves and large pieces
1/3 cup butter

6 medium size potatoes, cooked
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup brown sugar, packed
1/2 cup orange juice or water
1/3 cup brandy

Saute walnuts in melted butter over moderate heat until lightly toasted; remove walnuts from skillet. Add brown sugar, salt and orange juice or water to butter remaining in pan. Bring to a boil three or four minutes. Peel and half sweet potatoes. Add to syrup along with walnuts. Heat gently, basting with syrup. Heat brandy over water; pour over potatoes and flame. Makes six servings.

Cheddar-Butter On Vienna Bread

6 tablespoons (3/4 stick) butter
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese, at room temperature
1 tablespoon caraway seed
1 loaf Vienna bread

In a small mixing bowl cream butter; add Cheddar cheese and caraway seed and beat until fairly smooth. Cut loaf of bread into 1-inch diagonal slices. Spread butter-cheese spread on cut surfaces. Wrap in aluminum foil. Heat in preheated 350 degree oven 30 minutes.

Pork and Peaches

NEXT TIME YOU bake a piece of corned pork, give it this special glaze. Combine 1 cup syrup from a can of cling peach halves with 1/3 cup brown sugar and 2 teaspoons cornstarch. Add peach halves and cook until clear and thickened. Bake corned pork as usual, but during the last 20 minutes of baking, stick the scored fat of hot baked meat with cloves, and spoon syrup over. Bake 20 minutes or more in moderately hot oven, until nicely glazed. Serve with hot spiced peaches.

Baked Bean Soup

6 slices bacon, cut up
2 cups milk
1 can (1 lb.) pork and beans in tomato sauce

In heavy 2-quart saucepan cook bacon until crisp; pour off drippings. Add milk, then beans. Heat soup to serving temperature, stirring occasionally. For a better flavored soup, mash some of the beans with back of wooden spoon while heating. Yield: 4 cups.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

Since chickens continue to be the best buy in supermarkets or groceries, I'm constantly on the lookout for new methods of preparation to help the thrifty-minded chef.

For this recipe I used bargain-priced breasts and thighs, although a whole fryer of 3 to 3 1/2 pounds, cut into serving pieces, will serve 4.

Wash the chicken well or soak in slightly salted water, then pat dry on paper toweling. Sprinkle pieces with salt and seasoned pepper.

In a large shallow casserole melt 3 ounces (3/4 stick) of butter or margarine. Add 6 small green onions, finely chopped, 1 teaspoon dill seed, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 cup chicken broth, 1/2 cup dry white wine, and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Stir mixture well.

Now coat chicken pieces in the mixture, then place skin side up and bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven for 1 hour. Baste frequently during the baking.

This can be served with a crisp green salad using the pan juices in a gravy boat to spoon over the chicken. When using serving pieces such as breasts or thighs, prepare rice in your usual manner. Place a serving of rice on a warm plate, top with a piece of the baked chicken, then spoon over juices from the pan. Cooked green beans and baby carrots make an attractive plate.

HERE IS AN interesting frozen fruit salad which goes well with almost any chicken dish. Soften 3 ounces cream cheese and blend in 1/2 cup mayonnaise.

Stir in 1 1/2 cups diced canned peaches, well drained, 1 1/2 cups miniature marshmallows, 3/4 cup chopped maraschino cherries. Fold in 1/2 cup whipped cream.

Fill individual molds (6 to 8) and freeze. Remove from freezer 30 minutes before serving. Unmold onto endive or bibb lettuce on salad plates and keep cold until served.

Use some of the maraschino cherry juice or a few drops of red food coloring of your desire.

One way to help combat the high meat prices is to take advantage of reasonably priced eggs this month. Eggs are featured on USDA's consumer and marketing service's plentiful foods list and selling at below average prices in most stores.

Eggs supply adequate protein which has an abundance of amino acids essential to health. Aside from other vitamins and minerals, eggs supply iron and vitamins A and B-2.

Creamed eggs make an excellent meat substitute for lunches, dinners, or a late breakfast.

The easiest way is to prepare two cups of medium white sauce then add four to six hard cooked eggs which have been sliced or cut in half lengthwise. After the eggs are heated through (about 5 minutes) serve the mixture over toast points, English muffins, biscuits or whole-wheat toast. Parsley and paprika make attractive garnishes.

Creamed eggs need never be monotonous since variations are countless. Cheese, mushrooms, olives, or seasonings of your choice can be added to the white sauce. Brown sauce or leftover gravy or a tomato sauce can be used, also.

SOUFFLES ARE another way to include eggs in the diet. They consist of light, frothy baked dish containing beaten eggs which have been separated before preparation. The whites are beaten until stiff and the yolks for the basis of a thick sauce which may be flavored with cheese, vegetables, ground meats or fruits.

The secret of a good souffle is how you beat and handle the egg white because they determine the volume and lightness of it.

A few basic hints will help make your souffle a success everytime. Have the eggs at room temperature and never beat egg whites in a plastic bowl or one in which there is a speck of egg yolk or fat. Beat the egg whites until moist and glossy — just stiff enough to stand in peaks.

For extra lightness, add one more egg white than the recipe specifies.

Stir a small amount of beaten whites into the thick sauce before folding it into the rest of the whites. Gradually fold the sauce into beaten egg white using a circular motion from top to bottom of the bowl.

For a soft topped souffle, place the filled mold in a pan of hot water and set it in the oven to bake. For a crusty topped souffle, bake without the pan of water.

To prevent the souffle from spilling during baking, make about 1/2 inch indentation with your finger by running it around the top of the batter after it is poured in the mold.

The souffle will not fall if you never open the oven door during the baking time — not even a crack.

Serve baked souffles as soon as they come out of the oven; they will fall within a few minutes.

Homemade Doughnuts

Bread making and other forms of baking are returning to the home scene. The results are as quick to see as baking time permits. A favorite of Americans is the doughnut. Once the technique is mastered you will want to experiment by adding spices or using a variety of icings for flavor treats.

BASIC DOUGHNUTS

2 1/2 cups flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 cup sugar
1 quart (about) corn oil
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup milk

Confectioners' sugar (optional)

Sift together twice flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Mix together egg, sugar, 1 tablespoon of the corn oil and lemon rind; beat until light and fluffy. Gradually add flour mixture, alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour mixture, until a soft, but not sticky, dough forms. Pour corn oil into heavy, sturdy, flat-bottomed 3-quart saucepan or deep fryer, filling utensil no more than 1/3 full. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees. If using electric fryer, follow manufacturer's directions for filling with oil and setting controls. Roll dough to 1/4-inch thickness on floured board or pastry cloth with floured stockinette-covered rolling pin. Cut into doughnut shapes with a floured 3 1/2-inch doughnut cutter. Centers may be fried to make small balls or rolled with scraps of dough and recut. Carefully add doughnuts, a few at a time to hot oil. Fry, turning occasionally, 1 to 2 minutes or until browned on both sides. Remove from oil letting excess oil drip back into pan. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes about 18 doughnuts.

(Note: Recipe may be doubled. Divide dough and roll 1/2 at time, keeping extra dough covered with towel.)

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Kitchen Notes

What is yellow and white and nutritious all over? The egg, of course. Egg whites whip to billowy fluffiness for meringues, puffy omelets and souffles. Yolks are a necessary ingredient in rich creamy custards. Put it all together, and the egg is a scrumptious meal in itself.

For an afternoon refreshment, how about a "strawberry blond" or a "peach smoothie"? Start with a glass of milk, blend in your favorite canned or frozen fruit and top with a scoop or two of ice cream. Enjoy, enjoy!

Cooking cabbage just a short time is the secret for success. Cabbage should be cooked in a small amount of boiling salted water. Shredded cabbage will take only 3 to 10 minutes; quarters take 10 to 15 minutes. Leave the cover off the first two minutes of cooking time and cover to finish cooking. In this way, cabbage will be thoroughly cooked, will be a good green color and will have very little odor.

Mrs. Mario Bertellotti

Food With A Background

by LOIS SEILER

Layers of appealing ingredients make up the elegant Viennese Ribbon Cake prepared by Mrs. Mario A. Bertellotti of Des Plaines.

"It looks complicated, but really isn't," Diane Bertellotti says of this festive dessert. In fact, she finds it easy enough to make for her family as well as guests.

The basic "cake" is made in a jelly roll pan. The batter is divided into thirds, thus three separate cakes are baked.

The baking time is only ten minutes, so it doesn't take long to bake the three cakes," Diane said. Each cake is cut in half width-wise to make a total of six square cakes.

These are assembled in layers with raspberry and apricot jam and a mixture of sour cream and pecans. A heavy board or books are placed on top to compress the layers, and the cake is chilled overnight. The next day the top is frosted with a butter cream icing.

"This is a solid type of cake with a unique flavor," Diane remarked. "The sour cream gives it a moist texture, and although rich, it is not exceedingly sweet."

The ethnic backgrounds of Diane and her husband, Mario, are reflected in Diane's cooking. "I like to perpetuate family traditions," Diane said, "so I prepare some Polish recipes that were handed down in my family, and some Italian ones that were in my husband's."

Mario's parents came from the Northern part of Italy near Carrara and tomatoes were not used as readily as in Southern Italy. Chicken Cacciatore is prepared without any tomatoes whatsoever.

"This is a county-type of dish," Diane explained, "and was often prepared out in the fields where the men were working."

"Cacciatore means hunter-style, or food cooked in quick, simple sauces," she added.

Regardless of how simple, the chicken is delicious enough to serve to guests. It is browned first, then cooked in wine and bouillon, with olives, mushrooms and seasonings. The gravy is thickened before serving.

"Rice may be served with this if you wish," Diane said. "I always serve sliced Italian bread (good for dipping into the gravy), a green vegetable such as precooked broccoli with lemon butter or zucchini, and a green salad."

Mario and the Bertellottis' sons, Louis, 10, Todd, 8, Tommy, 5, and David, 3, all enjoy this tasty dish.

The children also love Nalesniki, a very thin Polish crepe. These thin pancakes can be filled with any thick, cooked preserve, or with certain fillings that Diane makes especially for this recipe: cooked apples, a pineapple-cheese mixture and orange nut honey butter.

Nalesniki can be prepared ahead of time and reheated. They are served with a sprinkling of powdered sugar and are delightful for a ladies' luncheon or even as a dessert, if desired.

Diane enjoys pleasing her family with all types of interesting dinners and desserts, including petits fours, decorated cakes and homemade bread. An avid gardener, she grows her own herbs for cooking as well as a variety of flowers which she dries and uses in pictures and plaques.

VIENNESE RIBBON CAKE

1 cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup sour cream
1/2 cup finely-chopped pecans
9 tablespoons red raspberry jam
6 tablespoons apricot jam
Cream together butter and sugar. Add vanilla, eggs and salt and beat well. Beat in flour and beat three minutes.

Spread one-third of batter in the bottom of a greased and floured jelly roll pan, 15 by 10 1/2 by 1-inch. Batter is thick. It must be spread to make a thin layer. Bake 9 to 10 minutes in a preheated 350 degree oven.

Cook slightly. Carefully cut cake in half across the width to make two cakes that are almost square in shape. Remove from pan. (Cake is similar to a soft cookie dough.)

Repeat twice with remaining batter.

Pan must be washed and greased between each baking.

Mix sour cream and pecans. Place one layer of cake, top side up, on a cutting board approximately the size of the cake. Spread thinly with 3 tablespoons raspberry jam, then a layer of the sour cream-nut mixture. Place second layer of cake on top and repeat process, using apricot jam and sour cream mixture. Continue with remaining layers, repeating the above process. There will be three layers of raspberry and two of apricot. Leave top plain.

Cover with plastic wrap, place a cutting board or several books on top to compress the layers and chill overnight.

The next morning, trim crusts off all four sides to even-off edges. Frost with a chocolate icing or the following butter cream frosting:

2 tablespoons soft butter
2 teaspoons light cream
Dash of salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

1 cup confectioners' sugar
Cream ingredients together with an electric mixer. Spread on top of cake. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Cut cross-wise into slices 1/4-inch wide. Cut these slices in half. Yield: 24 slices. (Or, the whole cake may be cut in half, with half of it frozen for future use.)

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

1 large fryer, cut up
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons oil
1 1/2 cups dry white wine
1 large clove garlic, finely-minced
1 1/4 teaspoons seasoned salt
1/2 teaspoon rosemary leaves
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 teaspoons chicken bouillon granules

1 medium-size can drained, pitted black olives
1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 level tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 cup water

Heat butter and oil in large skillet or electric frying pan. Brown chicken well on all sides. Pour off excess fat. Add wine, garlic, seasoned salt, rosemary, pepper and bouillon granules. Simmer, uncovered, until alcohol burns away, about five minutes. Add olives and mushrooms. Cover and simmer until chicken is tender, 30 to 40 minutes. Serves 6.

NALESNIKI (Polish Crepe)

1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup water
1 egg, slightly-beaten
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
Dash of salt

Combine ingredients with a wire whisk. This makes a thin batter. Spoon a little batter into a 7 or 8-inch skillet which has been lightly rubbed with butter. Tip pan so that entire bottom of skillet is covered. Cook over moderately high heat. When nearly done, turn and brown slightly on other side. Makes 10 to 12 7-inch crepes.

Transfer crepes to a platter and fill and roll each separately. (These can be made ahead of time and reheated before serving.)

The pancakes may be filled with any thick, cooked preserve such as prune butter or strawberry preserves, or any of the following:

Apple Filling:

2 large, tart apples, peeled and coarsely cut up
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
Cook until apples are soft. Let cool.

Pineapple Cheese Filling:

1/2 cup well-drained crushed pineapple
1/2 cup well-drained cottage cheese or Ricotta cheese
Combine thoroughly.

Orange Nut Honey Butter:

1/2 cup softened butter
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
Grated rind of one orange.
Combine thoroughly.

Use about one heaping tablespoon filling per pancake. Spread to about one inch from end and roll up.

Melt one tablespoon butter in skillet; place filled crepes in skillet. Cover and heat until heated through, 5 to 10 minutes, over low heat.

To serve, sprinkle with powdered sugar. Serves 3 to 4

COLORFUL LAYERS of ingredients but is actually quite simple to prepare. Sour cream adds a unique flavor to the cake. The dessert looks elegant and complicated

Mrs. Joseph O'Malley

She Bakes Homemade Bread For 'Therapy'

When Mrs. Joseph O'Malley gets a little uptight and petty problems seem insurmountable, chances are she'll head for the kitchen. Not to fix herself a martini but to bake bread.

Sheila O'Malley is one of those capable homemakers who cares for her six children, bakes bread about twice a week, entertains regularly, manages her Palatine home like an efficiency expert and appears cool and collected.

Although Sheila bakes for her family on a regular basis, she also terms it her therapy. "I find cooking and baking very relaxing," Sheila said as she passed the Irish soda bread and kolachky. Even then, the unmistakable aroma of freshly baked bread filled the house.

"With six children things naturally get a little hectic at times," said Sheila. "Sometimes I have to give myself a little extra push, but it's always worth the effort."

The O'Malley children Joe, 9; Julie, 8;

Ellen, 7; Mary, 6; Sheila, 4; and Eileen, 2, do demand a lot of Sheila's attention, but her husband is far from neglected.

ONCE A WEEK Sheila prepares an early dinner for the children, then dines leisurely with her husband, Joe, whether she serves roast duckling or simply a sandwich. Sheila feels this one night a week helps the two of them maintain their identity as adult individuals.

A typical dinner at the O'Malley house is usually something special. Full table service is used, and you won't catch any of the children tucking a napkin bib-style. Table manners are important to Sheila, and she would never have any doubts about taking her children to a restaurant for they know how to behave.

"It takes a lot of positive correction at home, but I feel it is important that children learn proper table etiquette," Sheila commented.

Oftentimes she will add flowers to the dinner table and serve wine. On Sundays the children socialize with the adults and enjoy kiddie cocktails.

AS HER FAMILY grew, Sheila began tailoring her shopping habits for a large family. She makes all of her own bread, never buys mixes, and feels that more than one trip to the grocery store a week is a waste of money.

Stocking up on specials is another one of Sheila's tips. She never buys snack foods but always has plenty of fresh fruits and vegetable trays on hand for munchers. Freshly baked cookies satisfy the sweet fanciers.

Turning less expensive cuts of meats into attractive dinner entrees comes naturally to Sheila. She makes lots of hearty homemade soups, and spaghetti is always complemented with homemade French bread and a domestic wine.

Be it marinated flank steak, smoked butt or pot roast, Sheila can transform it into a tasty dinner.

For a warm lunch Sheila often serves ground beef on toast. Bread is simply toasted on one side sprinkled with ground beef on the other, seasoned and broiled for a few minutes.

The following recipes are just a sampling of the recipes Sheila uses regularly.

GROUND BEEF LUNCH

For four servings, toast 4 slices of bread on one side. Sprinkle untoasted side with ground beef. Season with salt and pepper or garlic salt. Place under broiler for 3 to 5 minutes.

Serve with pickle and chips.

KOLACHKY

4 cups flour

2 tablespoons powdered sugar

1 pint vanilla ice cream, softened

Cream flour, sugar and butter until well mixed; add ice cream and mix just until all the flour mixture is moist. Put into tightly covered container and chill at least overnight. (the dough will be lumpy.) When ready to roll out, take a small amount at a time and work on well floured board until dough is smooth, but not sticky. Roll thin and cut in desired shape. Fill with fruit filling. Bake at 400 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen.

NUT BREAD

2 eggs
2 cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons melted shortening
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups buttermilk
1 cup chopped nuts

Mix dry ingredients in small bowl. In large mixing bowl, put the eggs, beat with a fork. Add brown sugar, mix, then add melted shortening. Add dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk, starting and finishing with flour mixture. Add chopped nuts. Pour batter into two loaf pans and bake 1 hour at 350 degrees. This bread freezes very well and it also stays fresh in refrigerator as long as two weeks.

COFFEE CAKE

1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 sticks butter
1 cup sour cream
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
Dash salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla

Topping:

1/2 cup ground nuts
1/4 cup sugar
3/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream butter and sugar, add eggs one at a time, beating after each one. Add vanilla. In separate bowl mix dry ingredients; add dry ingredients alternately with the sour cream. Mix ingredients for topping. Put cake batter in 10-inch tube pan half at a time, putting some of the topping in middle and also on top. You can also make two 8-inch cakes. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Mealtimes Variety

Tasty Salmon Croquettes

Are you familiar with the many varieties of canned salmon? There are usually five varieties of canned Pacific salmon available on the grocer's shelf. While all varieties have the same nutritive value, they differ in color, texture, and price. Deep-colored varieties with high oil content are considered choice and usually command the highest prices. To enable you to choose the variety which best meets your family's needs, here are some points to remember when making your selection.

Sockeye is the aristocrat of canned salmon. It is prized for its vivid red flesh, firm texture, and high oil content. Count on it for delicious and attractive canapés, salads, and hot dishes.

Coho is lighter in color than sockeye. It breaks into large flakes and is equally good in any recipe. Use it with confidence.

Pink salmon is a delicate pink color and breaks into smaller flakes. In some years, pink salmon is the most plentiful of the five varieties. It makes attractive entrées, soups, sandwiches, or casseroles.

Chinook is the gourmet's delight. It is rich in oil and separates into large flakes. The chinook pack is usually small and, as a result, it has limited availability. It is excellent in salads and other dishes calling for salmon chunks.

Chum is the least expensive of all canned salmon. It is large-flaked, pale in color, and lower in oil. A real budget-stretcher, chum salmon is especially suitable for casseroles and other cooked dishes where color is not as important.

Phil Roedel, Director, National Marine Fisheries Service, United States Department of Commerce, says: "All canned salmon regardless of variety or price is usually a tremendous buy for the homemaker. There is no waste in a can of salmon."

Crusty Salmon Croquettes, an oven-baked entree from the National Marine Fisheries Service, was planned to help you switch the heat from deep-fat heat. Cheese and apples are added for an extra taste treat and the salmon is extended with cooked rice. Crusty Salmon Croquettes provide delicious and nutritious mealtime variety.

Quick and Easy Ways with Salmon is a 12-page, full-color leaflet featuring canned salmon. A copy will be mailed free by writing to the Canned Salmon Institute, c/o Cole & Weber, Inc. 3100 South 176th Street, Seattle, Washington 98188.

CRUSTY SALMON CROQUETTES

- 1 can (1 pound) salmon
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons melted margarine or cooking oil
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 cups cooked rice

- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 1 cup cereal crumbs
- 1/4 cup cooking oil
- 6 spiced apple rings
- Chopped parsley

Drain and flake salmon. Cook onion in melted margarine or cooking oil until tender. Blend in flour. Add milk gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add rice, egg, cheese, salt, pepper and salmon. Chill several hours. Shape into 6 cones. Roll in crumbs. Place cones on a well-greased baking pan, 15 by 10 by 1 inches. Pour cooking oil over cones. Bake in an extremely hot oven, 500 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes or until lightly brown. Remove from oven and place spiced apple rings on baking pan. Bake 4 to 5 minutes longer or until apples are heated. Arrange croquettes and apple rings on warm serving platter. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes 6 servings.

LAMB CHOPS

Shoulder Lamb Chops
Ease Strained Budgets

There are many parts to a tender little lamb other than the loin chops and leg roasts that we're all partial to. Good lamb flavor is found in shoulder lamb chops at a much lower price than other cuts command. And, if you extend the meat with a nutritious bread stuffing, you're doing your family and your food fund a favor.

Apricot-Wonder Stuffing is a flavorful mixture of chopped canned apricots, crunchy nuts and celery, together with bread and seasonings. Baked on top of the chops, which have been rubbed with garlic and browned, the bread stuffing contributes inexpensive protein as well as the B-vitamins, niacin, riboflavin and thiamine, and the minerals iron and calcium.

Good nutrition and good taste can be good for your budget.

SHOULDER LAMB CHOPS
WITH APRICOT STUFFING

5 slices enriched bread

- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1 cup (1 pound 1 ounce can) apricots
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 4 shoulder lamb chops, 3/4-inch thick
- 1 clove garlic or 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Cube slices of bread. Drain apricots, reserving juice, and chop. Combine with bread and remaining ingredients, adding liquid from drained apricots if additional moistness is desired. Rub both sides of lamb chops with peeled garlic clove or sprinkle with garlic salt. Divide dressing into 4 portions and place on chops. Bake 25 minutes or to preferred degree of doneness. 4 servings.

A&P & A-MART JOIN TOGETHER

what is the definition of a private brand?

To some people, it is a retailer's own brand created with selling price first in importance and quality second.

To us at A&P, it's the opposite.

Quality comes first.

Value...the best for the least is the rule for our private brands.

If this wasn't true, how foolish we'd be to invest, as we have, literally millions of dollars in processing plants and testing laboratories.

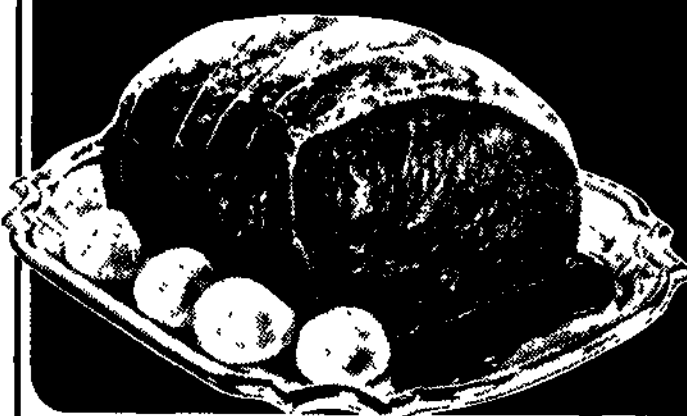

If all we wanted were products we could sell cheaply without quality control, anybody could produce them for us.

The idea of quality private brands isn't new at A&P. As a matter of fact, it's one of our oldest policies—and by golly, we're proud of it.

Are A&P Private Brands a good reason for shopping A&P? They're one of many.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it.
 is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Grandmother With Youthful Ideas

by JEANNE LESEM

Marion Rombauer Becker is a grandmother with youthful enthusiasm for subjects that turn on the under-30 generation: organic gardening, organically grown foods, ecology and Women's Liberation.

Mrs. Becker, who is best known as the co-author of "The Joy of Cooking," talked recently of these controversial subjects in an interview. She had come to New York from her southern Ohio home to promote a new book, "Wild Wealth," Bobbs-Merrill which she wrote with conservationist Paul Bigelow Sears and florist-botanist Frances Jones Poetker.

She favors natural instead of chemical fertilizers for gardening because "it's obvious we must do something about growing and waste. We must cherish the best of the old methods."

"My growing experience has been happier with composting. You can use material on your place, you don't have to buy anything and you're recycling waste."

"I HAVE ALMOST a mystic feeling about organic foods. There are so many unknown factors."

Mrs. Becker deplored the food industry's tendency to choose products for their shelf life instead of freshness, flavor and nutritional value.

"Always, in any seed, there's a protein element that is removed in processing to prevent rancidity," she said, adding that the highly nutritious seeds removed from whole grains in making all purpose flour are then sold for bird seed.

The current edition of her cookbook, originally published privately by her mother, Irma Rombauer, still retains a guide to substituting coarsely ground whole grain flours for the bleached, all purpose variety.

The new book is a lavishly illustrated plea for conservation of natural resources. Mrs. Becker's section is about wildflower gardening with an ecological base.

But she's also concerned about the current interest in gathering and eating wild plants, and about hippies in communes who grow their own produce.

"THE TROUBLE IS, they don't know enough about soil or food preservation," she said. "A friend who went to a hippie wedding in Kentucky said they were covered with impetigo, a skin disease and white with anemia. She said they'd grown potatoes but left them out because they didn't realize potatoes had to be stored in a cool, dark place to retain their nutritional value and quality."

Mrs. Becker said commune people also don't realize that they need 25 to 30 per cent wooded area to preserve an ecological base while growing their own food.

She theorized that the Indians had no such problems in growing foods years ago because they were constantly on the move to different areas, so they didn't wear out soil as modern growers can do if they plant the same things in the same fields year after year.

Mrs. Becker also saw dangers inherent in the current flower and food cult: insufficient or incorrect cooking or picking plants at the wrong stage of development.

"People talk of the glories of poke greens — but only the emerging shoots are safe to eat. Many wild plants contain very dangerous alkaloids which are highly poisonous. Certain foods need elaborate systems to be safe."

She recommended military survival manuals as good guides for wild food cookery and said that, in general, it's best to cook any edible wild plant in three waters and throw away the first two.

She said she's been gardening for 30 years "but there isn't a day I don't learn something new."

Besides gardening and cooking, her interests include art. She ran the Modern Art Society in Cincinnati for 15 years, and also found time to work on her mother's cookbook and rear two sons.

Pizza Flavored Beef Squares

Pack the flavor punch of pizza into a meat loaf and be prepared to provide second servings all around the table. Seasoned with oregano and topped with mozzarella cheese, these squares of beef loaf are juicy and delicious.

PIZZA MEAT SQUARES

2 pounds ground beef
4 slices bacon
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
1 can (4 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces
2 eggs
1 cup cooked rice
1½ teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ teaspoon leaf oregano
2 to 3 slices mozzarella cheese

Cook bacon until crisp, remove to absorbent paper and break into small pieces. Reserving 2 tablespoons onion for topping, add remaining onion to bacon drippings, cook until tender and remove to absorbent paper. Combine ground beef, bacon, cooked onion, mushrooms including liquid, eggs, rice, salt and pepper. Mix well. Pat meat mixture into an 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan.

Mix tomato sauce, oregano and the reserved onion. Pour mixture over meat loaf. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees) 1 hour. Cut cheese into pieces to form approximately nine 2-inch squares. Arrange cheese pieces on meat loaf in 3 rows of 3 pieces each. Return meat loaf to oven and bake 15 minutes longer or until done. 9 servings.

"THIS ALL FITS in with Women's Lib," she concluded.

"I have a husband, an architect, who's very cooperative. He's not only interested in food but he is a very good editor. He's always taken an interest in the cookbook and he did the drinks and heat chapter in the most recent edition.

"I think his attitude grew out of the depression. We both were working and he thought it only fair to share the work at home."

If you like CONVENIENCE

every possible measure has been taken in the expansion of the Arlington Federal Savings headquarters to make financial transactions easy and comfortable for our patrons.

THREE DRIVE-IN STATIONS

Three Drive-In stations with pneumatic tube service enable customers to transact business from their cars promptly and comfortably. Easily accessible from Evergreen Avenue, they provide ample room for approach on Association property and safeguard against traffic congestion.

178 FREE PARKING SPACES

Two Association parking lots adjacent to the Arlington Federal building are augmented by two Village parking areas in the immediate vicinity, affording a total of 178 free parking spaces. In addition, there are 121 nearby metered parking places for use if needed.

59 HOURS A WEEK SERVICE

In the same facility serving Drive-in customers are Walk-Up windows for use by pedestrian patrons when the main lobby is closed. The daily schedule indicates a total of 59 hours a week during which many savings and loan transactions can be completed.

If you appreciate SERVICE

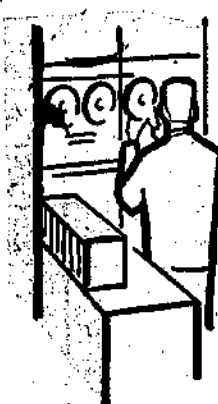

Arlington Federal Savings' reputation for efficient service and friendly personal attention is preserved in the expansion program, which provides for improved handling of customer needs.

18 TELLER STATIONS

A greatly expanded lobby with an increase in teller stations from 8 to 18 means prompt handling of customer transactions. Preserved in the planning is the attractive open staircase to the second floor. Added is a self-service elevator reaching all four floor levels.

COMPUTERIZED RECORD KEEPING

A large computer room, equipped with "floating floor" and refined temperature and humidity controls and with equipment specially designed for financial installations, affords instantaneous computation of interest and prompt accessibility of account information.

ENLARGED SAFE DEPOSIT VAULT

The Vault has been enlarged and equipped with the latest scientific and technological devices for protection of valuables and important papers. Its street-level location and floor-level entrance make for easy access by patrons. Boxes are available in a variety of sizes.

$1.1 Million Bond Issue For Park, Pool Is June 10

A two-part $1.1 million bond issue referendum to finance park development and an indoor swimming pool will be put to the voters of the Hoffman Estates Park District on June 10.

Final plans for the referendum were announced by the park board of commissioners on Tuesday. The plan will be divided into two separate questions. The first will ask approval for $475,000 to finance the construction of the indoor pool at Hoffman Estates High School; the second phase will be $675,000 for a massive park development program.

Park Board Pres. Fred Weaver said in announcing the referendum plans, the total package is considerably less than the $1.6 million estimate for the program.

"There has been a considerably reduction, primarily due to the comments and reactions of groups we met with earlier this year," Weaver said.

"THE GROUP told us what they are willing to pay for and we feel that we are responding to the needs and wishes of the community," he said.

Earlier this year, the park board met with many community and civic groups to discuss a master plan for park development prepared by the planning firm of McFadden and Everly Ltd. of Winnetka.

The park board scheduled a special meeting at 8:30 p.m. on Monday. Weaver said the board will try to determine a breakdown of the various amounts to be spent on neighborhood park improvement.

Apparently one of the few major cuts from the original master plan package will be the elimination of an outdoor pool in the Winston Knolls area. There had been some criticism by citizens who felt Winston Knolls was getting a disproportionate share of planned park improvements.

Weaver said while the pool had been cut, "considerably general park development is planned in that area."

He added the board will consider the possible use of buses to carry residents of the park district to both the Lions Pool and the indoor pool.

WEAVER SAID the board will spend the nine weeks remaining before the referendum preparing information for presentation to various community groups. He said the park district will attempt to contact as many groups as possible. He urged groups to contact the district to arrange a meeting date.

A complete financial breakdown and estimated cost per homeowner can probably be expected after the special board meeting next week, said Weaver.

In other action relating to the referendum, the board gave formal approval to a contract with the architectural firm of Kessler, Merz and Lochner. The board had approved hiring the firm to do preliminary design work for the development program. The agreement will cost the park district $800 if the referendum fails and $4,800 if the referendum passes and the park district chooses to use a different architectural firm for the project.

Board Of Health Plans To Expand

Environment Unit May Be Phased Out

Schaumburg's Clean Environment Committee (CEC) could soon be phased out by an expanded village board of health.

Health board members "generally endorsed" the concept of enlarging their five-member group to include four newcomers to be chosen from CEC, Trustee Jack Larsen said Tuesday.

Larsen has served as liaison to the village board for both CEC and the board of health for the past year.

Now, as newly named chairman of the finance committee, Larsen is being replaced in these functions by Trustee Peter Justin who was appointed to the village board in February.

The board of health is an official arm of village government with its members appointed by Mayor Robert O. Atcher with consent of the trustees.

CEC IS AN informal citizens advisory group in which interested persons have participated without formal appointment.

Larsen reported that health board members had expressed a desire to "put more teeth into CEC," and said they felt this could be accomplished by the proposed expansion.

"I will point out, though, that there are not four openings on the board of health now," Larsen noted, explaining that new posts could be created.

At present CEC members Terri Glynn, Ken Dupp and Denis Ledgerwood also serve as members of the board of health.

Expansion, which could occur following further study, would, Larsen believes, strengthen the environmental group, pri-vide efficiency and eliminate duplication of members.

He encouraged CEC members interested in applying for the possible openings to arrange for screening interviews. Under questioning from member Sandra Etchingham, Larsen admitted he had

Youth Wins Bunny

A Glendale Heights youth, Fred Kennedy of 5470 Lynn Ct., has been notified he will receive a giant stuffed Easter Bunny, from Cal's Roast Beef in Schaumburg.

Owners of the fast foods operation said Kennedy registered for the bunny along with hundreds of other customers during the past week and his name was selected to take home the attendance prize.

135 Of 400 Needed Volunteers Join Project Help

More than one-third of the volunteer force of 400 needed for Project Help has been signed up since The Herald's recruitment drive began Monday.

As of late Wednesday volunteers totaled 135.

Project Help, a joint environmental improvement program, will be carried out in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates next month.

The program is being co-ordinated by Schaumburg's Clean Environment Committee (CEC) and Hoffman Estates Environmental Concerns Committee and will involve activities planned for three Saturdays in May.

On May 6, roadway clean-up crews will be at work in both villages; May 13 is planting day and will involve a large area in Schaumburg and entrances to the Village of Hoffman Estates; May 20 will be creek cleaning day in both communities.

Residents of both towns are encouraged to volunteer services for the Saturday of their choosing.

Workers will be assigned to areas of need in each community regardless of their place of residence.

Old, but sturdy clothing and boots, depending on weather conditions, are recommended and volunteers are specifically requested to bring heavy work gloves.

May 6 and 20 volunteers will assemble at 9:30 a.m. at Golf-Rose Shopping Center; on May 13 workers will meet at Schaumburg Road and Salem Drive (just east of the Schaumburg High School parking lot).

Persons needing rides any of the three weekends may obtain them by calling Mickey or Gerry Mandel of Schaumburg Village Cab at 529-8200. They have volunteered their services to pick-up volunteers at their homes and deliver them to gathering points. However, requests for rides must be made 24 hours in advance, to allow for scheduling. The taxi firm cannot offer rides home after the work sessions.

Adults of all ages are needed for the joint effort and young people are being encouraged to assist. Groups of children under 10 years of age must, however, be accompanied by either a parent, scout leader or other adult supervisor.

A separate phase of the joint community project involves merchants in both villages who are being asked to contribute efforts to the program.

Weekly awards are being planned for outstanding commercial beautification programs and will be recognized by organizers of Project Help.

Adults, civic organizations and businessmen in both communities who wish to enlist in Project Help are asked to call The Herald at 394-2300, Ext. 256.

Names of all volunteers, groups or schools represented will be published daily in The Herald.

Latest volunteers include: Gary Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. John Etchingham, Dick Hedke, Schaumburg Trustees Jack Larsen and Peter Justin.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Enbys, Scott and Teron Enbys, Terri Glynn, Denis Ledgerwood, Jane Murphy, and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Larson, as well as Schaumburg Village Mgr. John Coste.

HERALD STAFF members pledging time to Project Help include Nancy Cowger and Pat Gerlach.

Den 2 of Pack 297, Hoffman School will participate too. The group includes Mrs. Susan Huss and scouts Chris Am Rhein, Chris Kontney, Craig Driggers, Roy Blotstrup, Todd Rimmer, Mark Neubecker, Scott Komen and Mike Thompkins.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The Harrisburg Seven jury found the Rev. Philip Berrigan guilty of smuggling three letters out of the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison, but said it was hopelessly deadlocked on charges that Berrigan and six other antiwar activists conspired against the government.

Sen. George McGovern's campaign directors said their man saved the other Democratic presidential hopefuls from a whipping by Gov. George Wallace. They said the race for the Democratic presidential nomination is now between McGovern and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, despite Wallace's second place finish in the Wisconsin primary.

The body of flamboyant Harlem congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., 63, remained at the Miami hospital where he died Tuesday while two of the women in his life tried to agree on funeral arrangements.

Sen. John Tunney tagged two high-ranking White House aides as pivotal witnesses in the Senate Judiciary Committee's ITT investigation and its bearing on Atty. Gen.-nominee Richard Kleindienst.

A flash fire swept through a small nursing home turned boarding house in Rosecrans, Wis., killing nine elderly residents.

The World

An Indonesian airlines pilot shot and killed a hijacker who forced him to land at Jogjakarta and threatened to blow up the plane unless his ransom demands were met.

The State

Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott has asked three county courts to impose $155,000 in fines against 13 retailers who allegedly failed to pay state cigarette taxes.

The Chicago Housing Authority has been fined $200 by the Illinois Pollution Control Board for operation of incinerators in Chicago's Bridgeport area.

About 5,500 state employees will be placed under the state's personnel code next month, a move the Illinois State Employees Association has strongly endorsed.

The War

Two Communist jets crossed into South Vietnam for the first known time in the war to buzz government troops battling attacking North Vietnamese in Quang Tri province. Communists also opened a second front with an attack 60 miles north of Saigon. In Paris, a Viet Cong spokesman said North Vietnam's military advance into South Vietnam has proven the failure of the United States' Vietnamization.

Seat On Board 'Next Natural Step': Mrs. Czajkowski

by STEVE NOVICK

ARLENE CZAJKOWSKI

Mrs. Arlene Czajkowski, active in Dist. 54 school activities for more than a decade, said she is seeking a seat on the board of education as the "next natural step" of her involvement.

Involved in PTA activity since 1965 and a regular board of education meeting attendee, Mrs. Czajkowski is currently a lay member of the board's legislative committee.

As a school board member Mrs. Czajkowski would have two immediate areas of concern: eliminating the middle session of the current three session kindergarten in favor of two longer periods, and broadening the junior high school's elective curriculum.

"The middle session is neither fish nor fowl," she said. There's been a drop in kindergarten enrollments, she added, which makes two 2½ hour sessions more feasible. The extra time can make the session more valuable, said Mrs. Czajkowski.

"I don't like the choice (of electives) available at the junior high school level," she added.

French, art, band, chorus or music are the limit of classes from which students may choose, said Mrs. Czajkowski, adding Spanish should be available too, noting there are teachers in the district now who could teach the language.

This is the last of a three-part series of six interviews of School Board of Education candidates in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54. Voters will go to the polls Saturday to elect two board members to three-year posts. The Herald will announce endorsement of two candidates for the board seats Friday.

"Spanish, as a choice besides French, might be more appropriate," because of the number of Spanish speaking people and the language's relevance to youngsters interested in social work, she added.

Sociology and anthropology also would be appropriate electives because "these kids are going to have to live in a different world than their parents," she said.

In a broad sense Mrs. Czajkowski praised the school district, pointing specifically to reading and math programs in the primary grades.

Another area for criticism, however, was reading labs where she said, "more can be done to motivate children." Mrs. Czajkowski sat in with students using the district's "sophisticated" reading lab equipment, during an effort to improve her own reading skills.

Favoring a 12-month school year, she said it would cut down on students having to get back into the routine of learning after long breaks. Financially, she said, Dist. 54 schools would have to provide buses during summer months and air conditioning that would cost a great deal in the beginning.

She feels the district has kept up with the demands for new school buildings and expressed her pleasure with the decision to build two story schools, something she endorsed 10 years ago.

Mrs. Czajkowski said the school district now receives more money in state aid than is collected locally in real estate taxes, a revenue source being challenged in the state supreme court for the unfair advantage some districts have over others in providing equalized education.

"Probably, we would suffer if the taxes were declared unconstitutional," said Mrs. Czajkowski. "Statewide it might be best for all children. From an educational point of view I'd have to be for it."

She opposes busing for integration, and said, "If you tell people their children are to be bused to Damen and Madison, people would get very upset." Unit districts, providing one administration for kindergarten through high school grades, might be all right if High School District 211 were split along the boundary lines of elementary Districts 54 and 15. The two elementary districts feed the current high schools in Palatine and Schaumburg townships.

She is against parochialism because, "the schools are there for everyone to use. If you choose not to, it's a privilege and you should pay for it."

Teacher-board relationships are good as a whole, said Mrs. Czajkowski, observing "a lot of teachers remain" with the district.

She doesn't think teachers here are too unionized, and expressed pleasure that initial contract proposals from the school board and teachers have been published this year.

"People deserve to know what was originally asked for so the public can see the give and take," she added.

Mrs. Czajkowski also said teacher's strikes might be all right for educational reasons. "Salaries here are quite good. I don't think they'd strike for salaries," she said, adding, "Class size might be legitimate (as a strike reason). It would be for the betterment of their (the students') education."

Merit pay for teachers would be more trouble than it's worth because principals have different standards for judging teachers, she said.

Merit pay would undermine current efforts at team teaching, she added, explaining team members wouldn't share ideas because they'd fear not receiving credit for their thoughts when merit increments are given.

Tenure for teachers is covered by a law that says you "can't drop dead beats at the end of an educational system," according to Mrs. Czajkowski.

Report cards currently "leave a little to be desired," she said. The situation is clearing through the IGE (individually guided education) program, where there is better record keeping. Parents are being better informed on what their child is doing in relation to his grade level.

On student discipline, she said, there should be no striking of children, although some might deserve it. "It's hard to distinguish where it's justified," she said.

Suspensions should be used as a last resort for the disruptive child, she added, although she feels suspensions are meaningless unless there's an impact with the parents.

Mrs. Czajkowski lives with her husband, Myron and their five children at 727 Crest Ave. in unincorporated Schaumburg. She is a 1962 graduate of Rosary College.

James Rogers Says Lack Of Bias His Greatest Asset

by NANCY COWGER

As a parent whose children are not yet in school, James Anthony Rogers feels his greatest asset to the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education would be his lack of bias. He is seeking a spot on that board in the April 8 election.

"Any matter that comes up before the board, I can judge solely on merit and effectiveness, without any prior commitments or prejudices," he said. Candidates with previous backgrounds as teachers or Parent-Teacher Association members "may lean toward these groups," he said, adding it is "very important to be able to take an analytical look, with no bias."

While Rogers himself has no children in school, he has talked about Dist. 54 matters with parents who do. He also considers himself knowledgeable in the student role, having completed 90 per cent of the requirements for a master's degree.

PARENTS ARE most concerned about a lack of uniformity in grading procedures, and about the school lunch program, said Rogers.

"A lot of parents feel grading is not standardized by class level or by school. Some teachers use checks, some use percentages and some use A-B-C" in indicating grades, he said. "There is a lot of confusion by parents as to how the child's doing," he said. Grading could at least be standardized within the same school, he suggested, and parents could be informed of the system through the Board-O-Gram, a board newsletter.

Rogers also feels the district should publicize achievement levels, not identifying individual students but indicating achievement for grade levels, as compared with other districts in the nation. This, he said, "would give parents a better idea of what's going on."

The school lunch program should be financed completely by the district, said Rogers. As it now operates, it is unfair, since some parents pay for supervision and other parents must supervise children themselves, on a rotating basis. Also, he said, some parents do not supervise properly, noting one lunch group he visited was bedlam.

"I think the school district can afford someone to stay," he said. Administration and janitorial service can be handled with existing staff, he said.

Rogers opposes a non-graded system, favoring instead the competition from a standard system.

"SCHOOL IS THE first exposure to the competitive system they (students) will find in the outside world," he said.

While Rogers feels some of the district's buildings "were not built with economy in mind" and wasted space in such areas as two-story hallways, "Newer buildings are getting better," he said. However, he said he has found some

The relationship between teachers and the board should be one of a "whole team effort," said Rogers. While teachers in general have been underpaid, Rogers said, he deliberately did not learn about Dist. 54 contract provisions because he wanted to remain impartial.

Although teachers "possibly have a right to strike," said Rogers, "I don't like to see a strike, because it's disruptive." By opening contract negotiations to public scrutiny, said Rogers, the board and teachers would eliminate a lot of problems. Initial proposals from each side would be more realistic, he said. There might be times when it was necessary to hold information back, he said. However, he said "any function of the school board should be wide open." While some matters should be kept quiet, the press, PTA and teacher representatives could be permitted to attend meetings, with the understanding they cooperate by not revealing activity, said Rogers.

Any joining of Dist. 54 with a high school district or other elementary districts, either to form a unit district, or for integration, is opposed by Rogers.

"Parents would lose control of a district in a larger geographic area," he said.

ROGERS ADVOCATES the 12-month school year, feeling it would raise student achievement by shortening gaps between sessions, and make better use of facilities. Initial parent reaction would be against the 12-month year, he said, but parents would find their fears unfounded after working under it for a while.

Taxing for schools on a statewide basis to equalize financing would penalize Dist. 54 and benefit districts that now tax at a low level, said Rogers. He would favor such a measure only if it brought all districts up to the Dist. 54 level, and did not lower any to the median level.

Busing for integration would be a mistake, since it would be disruptive, said Rogers.

"Each district should take care of its own children and its own schools," he said.

On curriculum, Rogers would like to add more vocational courses in junior high school for children who have reached their academic peak, along with "after hours" classes in such areas as art and music.

Rogers resides in Schaumburg at 905 Williams Ct., and works as a representative for Union Carbide Corp. His college programs focused on marketing, and while in college he worked on a radio station. He is a Jaycee, and lists his interests as children and civic affairs.

Pupil Expulsion Law Called Sensible

Expulsion of a pupil from Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 is something Supt. Wayne Schaible doesn't believe in or remember ever happening during his six years with the district.

Schaible commented on recent legislation that tells school districts they must grant a board of education hearing or appoint a hearing officer for a pupil the district wishes to expel or suspend. He called the legislation "sensible."

"It's something this district has been practicing all along," he said. Schaible said he personally does not believe that expelling a pupil solves anyone's problem. "Dist. 54 has had no expulsions since I've been superintendent," he added.

Suspensions come to the board of education's attention in his monthly report, but are never made a public issue, said Schaible.

"Part of our purpose when we suspend a pupil is to get the parents in to talk to the school principal," said Schaible.

SCHAIBLE ADDED suspension notices sent to parents always note that for a student to be reinstated after such disciplinary action a parent must come to the school with the child after suspension is lifted.

"If parents in this district wish to have a hearing before the full board or wish a hearing officer be appointed for them we would do so gladly," said Schaible. "No one to date has requested this measure and most parents appear satisfied to discuss the suspensions with the school principal," said Schaible.

The superintendent noted in Dist. 54 elementary and junior high schools disciplinary action is usually for minor infractions of behavior such as fighting or disobedience. "Parents too have been most cooperative," he added.

The district has not named a hearing officer and does not anticipate such action until a request is made, said Schaible.

initiated the proposal for change. HEALTH BOARD members will not be forced to perform the duties of a village health department with the recent employment of Robert Grossman, a full-time sanitarian.

Member Betty Enbysk said she had obtained guidelines used by Hoffman Estates Environmental Concerns Committee, an 11-member subcommittee of that village's public works committee.

That committee, with members appointed by the village president and board of trustees, is chaired by Trustee Diane Jensen.

Mrs. Enbysk hoped for official environmental committee representation on planning and zoning commissions and the board of health, as evidenced in Hoffman Estates.

"We can't go around picking up papers forever and should begin to get into the area of ordinance review and other business," she stressed.

LARSEN AND Village Mgr. John Coste took issue with her point that the trustee providing liaison with the village board should also have a vote in the auxiliary body.

Coste termed the Hoffman Estates committee "unique" in having its chairman also a member of the village board.

He said he would not favor such an arrangement in Schaumburg and would prefer the ordinance governing the board of health as expanded prevent this.

Stressing it important that the philosophy expressed thus far by CEC be continued in the event of a change, Larsen emphasized his feelings that "elected officials should keep out of such a position from a political standpoint."

Prospect Heights Homeowners

County Wheel Tax Group Challenges

A class action suit challenging the constitutionality of the Cook County vehicle tax for unincorporated areas was filed yesterday in Cook County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed in the name of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA), a homeowners group, and in the names of several individuals.

The suit contends the tax is unconstitutional because, while only residents of unincorporated Cook County have to pay it, the revenue is used throughout the county.

"While the money benefits 5 1/2 million people, it is collected from only 180,000 (those in unincorporated parts of the county)," said Jack Gilligan, a PHIA member involved in the suit. He said the class action suit was filed on behalf of all residents in the unincorporated sections of the county.

IN CONNECTION with the suit, Gilligan said, the PHIA wants the vehicle tax funds already collected to be put in escrow pending the outcome of the legal action.

The legal fight is being financed through donations from several homeowner groups and individuals in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships. Gilligan said more than $2,200 had been collected.

Filing of the suit climaxes a campaign against the tax that began shortly after the tax was approved late last December by the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

One of the groups leading the fight was the Taxpayers Protest Committee of Cook County. That group had been expected to file the suit; however, a last-minute change in plans resulted in the PHIA taking over the suit.

On March 18 the PHIA and TPC co-sponsored a protest rally against the tax at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights. About 1,000 persons from unincorporated areas of county attended.

Those at the rally were asked to sign petitions and to contribute funds to the legal fight.

THE COUNTY'S newly passed taxes on mobile homes and on new car sales were also the targets of protest at the rally.

Gilligan said yesterday that attorneys are still pondering a suit against the mobile home tax. No suit is planned against the tax on new cars sold in the county, he said, because several municipalities have already filed a suit against it.

Also at the rally several state and county office holders and candidates expressed their support for opposition to the tax.

During the meeting at Hersey, TPC Pres. Richard Hechler predicted that similar rallies would be held in other parts of unincorporated Cook County. Gilligan said yesterday that another rally is scheduled for the LaGrange area.

A public meeting will be held at 7:30 tonight at St. Alphonsus Catholic Church on Wheeling Road in Prospect Heights to turn over petitions opposing the taxes to area legislators. Gilligan said yesterday more than 2,000 persons had signed the petitions.

Lions Pool Summer Job Signup Saturday

High school and college students looking for summer jobs at Hoffman Estates Lions Pool are asked to come in or call park district offices Saturday between 9 a.m. and noon.

Openings for locker room attendants and life guards are now being filled, according to Pool Mgr. Jim Sindelar.

Persons applying for posts as lifeguards must be a minimum of 16 years of age, but 15-year-olds will be considered for other jobs.

Salary and hours will be discussed at the time of interview.

Sindelar will be available at park district offices, 150 W. Higgins Road, Saturday, and can be reached at 529-8660.

Some Openings In Pony League For Boys 13-15

The Schaumburg Boys Baseball League still has some openings in its Pony League for local boys aged 13, 14 and 15, announced Ron Hawley, president of the Schaumburg Boys Baseball Association.

There also are openings on the association's two Woodfield Babe Ruth League teams which are to be comprised of boys of Pony League age who are advanced in ability, Hawley said.

Another registration for both leagues will be held between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday at the Jennings' House, 220 S. Civic Dr., Schaumburg, he added.

"Registration is open for boys living within the Schaumburg Park District who will be 13 before Aug. 1 and who will not be 16 by that date," said Hawley.

Registration fee is $20 and parents must accompany boys to sign the consent and registration forms. A birth certificate or other proof of age is also required.

Hawley explained the association is attempting to enter a team in the Irving-Lake Senior Babe Ruth League for boys aged 16, 17 and 18. Boys interested can also register Saturday. The same requirements apply to them as to the other registrants.

Tryouts for all registered Pony League and Woodfield Babe Ruth League boys will be held at Dooley Field, 622 Norwood Ln., Schaumburg at 10 a.m. April 15, weather permitting, Hawley said. He added tryouts for the senior Babe Ruth teams will be announced after the association's entry into the Irving-Lake League is approved.

Anyone wanting more information may call Hawley at 894-6229 or Jim Simandl at 529-3290.

School Artists Will Display At Conant

A traveling exhibition of work by outstanding Illinois high school artists will be on display in the James B. Conant High School library until April 20.

Twenty individual examples of work in conte, acrylic, pencil, ink, collage, lighter fluid transfer, air brush drawing and prints are included.

Park Program Signup To End Saturday

Registration for the Schaumburg Park District's eight-week spring program will continue until Saturday, according to park district officials.

The activities schedule includes a variety of programs at several schools and the new Meineke Community Center. The programs are open to residents of the park district. A fee is charged for some of the programs.

Pre-school classes, gymnastics and ballet classes are among the programs that will be offered by the park district this session.

More information and a complete schedule of classes can be obtained by calling the park district at 894-4660, or at the offices at 220 Weathersfield Way, Schaumburg.

Registration is open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., weekdays and 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday.

The artists were among 231 high school juniors and seniors selected to attend the 1970 summer Allerton Park Art Schools, co-sponsored by the University of Illinois and the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Instruction and facilities are furnished by the U of I Division of University Extension and Department of Art; room and board tuition scholarships and supervision are provided by the Woman's Clubs.

PARTICIPANTS ARE chosen on the basis of their promise in art; each is sponsored by his local federated club.

Pupils attend a one-week session. Instruction includes the areas of painting, graphic design, drawing and 3-D studio work. The students make full use of Allerton Park's scenic vistas, statuary, and landscapes.

This exhibit is sponsored by the Conant art department. Area residents are invited to view the art work during the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Conant High School is located on Cougar Trail off Plum Grove Road, in Hoffman Estates.

Meat Prices Show Little Sign Of Declining Here

Wheeling area shoppers are looking for lower prices in local stores as a result of recent publicity about the high cost of meat.

But despite advertising campaigns indicating food chains are cutting back meat prices, local shoppers may not be able to find significant reductions.

A spot check of four local supermarkets by the Herald yesterday indicated meat prices are close to what they were early last month.

Prices of five cuts of meat at the Jewel Food Store at 240 E. Dundee Road in Wheeling yesterday, compared with advertised prices from March 9, indicated little change.

JEWEL CONSISTENTLY had the lowest prices for the five cuts of meat checked in yesterday's survey although on two of the cuts Jewel prices were matched by the National Food Store at 901 W. Dundee Rd. and by the A&P Discount Food Store adjacent to the K Mart at 780 W. Dundee Rd.

The National Food Store, which is conducting a massive advertising campaign about cutting back meat prices to what they were last year at this time, seems to be offering shoppers confusion along with the savings.

On two separate signs in the store, National advertised the price of sirloin steak at $1.19 (down from $1.29 "yesterday") and $1.39 (down from $1.59 "yesterday"). The only sirloin steak to be found already cut and packaged in the store was in the section of the meat counter labeled "Prime" and was priced at $1.39 per pound.

The survey also indicated varying prices for ground beef at National, with 3½-pound packages priced at 69 cents a pound, and one-pound packages priced at 73 cents a pound for the same product. Meanwhile, the posted sign indicated ground beef was selling for 75 cents per pound.

THE LOCAL stores seemed aware of the fact that consumers are concerned about high meat prices. In addition to National's signs listing meat prices in several locations, both Peterson's Foods at 291 E. Dundee Rd. and the Jewel Food store had signs in their windows yesterday advertising prices for various meat cuts.

The A&P Discount Food Store was the only one of the four surveyed which did not have large window signs advertising meat prices.

Consumers across the nation have recently become alarmed at the rising meat prices which are not governed by the wage-price stabilization board. Raw agricultural products such as meat, eggs and vegetables were excluded from price restrictions, although federal officials now have indicated the price controls may be necessary if food stores do not stop price increases.

Several national food chain representatives recently met in Washington, D.C. to discuss the matter, and consumers expect some relief in the war on inflation.

A FRISBEE FAN, Glen Haines, 10, gasped as he reached to catch his flying friend. Though cool yesterday, their was an essence of Spring to grasp too with the memory of snow in April still strong in many minds. Children played, their coats prematurely set aside in the spirit of warmer days coming. (Photo by Mike Seeling).

Dist. 21 Voters Should Elect Jack Lane

Voters in the communities served by Elementary School Dist. 21 will go to the polls Saturday to select three candidates, two for 3-year terms and one for a 2-year term on the local school board.

Election of two candidates for the three-year terms is an accomplished fact since the two candidates are unopposed in their bids for reelection.

In the remaining 2-year term race, two candidates have come forward seeking the public's support — incumbent board member Jack Lane and caucus-endorsed candidate Ben Herman.

It is this two-year term race which is the crucial one for Dist. 21 voters and the one which is the only real election in the district.

For a 2-year term on the Dist. 21 board, we endorse Jack Lane and urge voters to cast their ballots for his election.

Since being appointed to the board some six months ago, Lane has proved to be an excellent member. His initial appointment by the other members was a well founded decision and he deserves to remain on the board through his own election.

THE CHOICE between Lane and

Herman is a difficult one. Both men appear to be candidates of substance and there are no hard issues dividing the two — in fact, they agree on most points.

Lane's six months of experience on the board is a benefit to the district and to the taxpayers which cannot be overlooked, however.

On issues, Lane shares many of the feelings of responsible observers of elementary school education. He feels the state should share in the cost of public education, but that local school boards should maintain control over their own systems.

He also believes developers have a great responsibility to the school district to help provide for the education of children from newly created subdivisions.

Lane's desire for new programs in the district is also commendable. He would like to see an improved reading program and would like to have industrial arts and crafts introduced at the junior high school level.

Lane's opinions in all these areas show him to be a candidate who has earned his current place on the board and is entitled to remain there through a full two-year term.

Dist. 21 residents are fortunate in the matter of the unopposed election for the two three-year term seats on the board.

Incumbent board members Mrs. Mary Joan Reid and Mrs. Lillian Stiller have proved to be good board members of long standing and their bid for reelection should be endorsed by the voters.

Although the Herald disfavors unopposed elections in principle, we recognize the worthy candidacies of Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Stiller and commend their decisions to stay on the local board of education.

Dist. 23 Voters Should Elect Stull, Krinsky

Five candidates are running for three school board posts in School Dist. 23. The field of hopefuls includes three incumbents and two new candidates.

The Herald endorses the reelection bids of John Stull and Alan Krinsky. For the third school board post we consider both the incumbent, Robert LeForge, and Ronald Sowatzke equally qualified.

In his three years on the school board Krinsky has demonstrated he is hard-working. He has been active in teacher negotiations. During his tenure on the board, Dist. 23 has become an innovator in the field of teacher relations. Dist. 23 is the only school district in the area to have a merit pay system for its teachers. It is one of two area school districts to initiate open teacher salary bargaining.

Similarly, Stull has shown himself to be a hard worker on the school board. He has criticized the board for spending too much time on "trivial matters," and we must agree with this.

Stull has recognized the district's problems in cooperating with other taxing bodies in the district's area.

Among other things Stull has called for a standardized policy that the school district could use with all area park districts.

Concerning the third school board post to be filled Saturday, the Herald feels that either Robert LeForge or Ronald Sowatzke would do an equally adequate job.

LeForge was appointed last year to fill a vacancy. Prior to that, however, he had served on the board several years. His experience as a longtime board member would be valuable.

While Sowatzke does not have the experience of LeForge, we think he has shown a great deal of interest in the school board during the 1½ years he has lived in the district.

The Nation

The Harrisburg Seven jury found the Rev. Philip Berrigan guilty of smuggling three letters out of the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison, but said it was hopelessly deadlocked on charges that Berrigan and six other antiwar activists conspired against the government.

Sen. George McGovern's campaign directors said their man saved the other Democratic presidential hopefuls from a whipping by Gov. George Wallace. They said the race for the Democratic presidential nomination is now between McGovern and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, despite Wallace's second place finish in the Wisconsin primary.

The body of flamboyant Harlem congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., 63, remained at the Miami hospital where he died Tuesday while two of the women in his life tried to agree on funeral arrangements.

Sen. John Tunney tagged two high-ranking White House aides as pivotal witnesses in the Senate Judiciary Committee's ITT investigation and its bearing on Atty. Gen.-nominee Richard Kleindienst.

A flash fire swept through a small nursing home turned boarding house in Rosecrans, Wis., killing nine elderly residents.

The World

An Indonesian airlines pilot shot and killed a hijacker who forced him to land at Jogjakarta and threatened to blow up the plane unless his ransom demands were met.

The State

Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott has asked three county courts to impose $155,000 in fines against 13 retailers who allegedly failed to pay state cigarette taxes.

The Chicago Housing Authority has been fined $200 by the Illinois Pollution Control Board for operation of incinerators in Chicago's Bridgeport area.

About 5,500 state employees will be placed under the state's personnel code next month, a move the Illinois State Employees Association has strongly endorsed.

The War

Two Communist jets crossed into South Vietnam for the first known time in the war to buzz government troops battling attacking North Vietnamese in Quang Tri province. Communists also opened a second front with an attack 60 miles north of Saigon. In Paris, a Viet Cong spokesman said North Vietnam's military advance into South Vietnam has proven the failure of the United States' Vietnamization.

Republicans Take Dist. 5

Democrats Gained County Influence

The Lake County Board elections Tuesday resulted in Democrats gaining influence in the county, but five Republicans won easily in Dist. 5, which includes Vernon Township and part of Buffalo Grove.

Five Republicans running as the Responsible Citizens Party defeated a slate of independents calling themselves the Responsible Independent Party. Buried in the voting were five Democratic candidates, four of them nominated last month by write-ins.

Incumbent F. T. "Mike" Graham led the ticket in Dist. 5 with 3,772 votes. Keith Pederson had 3,667, Thomas Hayward had 3,638, Don Morris had 3,633 and Joseph Dassing had 3,570.

Responsible Independents Party candidates finished sixth through 10th, but could not capture a board position.

In the overall county election, although some candidates ran on slates without party labels, informed observers counted nine Democrats among Tuesday's winners and 16 Republicans. The old county board stacked up 30 to 17 for Republicans.

Tuesday's election was the first since the county board election districts were reapportioned and the size of the board reduced. Formerly, board membership was based on township population. The board's five new districts, with five members from each district, are roughly equal in population.

Officials Hope Dundee Road Work Will Begin

State Highway Division officials are hopeful that work on the widening of Dundee Road from Elmhurst Road to Ill.

Rte. 53 can begin this year.

A highway division engineer said yesterday the project is all set to begin once money for the work becomes available.

The bids for the project are not included in ones which will be let to contractors this month, but they may be in the contracts in July, he said.

The widening project, which will also include the realignment of Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights roads, will take two years.

Currently Dundee Road is a four-lane road through Wheeling to Elmhurst Road.

After the work is finished the road will extend as four lanes from Elmhurst road west through Buffalo Grove.

The first part of the work on the road, once it begins, will include sewer construction.

The widening work on the road was held up because the Village of Buffalo Grove would not approve the plans until recently.

The village agreed to the plans after the state agreed to construct an oversized drain pipe to channel water from the road to a retention basin being built on the Arlington Country Club golf course.

Originally Buffalo Grove had opposed the plans because the state was going to dump the runoff from the road into the White Pines Strip. The village and the sanitary district will pay a portion of the costs for the $300,000 retention project.

The plans for the $6 million road widening project have been under way for two years.

List Polling Places For School Election

Residents of School Dist. 96 who live in Buffalo Grove will vote in the school board election Saturday at Willow Grove School.

Voters living in Dist. 96 who do not live in Buffalo Grove can cast their ballots at Kildeer Countryside School.

Incumbents Arthur Edmunds, Dr. Woody Janssen and newcomer Jack Landau are candidates for two three-year openings on the school board. The polls will be open between noon and 7 p.m.

Test Of Deodorant At Wheeling High

Industrial Bio-test of Northbrook is conducting a deodorant test at Wheeling High School tonight with proceeds going to the band.

The company, which was incorrectly identified in yesterday's Herald, will conduct the test between 7 and 9 p.m.

The Wheeling band can raise up to $3,000 for its proposed trip to Germany by taking part in these tests. The band members need $140,000 to make the tour.

Wheeling Man Faces Wauconda Charges

Wheeling policemen Tuesday arrested a local man wanted by Wauconda police for aggravated assault.

Police arrested Frederick Peters, 25, at 7 p.m. as he was pulling into the driveway of his home at 305 E. Wayne Pl., Wheeling.

Local police had been radioed by Wauconda police that Peters was wanted on an aggravated assault charge.

Police recovered a B-B gun from under the seat of Peter's car. The gun is connected with the Wauconda incident. Wheeling police charged him with driving on a suspended driver's license before turning him over to Wauconda officers on the assault charge.

The trial on the Wheeling charge will be heard in Arlington Heights District Court April 23.

Cindee Kassel Dances Way To Fame

by JOANN VAN WYE

"Dancing, dancing, dancing" is how Cindee Kassel describes her interests.

Her interest in dancing started when she was three years old and paid off this spring when she was selected to participate in the Talented Teens Tour.

As a talented teen, Miss Kassel will be spending a month this summer in Europe performing before various groups. The tour will include stops in England, France, Holland, Switzerland, Germany and Austria.

Miss Kassel, of 2406 Willow, Rolling Meadows, was the only person from Rolling Meadows selected as a talented teen in the nationwide competition.

THIS SUMMER will be Miss Kassel's second tour as a talented teen. She also was selected seven years ago when she was only 13.

Asked why she decided to try out this year, Miss Kassel countered by asking, "Who doesn't like to travel?" She explained that the first tour had been such a good experience and she had had so much fun she has wanted to go back ever since.

"I knew this would probably be my last chance (to be a talented teen) because I am getting too old," said Miss Kassel.

The one disappointing thing about this year's tour, according to Miss Kassel, is that there won't be any stop in Ireland.

AS A TALENTED TEEN, Cindee Kassel of Rolling Meadows will perform in six countries this summer during a one-month tour of Europe.

This was her favorite country the first time she went on the tour. She has been corresponding with friends from Ireland since her first visit and hopes she will have a chance to see them in England.

There have not been any rehearsals for the tour yet so Miss Kassel does not know what kind of acts she will be performing or how many other teens will be going on the tour.

Encouraged by her sister, Sharon, to continue her endeavors in dancing, Miss Kassel now teaches at her sister's studio in Rolling Meadows. She has been teaching at the Sharon Kassel Dance Studio for the last two years since she graduated from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

SKILLED AT JAZZ, ballet, toe, tap and character dancing, Miss Kassel said if she had to pick a favorite it would probably be ballet.

When she isn't teaching, Miss Kassel is taking classes at Harper College, where she is a psychology major, or taking dancing lessons herself. She currently takes lessons from Gus Giordano in Evanston and plans to continue lessons at Stone and Cameron in Chicago after she returns from the tour.

In 1967 Miss Kassel danced on the television show "Swinging Majority" for four months. She currently performs with the Northwest Performing Dance Co.

Miss Kassel said she kept on a pretty rigid schedule when she was younger but now works out mainly in her dance classes.

"Teaching helps keep me in practice. By going over and over things, I learn things as well as the students."

Miss Kassel is a certified teacher by the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists. She also belongs to Dance Masters.

Deadline For 'Miss' Signup Is Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the final day applications will be accepted for the 1972 Miss Buffalo Grove pageant. The pageant is an official preliminary to the "Miss Illinois" and "Miss America" pageants later in the year.

For applications and information call Mrs. Patti Gass, 537-0318, or Mrs. Carole Guanci, 541-0175. All interested girls will be interviewed and the program will be explained by Mrs. Gass or Mrs. Guanci.

Candidates must be between the ages of 18 and 28, single high school graduates and citizens of the United States. The pageant is open to women from an area which includes Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Aptakisic, Long Grove, Prairie View and north Arlington Heights.

The pageant will begin at 8 p.m. May 13 in the James Fenimore Cooper auditorium. Rehearsals will be at 7 p.m. April 19 and 21 and May 10, with dress rehearsal at 7 p.m. May 12.

Contestants will be judged in swimsuit, talent and evening gown competition.

2,000 Oppose Vehicle Tax

Petitions opposing the Cook County vehicle tax for unincorporated areas will be turned over to area legislators at a public meeting tonight in Prospect Heights. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at St. Alphonsus Catholic Church on Wheeling Road.

Yesterday a class action suit challenging the constitutionality of the vehicle tax was filed in Cook County Circuit Court by attorneys acting on behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA). Jack Gilligan, a PHIA member connected with the legal fight, said yesterday more than 2,000 persons had signed petitions opposing the tax.

Model Engines Stolen

Four radio-controlled airplane engines valued at a total of $193.90 were stolen from Tony's Hobby Lobby at 747 W. Dundee Rd. in Wheeling between Monday afternoon and Tuesday afternoon.

Anthony Crabtree, who runs the shop, told local police the items were taken from a shelf in the store. The four engines ranged in value from $29.95 to $65 each.

Correction

A quote in Friday's Herald interview with Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board candidate John Stull was incorrectly printed. The quote should have read:

"We (Dist. 23) were the first district with open negotiations, and I think everything the school board does should be discussed in the open. In general I don't like executive sessions."

Budding Flower Arranger Bloomed Quickly

by JOANN VAN WYE
Give 100 pussywillows, 36 football mums, and 72 long stem roses to Mrs. Alice Burgin and she'll transform them into a dazzling 12-foot-high flower arrangement.

Mrs. Burgin, known as "Kittie" in the flower design world, produced just such an arrangement during the grand finale of the Illinois Unit of Teleflora Annual Trade Fair and Design School.

Mrs. Burgin was one of only four flower designers in Illinois and Indiana selected to perform at this year's fair entitled "Roadway to Profit."

Sponsored by Kennicott Brothers and Gard Industries, Mrs. Burgin arranged 16 designs on stage. She was awarded the "designer artistry" award for her performance.

Performance at the trade fair is looked at by Mrs. Burgin as the highlight of her 10-year career in flower design. This may change soon though as she is currently one of 10 designers from the U.S. and Canada under consideration for four designing positions at the national Teleflora Convention in Atlanta, Ga.

MRS. BURGIN, 28, is a graduate of Arlington High School where she earned a four-year scholarship to the Art Institute in Chicago. After graduation Mrs. Burgin went to work for Sauerland Flower Shop.

Hired to sweep floors... within an hour on the job, Mrs. Burgin was making flower arrangements. She found her first experiences so exciting she started going to the library and reading all the books and magazines on flower designing she could.

Six weeks after she made her first flower arrangement she won third place in the U.S. and Canada 16th Annual Christmas Design Competition. Only 18 years old, she was one of the youngest contestants.

After her marriage in 1963, Mrs. Burgin started making arrangements known as "Kittie's Kreations" from her home. As her work became known in the area she was asked to speak to organizations, schools, clubs and design for local parties, weddings and churches.

In 1970 Mrs. Burgin went to Nelson's Flowers to be the only designer. The following year she became head designer and instructor for Fabbri's Flowers in Streamwood where she is now employed.

AMONG HER accomplishments, Mrs. Burgin designed a flower arrangement to correspond with the scale of the sculpture in front of Sears for the opening of Woodfield Mall.

Asked what kind of arrangements she liked to make best, Mrs. Burgin said, "I run the whole gamut. I can do any type and like them all. I guess I like weddings best though because I like making people happy."

Mrs. Burgin lives with her husband, James, and two sons, Danny and Brian at 4228 Wilson, Rolling Meadows. When not designing flowers, Mrs. Burgin keeps busy as a Sunday School teacher, figure skater and pursuing other artistic endeavors.

She took figure skating lessons for two and a half years in Park Ridge and later taught for a year for the Arlington Heights Park District. The winner of three figure skating contests, Mrs. Burgin now skates at the Rolling Meadows Ice Arena. She has passed many professional proficiency tests and tries to devote between 20 and 30 hours a week to skating.

Sewing, knitting and crocheting fashions she has designed for her entire family, painting and drawing and photography also work themselves into Mrs. Burgin's busy schedule.

Nab 3 Youths, $400 Worth Of Heroin At Beck Lake

More than $400 worth of heroin has been seized by Mount Prospect Police and Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) officials.

Three youths, two from Des Plaines and one from Niles, were arrested for sale of a controlled drug (heroin) in the seizure, one of the largest ever made locally, according to Sgt. Joseph Bopp of the Mount Prospect Police.

Both John P. Kopec, 19, of Niles, and Alan S. Rudolph, 17, of 9259 N. Hamlin Ave., Des Plaines, were released on bond Tuesday at Niles Court. Their cases were continued to May 2. The third youth, Richard Bos, 16, of 1484 Willow Ave., Des Plaines, will have a hearing in juvenile court April 20.

The arrests occurred about 2 p.m. Friday at Beck Lake near Central Road and the Tri-State Tollway east of Mount Prospect.

POLICE SAID the trio tried to exchange 20 to 30 "dimes" of heroin (a "dime" is a $10 packet) for a guitar in the possession of a MEG officer.

The guitar had allegedly been stolen in February by Bos from a Mount Prospect music store. The guitar was given to an Arlington Heights man, who later called police, by a man named Richard Senior as collateral for a $300 loan.

When the informant learned Senior had been imprisoned in Indiana, he placed a newspaper ad to sell the guitar. A person identifying himself as Bos called the informant and told him the guitar was stolen and belonged to him (Bos).

Direct Attorney To Map Law For Appearance Unit

After several weeks of discussion by village trustees, an appearance commission may soon be formed for Buffalo Grove.

The board this week directed village Atty. Richard Raysa to prepare the ordinance for a Buffalo Grove Appearance Control Commission.

The primary purpose of the commission is to review the aesthetic appearance of new buildings to encourage and promote acceptability, attractiveness, cohesiveness and compatibility with the community.

The commission would have five members from the community, and would review plans for new buildings or developments, as does the village plan commission.

The proposed Buffalo Grove commission is patterned after one developed four years ago in Glenview. Most of the provisions would be the same, but trustees asked for two particular changes.

IN GLENVIEW, the appearance commission has final determination as to whether a developer's plan will be accepted in accordance with the commission's requirements. Buffalo Grove trustees would like to see final approval come from them upon recommendations by the commission.

The Glenview ordinance also requires the five-man commission to include at least three registered architects and an owner or officer of a business or industry in the village. Buffalo Grove trustees feel the restrictions might be too tight considering the size of Buffalo Grove at this time. They would like to see the ordinance include only a recommendation that architects and a community businessman be on the board.

The commission would be empowered to develop an appearance plan to serve as standards or guidelines for physical developments in the village. The plan could be amended following public hearings and then adopted by the village.

Trustee Charles Vogt said, "Glenview ordinance copies have been studied by the board, and I think the commission should be established on the same lines."

I'd like to get both the commission and the ordinance completed as soon as possible."

Ron Helm, a landscape architect, has spent some time studying the Glenview ordinance. At the board meeting he said, "It continually crops up in talking with other village officials that the Glenview ordinance is the best in the country."

The commission would deal with almost all structures and public land as far as architecture, landscaping, lighting, signs, barriers, fences, walks, driveways and parking areas. The one major exclusion in the Glenview ordinance is single-family residential areas. The commission there does not concern itself with additions to homes or construction of garages or buildings in the residential areas.

Dist. 21 Voters Should Elect Jack Lane

Voters in the communities served by Elementary School Dist. 21 will go to the polls Saturday to select three candidates, two for 3-year terms and one for a 2-year term on the local school board.

Election of two candidates for the three-year terms is an accomplished fact since the two candidates are unopposed in their bids for reelection.

In the remaining 2-year term race, two candidates have come forward seeking the public's support — incumbent board member Jack Lane and caucus-endorsed candidate Ben Herman.

It is this two-year term race which is the crucial one for Dist. 21 voters and the one which is the only real election in the district.

For a 2-year term on the Dist. 21 board, we endorse Jack Lane and urge voters to cast their ballots for his election.

Since being appointed to the board some six months ago, Lane has proved to be an excellent member. His initial appointment by the other members was a well founded decision and he deserves to remain on the board through his own election.

THE CHOICE between Lane and

Herman is a difficult one. Both men appear to be candidates of substance and there are no hard issues dividing the two — in fact, they agree on most points.

Lane's six months of experience on the board is a benefit to the district and to the taxpayers which cannot be overlooked, however.

On issues, Lane shares many of the feelings of responsible observers of elementary school education. He feels the state should share in the cost of public education, but that local school boards should maintain control over their own systems.

He also believes developers have a great responsibility to the school district to help provide for the education of children from newly created subdivisions.

Lane's desire for new programs in the district is also commendable. He would like to see an improved reading program and would like to have industrial arts and crafts introduced at the junior high school level.

Lane's opinions in all these areas show him to be a candidate who has earned his current place on the board and is entitled to remain there through a full two-year term.

Dist. 21 residents are fortunate in the matter of the unopposed election for the two three-year term seats on the board.

Incumbent board members Mrs. Mary Joan Reid and Mrs. Lillian Stiller have proved to be good board members of long standing and their bid for reelection should be endorsed by the voters.

Although the Herald disfavors unopposed elections in principle, we recognize the worthy candidacies of Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Stiller and commend their decisions to stay on the local board of education.

Five Polling Places For Saturday's School Board Election

Voters in High School Dist. 125 will be able to cast their ballots in five polling places Saturday from noon until 7 p.m.

Four candidates will be chosen to fill two three-year openings, a two-year post and a one-year opening.

Precinct 1 will encompass the part of Elementary School Dist. 103 which lies east of the Des Plaines River. Precinct 2 will take in the remaining part of Dist. 103 west of the river.

Precinct 3 will cover all of the district within the boundaries of elementary school districts 96, 79, 76 and 73, except for the section of Dist. 96 that is within the limits of the Village of Buffalo Grove. That area will make up Precinct 4.

Precinct 5 will be the part of Dist. 125 that lies within the boundaries of elementary school Dist. 102.

Voters in the Dist. 125 election will be asked to select two of four candidates running for three-year positions.

INCUMBENTS Lorenz Schmidt and Robert Anderson are being opposed by Ellen Van Demerit and Marion Slaga. Schmidt has been a resident of the district area for more than 20 years and was one of the original members of the Dist. 125 school board when it started in July of 1965. He is currently board president.

Schmidt said his goal is to make Dist. 125 the best educational operation in the area. He can see nothing standing in the way of the district achieving this goal, he said.

Anderson's goals are more in the financial aspect of the district, since he is currently head of the finance committee. He feels that with sufficient funds from a broad tax base and good budget management and responsibility, a school district can be extremely healthy.

With this healthy approach, Anderson feels that any individual problem can be handled, be it teacher compensation or student educational programs. He has been a resident of Long Grove for eight years.

Mrs. Van Demerit is the only woman running for the Dist. 125 board. She said, "The measure of any woman is in the degree to which she accepts her position of responsibility as both a parent and a concerned member of her community."

"I FEEL WE SHOULD be preparing all our students for the future. This is not just the students who will continue on to college but also the students who will seek jobs after graduation," she added.

Mrs. Van Demerit has been a resident of an unincorporated area called "The Orchards" just north of Half Day. She and her husband, Ray, have four children.

A novice to politics but not to education, Marion Slaga rounds out the field of candidates seeking the three-year terms. He is currently an assistant principal at Sunset Ridge School in Northfield and has 18 years of service in education.

For the past two years he has served as chairman of the New Trier Township Pupil Services Committee. He is a graduate of De Paul University. Slaga, his wife, Irene, and eight of their 11 children reside in Prairie View.

Incumbents William Tobin and John Balmes are running for the two and one-year openings respectively. They are unopposed.

Adlai E. Stevenson High School is currently the only school served by Dist. 125.

Why Seek A Tax Increase? Because Costs Up: Braun

by MARCIA KRAMER
A News Analysis

How do you tell a taxpayer he'll be forking over more money next year for the same level of services he received this year?

In three words, "Costs are up." That's how Palatine Village Mgr. Bert G. Braun explains the need for a tax increase to balance the village's 1972-73 budget.

Without the hike of approximately 14 cents per $100 assessed valuation, he indicated services would have to be cut. Braun already has trimmed some $95,000 in expenditures from the original $1.7 million budget.

THE VILLAGE BOARD has been unwilling to make further cuts, and was reluctant to impose a 5 per cent utility tax, as proposed by Braun, to make up the difference.

The possibility of obtaining some $150,000 in federal revenue sharing funds was raised at a recent budget working session, but the village is not counting on it as a likely source of financial relief.

What the proposed budget comes down to, is the owner of property in Palatine assessed at $10,000 and equalized at around $15,000, will pay approximately $139 in property taxes next year, up some $22 from this year's tax bill.

In addition, he'll pay $30 in sewer charges, up 50 per cent from the current $20 fee. The quarterly sewer bill is being raised so users assume a greater share of the actual cost, rather than having it subsidized from other village funds.

In attributing increased taxes to higher costs, Braun cited equipment expenses and built-in step increases for village employees as primary reasons for the hike.

OTHER ITEMS HAVING a "major impact" on the budget, he said, include:

—The recent hiring of five new patrolmen (more than $50,000 in salaries alone).

—Increased insurance rates for employees' hospitalization plan (up $23,000 over last year).

—Additional data processing equipment in the finance department and the cost of a new clerk to operate it.

The problem in devising a budget,

Braun indicated, is determining what the residents want and what they're willing to pay for it.

"People in the suburbs can rightfully demand a pretty high level of service," he said. "Now, we have a level of service that's been established over a pretty long period of time, and I understand the economic bind that people are in now — the employment situation, the cost of living."

"At that point, they say government ought to cut spending. They don't say, 'We're willing to cut our services.'"

The village manager added: "I don't object to the idea of government cutting spending. I'm as much concerned about an increase in taxes as the next person. But there are only two ways to do it:

Increase efficiency to where you can do the same work for less money — I think we're doing pretty well on that now — or simply reduce what you're doing."

THE TRUSTEES, in their budget working sessions, have chosen to cut some nonessential items from the budget and raise taxes to cover the remaining $66,500 projected deficit.

The budget will be up for public scrutiny at a hearing Monday night. It is expected to be approved by the trustees in their April 24 meeting for enactment May 1.

The $10 annual sewer charge increase is not likely to be included in bills until at least June 15. The property tax hike to support the 1972-73 budget would be collected next year.

About 7.2 per cent of residents' property taxes go to the village, which turns over 43 per cent of it to the Palatine Public Library.

The balance of the taxpayers' property taxes go to the schools, 71 per cent; Cook County, 6.9 per cent; Palatine Park District, 4.9 per cent; Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, 3.1 per cent; and Harper College, 2.8 per cent.

The village's share accounts for about 12 per cent of its general fund revenues. The balance is provided by sales tax, 31 per cent; charges against other funds, 14 per cent; state income tax returns, 11 per cent; and eight smaller sources, such as the sale of vehicle stickers.

Preliminary U.S. Report Supports Bridge Programs

by DOUG RAY

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is in the midst of a study of The Bridge, an area youth services bureau, to determine whether its programs are adequate to combat juvenile problems.

A preliminary report is "very favorable" to The Bridge, according to Bill Underwood of the California Department of Youth Authority, who spearheaded the nationwide study that includes The Bridge.

"The Bridge looks pretty good," he said after receiving responses from teens and the communities it serves. The final report will be completed next November, he said.

The Bridge was one of three youth bureaus in Illinois chosen for the study to depict a cross section of the state, Underwood said. Rock Island and DeKalb also were included.

The Bridge, 434½ E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, is in its second year of operation, after being established as a pilot program in the state under the financial reins of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) and Palatine Township. The Bridge received $23,591 from the ILEC this year and $50,000 is proposed in the upcoming township budget.

It is supervised by the Palatine Township Youth Committee to serve youths in Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights and Inverness. The bureau also has a contract agreement with organizations in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Barrington.

MRS. CYNTHIA Sherly, a Bridge staffer, estimated 1,500 persons were counseled or met with staff members as part of the outreach program during the first year. Many of the teenagers have returned for counseling or simply to talk to other youths there, she said.

The Bridge's telephone counseling service (359-6702), began last September and has been widely used, she reported. Nearly 100 calls were taken during the first month of operation and six times as many calls were taken three months later.

Other programs provided by The Bridge include two full-time outreach workers in Arlington Heights and two ombudsmen in Arlington High School four days a week. The outreach workers are partially funded by the village board.

The youth directors in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg give about 20 per cent of their time to The Bridge as a part of their contractual agreement. Barrington referrals also are handled by The Bridge.

Staff members consult weekly with the Northwest Mental Health Center in Arlington Heights.

The Bridge has a relatively young staff, with the average age of 24. There are six full-time workers and three part-time.

Cast Vote For Meyer And Eilering

Voters in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will be asked to cast their ballots Saturday for two of three candidates vying for seats on the Board of Education.

We urge voters to choose Joel Meyer and Otto Eilering.

Problems the new board members will have to be able to address themselves to during the next three years are long range planning and curriculum changes, as well as the ever present problem of finances.

We endorse incumbents Meyer of Rolling Meadows and Eilering of Palatine as the two candidates best qualified to meet these challenges.

During his 15 years on the board, Meyer has played a major role in keeping Dist. 15 in the black as chairman of the budget and finance committee. He has served as a watchdog on the board by tempering all votes on curriculum and other changes with the district's financial situation.

Meyer's experience on the professional negotiations committee would also be hard to replace.

Like Meyer, Eilering offers experience to the board. An engineer by profession, Eilering has been able to make valuable contributions to the building and grounds committee, which he chairs. He is also chairman of the hot lunch committee and has been able to follow the new satellite lunch program through from the start.

Both candidates have expressed general satisfaction with the operation of the district and their major contribution, if elected, will be three more years of stability.

Cindee Kassel Dances Way To Fame

by JOANN VAN WYE

"Dancing, dancing, dancing" is how Cindee Kassel describes her interests. Her interest in dancing started when she was three years old and paid off this spring when she was selected to participate in the Talented Teens Tour.

As a talented teen, Miss Kassel will be spending a month this summer in Europe performing before various groups. The tour will include stops in England, France, Holland, Switzerland, Germany and Austria.

Miss Kassel, of 2406 Willow, Rolling Meadows, was the only person from Rolling Meadows selected as a talented teen in the nationwide competition.

THIS SUMMER will be Miss Kassel's second tour as a talented teen. She also was selected seven years ago when she was only 13.

Asked why she decided to try out this year, Miss Kassel countered by asking, "Who doesn't like to travel?" She explained that the first tour had been such a good experience and she had had so much fun she has wanted to go back ever since.

"I knew this would probably be my last chance (to be a talented teen) because I am getting too old," said Miss

Kassel.

The one disappointing thing about this year's tour, according to Miss Kassel, is that there won't be any stop in Ireland. This was her favorite country the first time she went on the tour. She has been corresponding with friends from Ireland since her first visit and hopes she will have a chance to see them in England.

There have not been any rehearsals for the tour yet so Miss Kassel does not know what kind of acts she will be performing or how many other teens will be going on the tour.

Encouraged by her sister, Sharon, to continue her endeavors in dancing, Miss Kassel now teaches at her sister's studio in Rolling Meadows. She has been teaching at the Sharon Kassel Dance Studio for the last two years since she graduated from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

SKILLED AT JAZZ, ballet, toe, tap and character dancing, Miss Kassel said if she had to pick a favorite it would probably be ballet.

When she isn't teaching, Miss Kassel is taking classes at Harper College, where she is a psychology major, or taking dancing lessons herself. She currently takes lessons from Gus Giordano in Evanston and plans to continue lessons at Stone and Cameron in Chicago after she returns from the tour.

In 1967 Miss Kassel danced on the television show "Swinging Majority" for four months. She currently performs with the Northwest Performing Dance Co.

Miss Kassel said she kept on a pretty rigid schedule when she was younger but now works out mainly in her dance classes.

Miss Kassel is a certified teacher by the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists. She also belongs to Dance Masters.

Deny Permit For Dental Clinic In A Residence

The Palatine Plan Commission has sided with homeowners in one of the village's oldest residential areas in recommending denial of a permit to transform a Palatine Park home into a dental clinic.

Two petitions bearing the signatures of 72 residents of the subdivision who are opposed to use of the house at 650 E. Palatine Rd. for an orthodontic practice were submitted to the plan commission at a public hearing Tuesday night.

The commission indicated its objections to the special use request were based on:

—The availability of rental space in established professional buildings in Pala-time.

—The commercial use of the house in a single-family residential area.

—And the probable need for additional variations to provide adequate parking facilities.

The plan commission's recommendation now goes to the Palatine Village Board for final action.

Residents of Palatine Park maintained in petitions and testimony that issuance of the special use permit would adversely affect the value of their property and could be considered "a forerunner of neighborhood deterioration" by leading to "similar or even less desirable applications" for special use.

RESIDENTS ALSO opposed the dentist's request because they said it would lead to additional traffic and street parking in the neighborhood. About 16 residents attended the public hearing.

The dentist, Dr. John Napolitano, 30, has lived in the Palatine Park area for nine months.

He testified that he would not alter the appearance of the dental clinic, so it would continue in the character of neighboring houses and could revert back to a home if he ever decided to give up his practice.

Dr. Napolitano cited figures and showed drawings to indicate that he could provide sufficient parking space for patients and one employee on the property on the west side of the house and would landscape the area to shield the parked cars from neighbors.

He said he sought the house for his dental practice because he prefers attending fewer patients than most dentists. By having his office in a professional building, the dentist said, he would be forced to take on many more patients in order to pay the higher rent. Cost of the Palatine Road home is $31,000.

Dr. Napolitano presented a petition signed by seven residents of the neighborhood endorsing his request for the special use permit, and some of the supporters attended the hearing.

The strike headquarters is a rickety trailer that shakes when you walk inside. It sits just east of the Honeywell plant in Arlington Heights where 550 workers walked out the job four weeks ago after a contract dispute.

The trailer was crowded yesterday afternoon with disgruntled picketers, some of them waiting to take their three-hour shifts on the line, others just passing the time of day and at least one woman who is feeling the financial blow of joblessness.

The young brunette approached a union steward and reported her electricity was shut off. The union "welfare check" hadn't reached the utility company in time.

A few telephone calls were made and shortly the matter was cleared up. "The check should be there tomorrow," the steward assured her.

The woman is receiving aid from the United Electrical Union Local 1114, because she is one of the worst in need. Without another job and dependents at home, she gets funds to help her through the trying days of the strike.

She applied to the union's welfare committee and was accepted. Others who hold part-time jobs or whose husbands or wife are working must fend for themselves.

Mrs. Terry DeFelice, a picket captain, has secured her second job during the strike. She starts tomorrow, realizing "it takes two checks to pay bills today."

THE SMALL WOMAN paced outside the Honeywell entrance, arrayed in a red and yellow placard designating that she was "on strike." Her husband is working and she is not eligible for the union supplement. "So we need the other job," she explained.

"I'm a little worried about where the tuition money is coming from" for the two college students. "And the payment on the car hasn't been paid yet this month."

In order to take her turn walking the picket line, she will pay a babysitter $25 "because school is out this week. It's less when they're in school," she said.

Picketers said Tuesday that their group insurance policies have been terminated. Mrs. DeFelice transferred herself and the children to her husband's policy. "But you should talk to the widows and widowers... we have a lot of them here," she said.

Mrs. DeFelice doesn't like walking outside the plant. She says she'd much rather be working. "But we want to have better working conditions," she said as she pulled an umbrella over her head to keep the cold wind away.

"We'll keep coming back, day after day. We've frozen out here and the worst weather is over. Through it all, nobody's weakened."

Steward Larry Masek has worked for Honeywell for 21 years and participated in two other strikes. "I know what we're up against," he said. "And I've been this route before. We won't quit."

The 47-year-old tool room machinist said union officials are "looking into unfair labor practices," after it was disclosed that Honeywell officials have hired 100 temporary workers.

TONY BARTOLINI, Honeywell spokesman, said the new workers, along with salaried employees who are not on strike, "will help the company meet customer needs." The part-time workers will be released when the strike is settled, he said.

The union employees are bitter about what they call "strike breakers" and the letters they have been receiving from Honeywell management urging them to return to work. They are somewhat amazed that delivery trucks are breaking through the picket lines with escorts by Arlington Heights police.

"Come around here Friday," said Mrs. DeFelice. "We're going to have a mass protest and may stop the trucks."

By the determined tone of the small woman's voice, she meant business. A fellow striker standing nearby, nodded his head. "Be here and see."

Parking Along East Side Of Consumers Ave. Prohibited

The Palatine Village Board this week prohibited parking along the east side of Consumers Avenue, over the objection of a businessman whose property abuts the street.

Donald Kreisel, president of Arlington Park Dodge, 1400 E. Northwest Hwy., said the parking ban would adversely affect his business because both sides of the dead end street are used by employees and customers.

The trustees imposed the restriction because Consumers Avenue provides the only access to the construction site of a large indoor sports complex and is not wide enough to allow the builders' equipment to pass by if cars are parked on both sides.

THE TRUSTEES indicated that parking probably will be banned along both sides of the street when the sports complex is completed.

They also lashed out at Kreisel for failing to provide sufficient off-street parking.

Easter Bunny To Try Again This Saturday

The Easter Bunny plans to make an untimely stop in Palatine Saturday to hide eggs for the children of the village.

The egg hunt begins at 9:30 a.m. for boys and girls 5 years old and under and at 10 a.m. for those six to eight years old. The nine through twelve years old group will begin the hunt at 10:30 a.m.

The annual Easter egg hunt was postponed last weekend because of inclement weather.

ing for his business, and suggested that he may be in violation of village zoning ordinances requiring such spaces.

Kreisel said some off-street parking is available, but attributed the parking shortage to the growth of his business.

He also objected to parking ban signs having been erected last week without village board approval. Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said it was a mistake, and the signs were removed the following day.

Park Official In New Post

Bruce G. Beiner, superintendent of recreation for the Palatine Park District, has been named to the newly-created post of assistant director of parks and recreation.

Beiner, 29, will continue his responsibility over the park district's recreation program in addition to overseeing maintenance of the parks, according to director Fred P. Hall.

Hall said the position was created to relieve some of his responsibilities in order to concentrate on planning the park district's budget and its proposed capital improvement program.

Beiner was director of recreation for the Glencoe Park District for two years before accepting a similar position in Palatine two years ago.

He holds a bachelor's degree in recreation from Southern Illinois University and did graduate work at the University of Illinois.

Sew! Sew!

If you want something fresh and crisp in a long summer dress, Finn's Fabrics at 113 N. Cook St. in Barrington has it on display. Each time I go into Finn's they have a new garment on the display wall.

Then I was so thrilled to find a beautiful nylon jersey to make turtleneck sweaters on the long flowing Pucci dresses and it is heavy enough so you can't see through it. The jerseys were a group of qiana and I selected a dusty blue for a shirtwaist dress and found a stunning J.H.B. button to complement it.

Do have fun sewing!

County Wheel Tax Group Challenges

A class action suit challenging the constitutionality of the Cook County vehicle tax for unincorporated areas was filed yesterday in Cook County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed in the name of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA), a homeowners group, and in the names of several individuals.

The suit contends the tax is unconstitutional because, while only residents of unincorporated Cook County have to pay it, the revenue is used throughout the county.

"While the money benefits 5 1/2 million people, it is collected from only 180,000 (those in unincorporated parts of the county)," said Jack Gilligan, a PHIA member involved in the suit. He said the class action suit was filed on behalf of all residents in the unincorporated sections of the county.

IN CONNECTION with the suit, Gilligan said, the PHIA wants the vehicle tax funds already collected to be put in escrow pending the outcome of the legal action.

The legal fight is being financed through donations from several homeowner groups and individuals in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships. Gilligan said more than $2,200 had been collected.

Filing of the suit climaxes a campaign against the tax that began shortly after the tax was approved late last December by the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

One of the groups leading the fight was the Taxpayers Protest Committee of Cook County. That group had been expected to file the suit; however, a last-minute change in plans resulted in the PHIA taking over the suit.

On March 18 the PHIA and TPC co-sponsored a protest rally against the tax at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights. About 1,000 persons from unincorporated areas of county attended.

Those at the rally were asked to sign petitions and to contribute funds to the legal fight.

THE COUNTY'S newly passed taxes on mobile homes and on new car sales were also the targets of protest at the rally.

Gilligan said yesterday that attorneys are still pondering a suit against the mobile home tax. No suit is planned against the tax on new cars sold in the county, he said, because several municipalities have already filed a suit against it.

Also at the rally several state and county office holders and candidates expressed their support for opposition to the tax.

Fore! Palatine Hills

Golf Course Opens Today

The Palatine Hills Golf Course opens today.

Residents of Palatine Park District will play at reduced rates at certain times this year by purchasing a $1 daily fee resident pass at the administration building, 262 E. Palatine Rd. The course is open to residents of surrounding communities.

Fred Hall, park district director, said the new policy was adopted to provide benefits for resident golfers who play more than four rounds each year but not enough to justify purchasing a season pass. Green fees for 1972 are:

— Weekdays, 18-holes, resident with pass, $4; other, $4.50;

— Weekdays, 9-holes and after 4 p.m., $3 for all golfers;

— Weekends, 18-holes, $6 for all golfers;

— Weekends, after 4 p.m., resident with pass, $3.50; other, $4.50.

Season passes range from $100 for unlimited play to $35 for limited junior passes and limited senior citizen passes at the golf course, 512 Baldwin Rd.

Gilligan said yesterday that another rally is scheduled for the LaGrange area.

$17,500 Pool Repair

Contract Approved

The Palatine Park District Board of Commissioners has authorized a contract of $17,500 to repair the filtration system at one of the Community Park swimming pools. According to Fred Hall, park district director, the work should be completed within 50 days.

The park board also authorized $6,294 for color coding and striping seven park district tennis courts to be completed by May 15.

Tests For Glaucoma Set In Palatine

Free testing for possible cases of glaucoma, a condition which causes impairment of vision or blindness, will be conducted in Palatine April 24 and 25.

Residents over 35 years of age can be tested at the mobile unit between 6:30 and 9 p.m. each day at the Maple Park Recreation Building, at Winston and Anderson drives.

'Blue Booze' Law To Be Updated

Sunday morning drinking in Palatine may be legal in time for a toast on Father's Day.

The Palatine Village Board, meeting as a committee-of-the-whole, this week generally endorsed a proposal that the sale of alcoholic beverages be permitted in the village beginning at 6 a.m. Sundays and holidays.

Currently, liquor stores and restaurants are prohibited from selling liquor before noon on those days.

Village Pres. Jack Moodie proposed revoking the ordinance because he said he didn't think the lawbook should be "cluttered up with outmoded blue laws."

The trustees are expected to formally approve the ordinance change at their regular meeting next week, and it is expected to go into effect around the middle of May.

The trustees this week also agreed to strike from the municipal code the ban on selling liquor on election days. That change, however, will not become effective until July 1, to coincide with the effective date of a similar state statute.

Jan Kathy Fund Bake Sale Slated

A bake sale to raise funds for the Jan Kathy Peterson memorial fund will be held Saturday in the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center.

The Central Road School PTA is sponsoring the sale, which will go from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the shopping center mall.

Students from Trinity Lutheran Church's Sunday school will be selling candy on the mall Saturday also.

The proceeds from both sales will go to the Jan Kathy Fund, which was established at the Bank of Rolling Meadows to raise money to help meet the expenses incurred by Neal and Winifred Peterson during the hospitalization of their daughter Jan Kathy, 9.

Jan Kathy died two weeks ago as a result of complications created by open heart surgery performed more than two months ago.

Preliminary U.S. Report Supports Bridge Programs

by DOUG RAY

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is in the midst of a study of The Bridge, an area youth services bureau, to determine whether its programs are adequate to combat juvenile problems.

A preliminary report is "very favorable" to The Bridge, according to Bill Underwood of the California Department of Youth Authority, who spearheaded the nationwide study that includes The Bridge.

4 New Programs In Park District Spring Program

Four new programs will be offered by the Rolling Meadows Park District this spring in an effort to provide year 'round programs for residents.

Being offered for the first time will be junior miss olympics, pee wee sports, marching baton and first aid.

This spring the park district will also offer movies, preschool recreation, preschool ballet, ballet, baton, fun time school, midget sports, instructional golf, archery, self defense, junior high instructional golf, archery, self defense, junior high instructional bowling, slim and trim, women's volleyball, couples' volleyball and men's open gym.

Marching baton will be offered on Saturdays from 10 to 11 a.m. at the sports complex. The class, which will be taught by Carol Whiteside, will start April 15 and run through May 27. The fee is $3.

Junior miss olympics is designed for girls in fourth, fifth and sixth grades. The girls will participate in a variety of athletic events including badminton, dodge ball and relay races. The program is offered on Tuesdays from 7 to 8 p.m. starting April 11 and ending May 23 at the sports complex. Fee is $2.

PEE WEE SPORTS is designed for boys in first through third grades. Games such as floor hockey, relays, wiffle ball and others will be played, according to Tim Mueller, the instructor. The program is offered after school on Monday from 3:45 to 5 p.m. at the sports complex. The fee is $2.

First aid has been designed for adults and boys and girls in sixth grade and up. The course will teach the fundamentals and techniques of first aid. Students who complete and pass the course will receive a first aid card. First aid will be taught by Jack Thompson on Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the sports complex. The course will start April 20 and run through May 11.

Registration for all of the programs can be made at the Rolling Meadows Administration Office, 1 Park Meadow Place. For more information residents may call 394-4382.

"The Bridge looks pretty good" he said after receiving responses from teens and the communities it serves. The final report will be completed next November, he said.

The Bridge was one of three youth bureaus in Illinois chosen for the study to depict a cross section of the state, Underwood said. Rock Island and DeKalb also were included.

The Bridge, 434½ E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, is in its second year of operation, after being established as a pilot program in the state under the financial reins of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) and Palatine Township. The Bridge received $23,591 from the ILEC this year and $58,000 is proposed in the upcoming township budget.

It is supervised by the Palatine Township Youth Committee to serve youths in Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights and Inverness. The bureau also has a contract agreement with organizations in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Barrington.

MRS. CYNTHIA Sherly, a Bridge staffer, estimated 1,500 persons were counseled or met with staff members as part of the outreach program during the first year. Many of the teenagers have returned for counseling or simply to talk to other youths there, she said.

The Bridge's telephone counseling service (338-6702), began last September and has been widely used, she reported. Nearly 100 calls were taken during the first month of operation and six times as many calls were taken three months later.

Other programs provided by The Bridge include two full-time outreach workers in Arlington Heights and two ombudsmen in Arlington High School four days a week. The outreach workers are partially funded by the village board.

The youth directors in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg give about 20 percent of their time to The Bridge as a part of their contractual agreement. Barrington referrals also are handled by The Bridge.

Staff members consult weekly with the Northwest Mental Health Center in Arlington Heights.

The Bridge has a relatively young staff, with the average age of 24. There are six full-time workers and three part-time.

Tomorrow: Diet To Save Your Life

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The Harrisburg Seven jury found the Rev. Philip Berrigan guilty of smuggling three letters out of the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison, but said it was hopelessly deadlocked on charges that Berrigan and six other antiwar activists conspired against the government.

Sen. George McGovern's campaign directors said their man saved the other Democratic presidential hopefuls from a whipping by Gov. George Wallace. They said the race for the Democratic presidential nomination is now between McGovern and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, despite Wallace's second place finish in the Wisconsin primary.

The body of flamboyant Harlem congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., 63, remained at the Miami hospital where he died Tuesday while two of the women in his life tried to agree on funeral arrangements.

Sen. John Tunney tagged two high-ranking White House aides as pivotal witnesses in the Senate Judiciary Committee's ITT investigation and its bearing on Atty. Gen.-nominee Richard Kleindienst.

A flash fire swept through a small nursing home turned boarding house in Rosecrans, Wis., killing nine elderly residents.

The World

An Indonesian airlines pilot shot and killed a hijacker who forced him to land at Jogjakarta and threatened to blow up the plane unless his ransom demands were met.

The State

Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott has asked three county courts to impose $155,000 in fines against 13 retailers who allegedly failed to pay state cigarette taxes.

The Chicago Housing Authority has been fined $200 by the Illinois Pollution Control Board for operation of incinerators in Chicago's Bridgeport area.

About 5,500 state employees will be placed under the state's personnel code next month, a move the Illinois State Employees Association has strongly endorsed.

The War

Two Communist jets crossed into South Vietnam for the first known time in the war to buzz government troops battling attacking North Vietnamese in Quang Tri province. Communists also opened a second front with an attack 60 miles north of Saigon. In Paris, a Viet Cong spokesman said North Vietnam's military advance into South Vietnam has proven the failure of the United States' Vietnamization.

Cast Vote For Meyer And Eilering

Voters in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will be asked to cast their ballots Saturday for two of three candidates vying for seats on the Board of Education.

We urge voters to choose Joel Meyer and Otto Eilering.

Problems the new board members will have to be able to address themselves to during the next three years are long range planning and curriculum changes, as well as the ever present problem of finances.

We endorse incumbents Meyer of Rolling Meadows and Eilering of Palatine as the two candidates best qualified to meet these challenges.

During his 15 years on the board, Meyer has played a major role in keeping Dist. 15 in the black as chairman of the budget and finance committee. He has served as a watchdog on the board by tempering all votes on curriculum and other changes with the district's financial situation.

Meyer's experience on the professional negotiations committee would also be hard to replace.

Like Meyer, Eilering offers experience to the board. An engineer by profession, Eilering has been able to make valuable contributions to the building and grounds committee, which he chairs. He is also chairman of the hot lunch committee and has been able to follow the new satellite lunch program through from the start.

Both candidates have expressed general satisfaction with the operation of the district and their major contribution, if elected, will be three more years of stability.

Compile Teen Survey For Recreation Programs

Results of a teen survey designed to show the interest of teens and aid in establishing recreational programs for them have been compiled.

Members of the Rolling Meadows Teen Government and Rolling Meadows Park District, who jointly sponsored the survey, contacted 1,781 students in seventh through twelfth grades at four schools in Rolling Meadows.

Contacted were 923 students from Rolling Meadows High school, 460 students from Carl Sandburg School, 266 students from Sacred Heart of Mary High School and 132 students from St. Colette School.

A total of 747 boys were contacted and 1,018 girls. The break down by grade level was 247 seventh graders, 329 eighth graders, 494 freshmen, 429 sophomores, 215 juniors and 51 seniors.

Asked what night they would most likely participate in a program, the overwhelming response was Saturday. Saturday received the endorsement of 480 students, Friday was endorsed by 320 students and Sunday got votes from 57 students. Very few students indicated an interest in weekday programs.

ASKED TO respond to the statement, "I like to date and think it a good idea to allow couples in the activities at a lower cost," 406 boys and 734 girls agreed. Disagreeing with the statement were 217 boys and 259 girls.

The next question asked students if they were interested in activities for couples only. Answering "yes" were 216 boys and 152 girls. "No" responses to this question were received from 500 boys and 857 girls.

Sporting events rather than social events were supported by the majority of the students. Preferring sporting events were 468 boys and 637 girls. Social events were supported by 214 boys and 350 girls.

Presented with a choice of rap sessions, skiing, dances, tobogganing, bowling, roller skating, hay rides, field trips, swimming and horseback riding, students said their first choice would be horseback riding. Horseback riding received 437 votes, skiing 347, bowling 176, swimming 148, dances 116 and tobogganing 64.

Asked if they would mind spending as much as $4 for a single event 437 boys said "no" and 706 girls said "no." A total of 295 boys and 288 girls said they would object to spending that much money for a single event.

Steve Person, director of recreation, said members of his department would be meeting with members of the teen government to try to plan programs on the basis of the survey.

Cindee Kassel Dances Way To Fame

by JOANN VAN WYE

"Dancing, dancing, dancing" is how Cindee Kassel describes her interests. Her interest in dancing started when she was three years old and paid off this spring when she was selected to participate in the Talented Teens Tour.

As a talented teen, Miss Kassel will be spending a month this summer in Europe performing before various groups. The tour will include stops in England, France, Holland, Switzerland, Germany and Austria.

Miss Kassel, of 2406 Willow, Rolling Meadows, was the only person from Rolling Meadows selected as a talented teen in the nationwide competition.

THIS SUMMER will be Miss Kassel's second tour as a talented teen. She also was selected seven years ago when she was only 13.

Asked why she decided to try out this year, Miss Kassel countered by asking, "Who doesn't like to travel?" She explained that the first tour had been such a good experience and she had had so much fun she has wanted to go back ever since.

"I knew this would probably be my last chance (to be a talented teen) because I am getting too old," said Miss Kassel.

The one disappointing thing about this year's tour, according to Miss Kassel, is that there won't be any stop in Ireland. This was her favorite country the first time she went on the tour. She has been corresponding with friends from Ireland since her first visit and hopes she will have a chance to see them in England.

There have not been any rehearsals for the tour yet so Miss Kassel does not know what kind of acts she will be performing or how many other teens will be going on the tour.

Encouraged by her sister, Sharon, to continue her endeavors in dancing, Miss Kassel now teaches at her sister's studio in Rolling Meadows. She has been teaching at the Sharon Kassel Dance Studio for the last two years since she graduated from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

SKILLED AT JAZZ, ballet, toe, tap and character dancing, Miss Kassel said if she had to pick a favorite it would probably be ballet.

When she isn't teaching, Miss Kassel is taking classes at Harper College, where she is a psychology major, or taking dancing lessons herself. She currently takes lessons from Gus Giordano in Evanston and plans to continue lessons at Stone and Cameran in Chicago after she returns from the tour.

In 1967 Miss Kassel danced on the television show "Swinging Majority" for four months. She currently performs with the Northwest Performing Dance Co.

Miss Kassel said she kept on a pretty rigid schedule when she was younger but

Zale Townhouse Decision Is Expected Tonight

The long-awaited recommendation that may decide the future of the planned Zale townhouse development west of Plum Grove School may be forthcoming tonight.

Ald. Kenneth Retzke, who is heading the special committee studying the on-again, off-again Zale development, said, "I presume there will be a recommendation coming out of that meeting," with Zale tonight.

The committee's recommendation is expected to have a large influence on whether or not the city council will allow Al Zale to build his Meadowedge development.

The special committee began meeting with Zale in November, shortly after the city council voted against the development, 5-4. Special council action sidetracked the no vote and allowed the formation of the committee to study the development and ask for changes in the plans.

To date the committee and Zale have agreed on several changes that had been points of contention.

BECAUSE OF the extent of the changes agreed upon, Al Zale said the building plans for which he is seeking approval amount to an almost entirely new plat of development.

Two of the major objections raised when Zale appeared before the city council in November dealt with construction of fire walls and traffic problems.

The new plans show fire walls between every townhouse unit as high as the ceiling and fire walls to the roof between every other unit.

To handle traffic, deceleration lanes will be installed into the subdivision from Old Plum Grove Road. Zale also agreed to install sidewalks along Old Plum Grove Road.

One question, Zale said, that hasn't been answered yet is whether the buildings will be constructed of masonry or wood. Several council members argued for masonry construction the last time Zale appeared before the council. His original plans called for wood-frame buildings.

The townhouses as planned would sell for about $35,000. The 255 units (nine more than in the rejected plan) will be similar, each having three bedrooms, a family room, full basement, living room, dining room and kitchen and one-and-a-half baths. The architecture has been described as California contemporary.

The development would also include a clubhouse and swimming pool. Provisions for a homeowners' association have also been made.

Walked Out Four Weeks Ago

Determined Strikers Hurting

by DOUG RAY

The strike headquarters is a rickety trailer that shakes when you walk inside. It sits just east of the Honeywell plant in Arlington Heights where 550 workers walked out the job four weeks ago after a contract dispute.

The trailer was crowded yesterday afternoon with disgruntled picketers, some of them waiting to take their three-hour shifts on the line, others just passing the time of day and at least one woman who is feeling the financial blow of joblessness.

The young brunette approached a union steward and reported her electricity was shut off. The union "welfare check" hadn't reached the utility company in time.

A few telephone calls were made and shortly the matter was cleared up. "The check should be there tomorrow," the steward assured her.

The woman is receiving aid from the United Electrical Union Local 1114, because she is one of the worst in need. Without another job and dependents at home, she gets funds to help her through the trying days of the strike.

She applied to the union's welfare committee and was accepted. Others who hold part-time jobs or whose husbands or wife are working must fend for themselves.

Mrs. Terry DeFelice, a picket captain, has secured her second job during the strike. She starts tomorrow, realizing "it takes two checks to pay bills today."

THE SMALL WOMAN paced outside the Honeywell entrance, arrayed in a red and yellow placard designating that she was "on strike." Her husband is working and she is not eligible for the union supplement. "So we need the other job," she explained.

"I'm a little worried about where the tuition money is coming from" for the two college students. "And the payment on the car hasn't been paid yet this month."

In order to take her turn walking the picket line, she will pay a babysitter $25 "because school is out this week. It's less when they're in school," she said.

Picketers said Tuesday that their group insurance policies have been terminated. Mrs. DeFelice transferred herself and the children to her husband's policy. "But you should talk to the widows and widowers... we have a lot of them here," she said.

Mrs. DeFelice doesn't like walking outside the plant. She says she'd much rather be working. "But we want to have better working conditions," she said as she pulled an umbrella over her head to keep the cold wind away.

"We'll keep coming back, day after day. We've frozen out here and the worst weather is over. Through it all, nobody's weakened."

Steward Larry Masek has worked for Honeywell for 21 years and participated in two other strikes. "I know what we're up against," he said. "And I've been this route before. We won't quit."

The 47-year-old tool room machinist said union officials are "looking into unfair labor practices," after it was disclosed that Honeywell officials have hired 100 temporary workers.

TONY BARTOLINI, Honeywell spokesman, said the new workers, along with salaried employees who are not on strike, "will help the company meet customer needs." The part-time workers will be released when the strike is settled, he said.

The union employees are bitter about what they call "strike breakers" and the letters they have been receiving from Honeywell management urging them to return to work. They are somewhat amazed that delivery trucks are breaking through the picket lines with escorts by Arlington Heights police.

"Come around here Friday," said Mrs. DeFelice. "We're going to have a mass protest and may stop the trucks."

Truck Crash Injures River Grove Resident

A River Grove man was injured yesterday when his truck rammed the back of a state maintenance vehicle on Rte. 53 at Euclid Avenue.

Walter B. Hardin, 41, of River Grove suffered cuts on his head and internal injuries. He was treated and released at Northwest Community Hospital.

State police said Hardin was northbound on 53 when he hit the rear of a maintenance truck moving slowly in the right hand lane. The truck was being used by a road crew that was cleaning debris along the road shoulder.

Hardin hit the rear of the truck at about 50 miles per hour, police said. The driver of the maintenance truck, Harry Rekas of Schaumburg, suffered minor injuries.

Hardin was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Hire a veteran.

Veterans have experience in dozens of fields. And hundreds of specialties... many of them hard to find. Trade skills. Technical skills. Professional and supervisory skills.

In fact, the Services spend some $3 billion a year on training! And there's over $1 billion more available for training through the GI Bill and the Manpower Development and Training Act.

Sew! Sew!

If you want something fresh and crisp in a long summer dress, Finn's Fabrics at 113 N. Cook St. in Barrington has it on display. Each time I go into Finn's they have a new garment on the display wall.

Then I was so thrilled to find a beautiful nylon jersey to make turtleneck sweaters on the long flowing Pucci dresses and it is heavy enough so you can't see through it. The jerseys were a group of qiana and I selected a dusty blue for a shirtwaist dress and found a stunning J.H.B. button to complement it.

Do have fun sewing!

Board Votes For Closed Teacher Contract Talks

The River Trails Dist. 26 School Board Tuesday night voted to keep 1972-73 teacher contract negotiation sessions closed to the public, at least for the present.

"We didn't think open sessions were a good idea at this point in time. We want to wait and see how our sister districts are doing with it," said Alan Wallskog, member of the board bargaining team. Districts 21 and 23 are both holding open sessions this year.

Wallskog said the matter, could be voted on again at any time.

The vote was 4-1 to keep sessions closed. Ted Wattenberg voiced the opposing vote. "I am for open negotiations because I feel we are discussing public affairs that should interest the community," he said. "We are considering taxpayers' funds."

THE BOARD'S VOTE came after members of the River Trails Education Association (RTEA), the teachers' bargaining agent, last month requested open bargaining. Teachers said they took the action to prevent "misleading" statements to the public concerning negotiations. Richard Zwieback, the board's professional negotiator at the time, indicated he did not favor open sessions.

Neil Le Febvre, member of the board's team who made the motion to keep bargaining closed, would make no comment. Clarke Robinson, also a member of the team, said:

"I think both sides will get along better at this juncture without an open stage. It may be later on that it will be advisable. But now, I think with closed negotiations we can progress better."

Both sides met Monday night in what teachers termed a "fruitless meeting."

"IT BECAME apparent to us that movement toward settlement requires capitulation on our part," said Jan White, chairman of the RTEA team. "We are being forced to convince Mr. Zwieback of the worth of present contract items that are for the most part clear and uncomplicated."

Mrs. White charged Zwieback and the board with attempts to reduce the current contract to "a vague and contradictory document."

She said: "Since we are not willing to accept at face value the legal jargon he is proposing, he claims we are not willing to make improvements in the contract."

Zwieback said teachers are unwilling to move.

"Teachers have to learn that it is a give-and-take situation. Teachers have to be willing to show some desire or ability to change things," he said. "We are interested in reaching an early settlement and in making some changes that will provide for better relations in the long run."

Zwieback said the board has made proposals which it feels are serious ones.

"What the teachers need is a representative who is trained. We, and I think the board would agree with me, feel the association came to the table ill-prepared."

MRS. WHITE said teachers feel they are being forced to fight for the present contract, instead of moving on to the 11 items proposed by the RTEA. These items include a 6.5 per cent salary increase, establishment of a counseling staff and classroom enrichment fund, and reevaluation of extra duty pay and services.

The board's proposal includes a salary offer which freezes salaries at current levels.

"We are looking forward to some movements in the areas we are talking about now, so we can get on to the money items," Zwieback said. He added that later this month, the board would have "a better idea" of what income for the upcoming school year would be.

Nab 3 Youths, $400 Worth Of Heroin At Beck Lake

More than $400 worth of heroin has been seized by Mount Prospect Police and Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) officials.

Three youths, two from Des Plaines and one from Niles, were arrested for sale of a controlled drug (heroin) in the seizure, one of the largest ever made locally, according to Sgt. Joseph Ropp of the Mount Prospect Police.

Both John P. Kopeck, 19, of Niles, and Alan S. Rudolph, 17, of 9259 N. Hamlin Ave., Des Plaines, were released on bond Tuesday at Niles Court. Their cases were continued to May 2. The third youth, Richard Bos, 18, of 1484 Willow Ave., Des Plaines, will have a hearing in juvenile court April 20.

The arrests occurred about 2 p.m. Friday at Beck Lake near Central Road and the Tri-State Tollway east of Mount Prospect.

POLICE SAID the trio tried to exchange 20 to 30 "dimes" of heroin (a "dime" is a $10 packet) for a guitar in the possession of a MEG officer.

The guitar had allegedly been stolen in February by Bos from a Mount Prospect music store. The guitar was given to an Arlington Heights man, who later called police, by a man named Richard Senior as collateral for a $300 loan.

When the informant learned Senior had been imprisoned in Indiana, he placed a newspaper ad to sell the guitar. A person identifying himself as Bos called the informant and told him the guitar was stolen and belonged to him (Bos).

Police said the caller offered the informant "one pound of good marijuana" for the guitar. The exchange involving the guitar and the heroin was set up during the second of two controlled heroin purchases made by MEG officers from Bos at a Des Plaines gas station in March.

In addition to the drug charges filed against the three, police also charged Bos with the theft of the guitar. According to Mount Prospect police, Senior will be extradited from Indiana and charged with the theft of property known to have been stolen.

Meyer To Be Independent Candidate?

by KEN KOZAK

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer, beaten just two weeks ago in the Republican 3rd District legislative primary, has revealed that he may be an independent candidate for the General Assembly in November's general election.

Recently, before leaving with his family for a vacation in the Bahamas, Meyer acknowledged that his political ambitions didn't necessarily die with his primary defeat.

"I've had people indicate that they'd like to see me run," he said, "but it's really too early to know if I will or I won't."

But he did admit that he plans to meet "with certain people" in the near future to discuss a possible November candidacy.

Meyer lost the March 21 primary, finishing last behind Mrs. Virginia Macdonald and Donald L. Totten, the two party-endorsed candidates for the state legislature vacancies in the 3rd district. In that race he pulled about 25 per cent of the vote, finishing with 6,724½ votes compared to 11,146½ for Totten and 10,115 for Macdonald.

A RUN IN NOVEMBER would be uphill all the way against four organization candidates: Totten, Macdonald and Democrats Eugenia Chapman and John P. Kelley. Three seats will be fought over.

While saying that so far he hasn't "really seriously considered" staging a comeback in November, he admitted he would still like a seat in Springfield and

2,000 Oppose Vehicle Tax

Petitions opposing the Cook County vehicle tax for unincorporated areas will be turned over to area legislators at a public meeting tonight in Prospect Heights. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at St. Alphonsus Catholic Church on Wheeling Road.

Yesterday a class action suit challenging the constitutionality of the vehicle tax was filed in Cook County Circuit Court by attorneys acting on behalf of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA). Jack Gilligan, a PHIA member connected with the legal fight, said yesterday more than 2,000 persons had signed petitions opposing the tax.

Vote Holloway, Ward In Dist. 57

Two weeks ago Mount Prospect Dist. 57 voters said in no uncertain terms they wanted the school board to come up with something besides a massive tax increase as the solution to the district's financial woes.

Voters return to the polls Saturday to choose two men who will help the board examine and choose those alternatives.

Of the five candidates running for the two school board posts, we endorse William Holloway and Michael Ward.

The major issue now facing the board is how to maintain the best possible educational program in the face of worsening financial conditions. Holloway and Ward, in our opinion, are the two candidates best equipped to cope with the situation.

Holloway is an assistant general manager in charge of taxes at Inland Steel Corp. Not only does he work with tax assessments on a daily basis, he also monitors taxing trends throughout the nation in connection with his job.

In calling the referendum "not a crisis but a choice situation" for voters, he indicated he was willing to abide by their decision — even though he favored passage of the tax increase.

Holloway's plan to have the school board hold public hearings on certain subjects is a good one. Had the school board done this with its staffing plan and proposed tax increase, the results of the election two weeks ago may have been different.

Michael Ward would bring to the school board the experience he has gained through his position as an internal consultant for the Northern Trust Bank of Chicago. In his job he works on new programs and projects for the bank, considering their costs as well as their value. Ward thinks his vocation gives him the expertise necessary for financial planning in Dist. 57, and we agree.

Ward's plan to distribute a questionnaire to Dist. 57 residents is a good one that, if carried out, could help stimulate resident interest in the school system.

Both men have expressed opinions with which the Herald agrees heartily. They have urged more long-range planning than the district has experienced to date. They have been critical of the board's actions preceding the referendum.

This is not to say the Herald is in complete agreement with the views expressed by Holloway and Ward. Both supported the referendum. The Herald opposed it, calling instead for the school district to return to voters later this year asking for a more reasonable tax increase.

Nevertheless, through their backgrounds and their views, Holloway and Ward have demonstrated they are the two candidates most able to help guide the district in the coming months and years.

In Dist. 59: Domanico And Sheldon

Saturday voters in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 will choose two members of the board of education. The Herald urges them to cast their ballots for Albert Domanico of Elk Grove Village and James Sheldon of Des Plaines.

We make these choices out of a belief that Domanico and Sheldon will bring a number of necessary qualities to the board — experience, financial expertise and the willingness to do the work necessary to be effective.

Domanico is no stranger to Dist. 59. Besides serving on the board in 1969 and 1970, he has served on the School Community Council and has been as regular in his attendance at board meetings in the last two years as any elected board member. This attendance record proves, we believe, his enthusiasm and his willingness to be a hard-working board member.

In addition, Domanico is well-informed on the district's problems and has experience and familiarity that will make him an effective board member immediately. Most new board members must take some time to become familiar with a district's inner workings. Domanico will not need that time but will instead be a productive board member from the beginning.

Sheldon, though he lacks Domanico's intimate familiarity with the district, will, we believe, bring a needed talent in financial management to the board. He is a vice president at the First National Bank of Des Plaines and will thus serve as an effective replacement for board Pres. Harold Harvey, who is himself a bank president.

Also, Sheldon has, since he began his campaign, shown his willingness to do the necessary homework to form considered opinions on the issues facing the district. In positions he has taken, particularly on tax anticipation warrants and public labor-management negotiations, he has shown the ability to cut through the smoke-screens of emotional arguments before taking a position.

We cannot endorse Paul Neuhauser for either of the board seats even though he is the incumbent. We make that decision with some regret. During nearly three years on the board, Neuhauser has done nothing for which we can fault him personally, but at the same time he has not been an independent voice influencing board decisions.

It is nearly impossible to judge the quality of any contributions Neuhauser has made to board decisions in the past because he has generally confined his participation to voting aye or nay, without expressing opinions in discussion. He offers his experience as a reason he should be reelected — however, we do not believe experience is so important it should obscure the need for a board member to be a strong voice on the board.

For all these reasons, we urge the election of Albert Domanico and James Sheldon to the Dist. 59 board of education.

Here's How To Vote In District 23

Five candidates are running for three school board posts in School Dist. 23. The field of hopefuls includes three incumbents and two new candidates.

The Herald endorses the reelection bids of John Stull and Alan Krinsky. For the third school board post we consider both the incumbent, Robert LeForge, and Ronald Sowatzke equally qualified.

In his three years on the school board Krinsky has demonstrated he is hard-working. He has been active in teacher negotiations. During his tenure on the board, Dist. 23 has become an innovator in the field of teacher relations. Dist. 23 is the only school district in the area to have a merit pay system for its teachers. It is one of two area school districts to initiate open teacher salary bargaining.

Similarly, Stull has shown himself to be a hard worker on the school board. He has criticized the board for spending too much time on "trivial matters," and we must agree with this.

Stull has recognized the district's problems in cooperating with other taxing bodies in the district's area. Among other things Stull has called for a standardized policy that the school district could use with all area park districts.

Concerning the third school board post to be filled Saturday, the Herald feels that either Robert LeForge or Ronald Sowatzke would do an equally adequate job.

LeForge was appointed last year to fill a vacancy. Prior to that, however, he had served on the board several years. His experience as a longtime board member would be valuable.

Jaycees Start Selling Sand

Residents can now order sand from the Mount Prospect Jaycees.

"Operation Sandbox," a fund-raising venture for the Jaycees, has begun. Residents can order sand by calling 394-3967 or 392-1941. Delivery, at $1.50 per wheelbarrow load, will be April 15, according to Warren Casey, chairman of the project.

Casey estimated the Jaycees would sell almost 25 tons of sand. The sand and use of three trucks for the project are being donated by Meyer Brothers Materials Co. of Des Plaines.

Jaycees will use profits from "Operation Sandbox" for their youth projects, including the annual Junior Sports Jamboree. The Jaycees have also made donations to the Mount Prospect Community Action Plan (CAP), which operates a telephone hotline and a counseling center.

Sidewalk Upgrading Program Under Way

Mount Prospect homeowners who wish to participate in this year's sidewalk improvement program may sign up now by calling the village engineer's office at 392-6000.

Under the program, each year sections of broken and worn sidewalk are replaced with the village and the homeowner sharing the cost. A total of $8,000 is included in the 1972-73 tentative village budget for the village's share in the program. Also included in the tentative budget is $1,500 for replacement and repair of wing walks, those extra portions of sidewalks at corners that go to the curb. The village pays the entire cost of these.

Once a homeowner's request is received by the village, the engineering department will send out an inspector to inspect the sidewalk.

Politicos React To Roland Meyer's Disclosure

The disclosure this week by Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer that he is thinking of running as an independent legislative candidate in November has drawn a variety of reactions from local politicians.

Virginia Macdonald, one of Meyer's conquerors in the primary, (the other was Donald Totten), expressed surprise at the disclosure by a reporter, but recovered well enough to take a back-handed swipe at the idea.

She said Meyer's idea "is just not traditional, but maybe this hasn't been a traditional election."

Mrs. Macdonald stated her belief in the will of the people as expressed in a primary saying, "When one runs on a party ticket you rise or fall with a party ticket... it's traditional to abide by the will of the voters in a primary."

Asked about a possible Totten-Macdonald-Meyer coalition, she said she and Totten are a "united and dedicated" team, and "I am not prepared to say that I would establish any other coalition other than those that have been established at this point."

Totten commented that Meyer "is free to do whatever he wants," and discounted the idea of a coalition in a round-about way.

A coalition, he said, would be difficult "because the Democrats will certainly protect their one seat by using the three vote mechanism. It's an interesting idea but I don't think it's viable."

WHEELING TOWNSHIP Republican committeeman Richard Cowen was emphatic in his distaste for the idea.

Talking about potential support for Meyer in Wheeling township Cowen said, "He isn't going to get any. The voters selected Macdonald and Totten and that's certainly who the organization will support."

Elk Grove committeeman Carl Hansen said he "wholeheartedly supports the Republican ticket. I don't know why Meyer would do that."

Reactions from the other side of the fence — Meyer's side — show that two of his main primary backers are still uncommitted to another candidate.

He said he is not committed yet to another candidate and said he will sit down with Meyer to discuss a possible candidacy.

He stressed that this wouldn't commit him to Meyer either because "I'm always willing to discuss something that has something to do with this region."

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert, who defended Meyer against charges of "double dipping" during the primary said, "I'd be glad to chat with him if he asked me to."

Meyer To Be Independent Candidate?

said, "the idea has possibilities."

"I'm going to have to sit down with some people and discuss it with them," he said. When asked who he would discuss it with he replied, "people on both sides of the aisle — Democrats, Republicans and independents."

Although Meyer dropped no names, it is likely that some of the people he'll be talking to are those who endorsed his primary effort. The backbone of that unsuccessful venture was made up of Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher (who managed Meyer's campaign), Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert, Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie and Elk Grove Village President Charles Zettek.

Although Meyer insisted it is too early to know for certain if he will run, the possibility lends itself to speculation.

Three legislators will be elected in November, and — momentarily discounting Meyer — if area politics hold true to historical form, the party split will likely be two Republicans and one Democrat.

STATE ELECTION LAWS assure that no one party will win all three seats in one legislative district. In other words — theoretically at least — minority representation is assured in a district when only candidates from the two parties are contesting.

This is where an extremely well-aimed monkey wrench tossed by Meyer could possibly jolt the theoretical concept of the assured minority representation system out of alignment.

Meyer would have to run in November as an independent, but his politics are Republican. That raises the involved question: If Meyer can show Republican leaders in the district that he is an attractive candidate who could be supported without endangering the almost conceded Totten-Macdonald victories, will the lure of having two regular Republicans and one "independent" Republican in the General Assembly be strong enough to convince the party to also support Meyer with money and campaign apparatus in an attempt to freeze the Democrats out of the 3rd district?

It's unlikely that Meyer could come out among the top three in a five-way race with four party endorsed candidates without more substantial support than he mustered in the primary.

The obvious place to turn for that support is the Republican leaders in Palatine, Wheeling, Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Maine townships, who refused to support Meyer in the primary.

A more practical matter for Meyer to meet, should he decide to run, is the legal requirement for an independent candidacy.

MEYER WILL HAVE TO file nominating petitions sometime between July 31 and August 7, according to Tom King, supervisor of the Cook County Elections Board.

The petitions must include a minimum of 3,000 signatures of registered voters from the 3rd district, and any maximum number, according to King. The requirements for the 3rd district is special because its boundaries have been realigned since the last general election in November, 1970.

It is difficult to estimate the number of registered voters in the district, but in 1970 about 97,000 people voted. Since then, the district has been sliced approximately in half. Only about 12,000 people voted in the primary legislative contests two weeks ago.

Group Files Suit Challenging New Cook County Tax

A class action suit challenging the constitutionality of the Cook County vehicle tax for unincorporated areas was filed yesterday in Cook County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed in the name of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA), a homeowners group, and in the names of several individuals.

The suit contends the tax is unconstitutional because, while only residents of unincorporated Cook County have to pay it, the revenue is used throughout the county.

"While the money benefits 6 1/2 million people, it is collected from only 180,000 (those in unincorporated parts of the county)," said Jack Gilligan, a PHIA member involved in the suit. He said the class action suit was filed on behalf of all residents in the unincorporated sections of the county.

IN CONNECTION with the suit, Gilligan said, the PHIA wants the vehicle tax funds already collected to be put in escrow pending the outcome of the legal action.

The legal fight is being financed through donations from several homeowner groups and individuals in Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships. Gilligan said more than $2,200 had been collected.

Filing of the suit climaxes a campaign against the tax that began shortly after the tax was approved late last December by the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

One of the groups leading the fight was the Taxpayers Protest Committee of Cook County. That group had been expected to file the suit; however, a last-minute change in plans resulted in the PHIA taking over the suit.

On March 18 the PHIA and TPC co-sponsored a protest rally against the tax at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights. About 1,000 persons from unincorporated areas of county attended.

Those at the rally were asked to sign petitions and to contribute funds to the legal fight.

THE COUNTY'S newly passed taxes on mobile homes and on new car sales were also the targets of protest at the rally.

Gilligan said yesterday that attorneys are still pondering a suit against the mobile home tax. No suit is planned against the tax on new cars sold in the county, he said, because several municipalities have already filed a suit against it.

Also at the rally several state and county office holders and candidates expressed their support for opposition to the tax.

During the meeting at Hersey, TPC Pres. Richard Hechler predicted that similar rallies would be held in other parts of unincorporated Cook County. Gilligan said yesterday that another rally is scheduled for the LaGrange area.

A public meeting will be held at 7:30 tonight at St. Alphonsus Catholic Church on Wheeling Road in Prospect Heights to turn over petitions opposing the taxes to area legislators. Gilligan said yesterday more than 2,000 persons had signed the petitions.

WHAT DO YOU DO when you're not playing the tuba? Play basketball, like the musicians at Wheeling High School. Two members of the Wheeling band oppose each other on the basketball court as part of an eight-day marathon to raise money. All 200 members of the band are taking part in the game. When this photo was taken the score was 8,500 to 8,400. The marathon will continue until tonight when proceeds from the game will be paced in a fund for a trip to Winnipeg, Canada, this summer.

Woman, 25, Found Dead In Apartment

A 25-year-old Arlington Heights woman was found dead in her Rand Road apartment Tuesday night, apparent victim of a sudden death.

Mrs. Cheryl Leigh Bittner was discovered in the living room of her apartment by her husband, Elvin D. Bittner, after he returned from work.

Mrs. Bittner was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital. A cause of death was not immediately determined and the Cook County Coroner will conduct an inquiry into the matter.

School Dist. 25: Nicholas Raino Is Our Choice

Nicholas J. Raino is our choice for one of two seats on the school Dist. 25 Board of Education.

There are several reasons why Raino receives our endorsement.

Not only has Raino, who was endorsed by the Dist. 25 caucus, shown deep interest in the school district by his presence at recent board meetings and participation in PTA groups, but he has a fine background in education and finance.

Raino is a former math teacher in Chicago public schools, as well

knowledge of the classroom situation. As the vice president of a small financial advertising firm, Raino also knows how to deal with a tight budget.

Both his knowledge of schools as Dist. 214 and has a working and finance make Raino a most qualified school board candidate.

For the other vacant board seat, we cannot endorse either independent James DeVuono or the other dist. 25 caucus-endorsed candidate, Richard Soby.

In Soby, the caucus has not lived up to its responsibility of choosing an active, independent voice for the school board. Though the caucus members, whose candidates have been undefeated for 17 years, should keep school board cohesion in mind while choosing their candidates, that should not be their only criterion for their endorsement, as it appears they have done with Soby.

While Soby has shown interest in the district by attending school board meetings, and is sincere in his bid for a school board seat, he seems to have few independent opinions on matters relating to the district. He also seems to have the attitude that the school district administration can do no wrong.

While DeVuono is outspoken and has shown that he has an independent voice, he has only been active in school matters during last spring's referendum. He has not attended a school board meeting since.

DeVuono calls a seat on the board an "all consuming" job, and has lots of plans for creating more public interest in schools. But he is simply not involved with school district matters, and does not know the day to day workings of the board.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The Harrisburg Seven jury found the Rev. Philip Berrigan guilty of smuggling three letters out of the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison, but said it was hopelessly deadlocked on charges that Berrigan and six other antiwar activists conspired against the government.

Sen. George McGovern's campaign directors said their man saved the other Democratic presidential hopefuls from a whipping by Gov. George Wallace. They said the race for the Democratic presidential nomination is now between McGovern and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, despite Wallace's second place finish in the Wisconsin primary.

The body of flamboyant Harlem congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., 63, remained at the Miami hospital where he died Tuesday while two of the women in his life tried to agree on funeral arrangements.

Sen. John Tunney tagged two high-ranking White House aides as pivotal witnesses in the Senate Judiciary Committee's ITT investigation and its bearing on Atty. Gen.-nominee Richard Kleindienst.

A flash fire swept through a small nursing home turned boarding house in Rosecrans, Wis., killing nine elderly residents.

The World

An Indonesian airlines pilot shot and killed a hijacker who forced him to land at Jogjakarta and threatened to blow up the plane unless his ransom demands were met.

The State

Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott has asked three county courts to impose $155,000 in fines against 13 retailers who allegedly failed to pay state cigarette taxes.

The Chicago Housing Authority has been fined $200 by the Illinois Pollution Control Board for operation of incinerators in Chicago's Bridgeport area.

About 5,500 state employees will be placed under the state's personnel code next month, a move the Illinois State Employees Association has strongly endorsed.

The War

Two Communist jets crossed into South Vietnam for the first known time in the war to buzz government troops battling attacking North Vietnamese in Quang Tri province. Communists also opened a second front with an attack 60 miles north of Saigon.

Our Choices
In Area Districts

Residents of Arlington Heights living within the boundaries of elementary school districts 21, 23 and 59 will go the polls Saturday to vote in their respective school board elections.

The Herald, after interviewing each of the candidates in those three races, recommends residents vote for the following candidates in the contested portions of each race:

- Dist. 21. Incumbent Jack Lane of Arlington Heights;
- Dist. 23. Both incumbents Alan Krinsky of Arlington Heights and John Stull of Prospect Heights and either incumbent Robert LeForge or Ronald Sowatzke, both of Prospect Heights.
- Dist. 59. Albert Domanico of Elk Grove Village and James Sheldon of Des Plaines.

In Dist. 21, incumbents Lillian Stiller and Mary Joan Reid are running unopposed for three-year terms. The only contested battle, for the third open seat, is between Jack Lane and Ben Herman. We feel Lane, with his six months experience on the board and an imaginative approach to the district's problems, rates an endorsement over his opponent.

In Dist. 23, five candidates are vying for three seats. We urge strongly the reelection of incumbents Alan Krinsky and John Stull. We also feel incumbent Robert LeForge and Ronald Sowatzke are equally qualified and urge voters to choose between the two of them for the third spot on the board.

Both Krinsky and Stull have shown themselves to be hard working, effective board members. LeForge was appointed last year to fill a vacancy. Prior to that, however, he had served on the board several years. His experience as a long-time board member would be valuable. While Sowatzke does not have the experience of LeForge, we feel he has shown a great deal of interest in the school board during the 1½ years he has lived in the district.

In Dist. 59, there are two seats to be filled. We recommend a vote on Saturday for both Albert Domanico and James Sheldon.

We make these choices out of the belief that both Domanico and Sheldon will bring a number of necessary qualities to the board — experience, financial expertise and the willingness to do the work necessary to be effective. Domanico has been a school board member before and has followed the district's activities closely. Sheldon, among other things, will bring a needed talent in financial management to the board.

We cannot endorse Paul Neuhauser for either of the board seats even though he is the incumbent. We make that decision with some regret. During nearly three years on the board, Neuhauser has done nothing for which we can fault him personally, but at the same time he has not been an independent voice influencing board decisions.

Jack Walsh, Alex Agase
Speakers For Chamber

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce will host two special meetings next Wednesday featuring guest speakers Jack Walsh and Northwestern University football coach Alex Agase.

Wednesday morning at 8:30 the presidents and managers from nine Northwest area Chambers will meet to discuss the role of the business community in the development of mass transportation plans.

Walsh, who recently resigned as Arlington Heights village president in order to devote full-time to his new job as assistant director of the state's department of local government affairs, will be the principal speaker.

Representatives from the Chicago and North Western Railway will attend the morning meeting and present slides on the railroad's CMATS (Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation System) proposal.

REPRESENTATIVES from the chamber of commerce in Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Crystal Lake, Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows, Barrington and Arlington Heights are expected to attend the 8:30 a.m. meeting at the Arlington Inn, 948 E. Northwest Hwy.

Wednesday evening, Northwestern University football coach Alex Agase will be the guest speaker at a general membership meeting of the chamber.

Agase, named Coach of the Year in 1970, was a three-year All American during his college playing days. He played professionally with Cleveland and Baltimore.

Reservations for the dinner meeting, preceded by a social hour at 6 p.m. in the Brasserie restaurant, 2121 S. Arlington Heights Rd., can be made by calling the chamber office at 253-1703.

'New Car' Tax Issue
Joined By 2 Suburbs

Two additional suburbs have joined Arlington Heights, Evanston and Oak Park in seeking to block Cook County from collecting a $10 tax on each new car sold in their city.

Niles and west suburban Berwyn Tuesday joined in seeking a court order to stop the county tax collection.

Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack Siegel initiated the court action on behalf of Arlington Heights and Evanston where he is corporation counsel.

Name Rosenfeld To Cultural Post Here

Sidney L. Rosenfeld, secretary of the village Cultural Commission was appointed chairman of that commission Monday night by Village Pres. Jack Walsh.

Rosenfeld succeeds Joseph A. Weber Jr. who recently resigned.

The Cultural Commission last month received authorization from the village board to arrange for a feasibility study on the potential for developing a cultural center in Arlington Heights.

Results of that study are expected by early summer.

Adventures of your Garbageman

"Spring Clean-Up" Days Start April 17

Bring on your beat-up furniture and broken appliances! ... but remember, the scheduling is different this year. ONE DAY ONLY, on each garbage route.

Last year, our men could work on the "Clean-Up" only after finishing their garbage runs. A few hours each day. So inevitably, some trash stood in the rain for days before they got to it.

To eliminate that mess, this year we're going to do the entire "Spring Clean-Up" in a SINGLE DAY on each route (your first service day that week) by giving curb service only on that day.

It's a rough one, that will involve many extra dumping trips to the landfill. So we're hoping we won't have a lot of garbage to haul as well. (However, if your cans are at the curb, we'll take your garbage, too.) Wish us luck!

18 Are Named To School Boundary Study Unit

The board of education of Elk Grove Township Dist. 50 appointed 18 persons to a citizens' advisory committee to study school boundaries Monday night and charged them with recommending boundary changes that will be good for the district until 1977.

The committee, made up of representatives from all but one of the elementary schools and three former members of the advisory committee which recommended a fifth junior high school, was asked to return a recommendation to the board by Oct. 1.

Boundary changes for the district's junior high schools and elementary schools will be needed because of the opening of Friendship Junior High School in Des Plaines scheduled for June, 1973. In a board statement to the committee adopted Monday, the group was charged with the task of coming up with boundaries "which will make optimum use of school building facilities in the school district when Friendship School is completed." Other parts of the board's instructions to the committee call for two public hearings on any proposed boundary changes before the recommendation is presented to the board and for the committee "to consider first the welfare of all children, secondarily the particular circumstances of a single neighborhood and on a still lower priority the wishes of adult interest groups."

Supt. James Erviti told the board he expects the committee's job to be difficult and to generate controversy. "This is going to be an impassioned issue. It is not a simple matter at all to look at our district and draw boundaries that make long-range sense and when you draw them one way you make some people happy and other people unhappy," he said.

IN ADDITION Erviti recommended that the board make available $750 to hire an outside consultant to the committee, who would come from outside the district and would be able to do research necessary for the recommendation.

He said he wanted the consultant to be from outside the district because "I think there would be no suspicion that we are telling the committee what to think." He said graduate students in education or employees of other school districts would probably be willing to do the job.

The board agreed to make funds available for hiring a consultant, but said it would approve the actual hiring later if the committee decides they want the extra help.

The only elementary school without a representative on the committee is Grant Wood School in Elk Grove Village. Erviti said he hopes that school will name a representative in the near future.

Members of the committee are Mary Kloster, Dick Ward and Emil Bahmaier, former members of the junior high committee; Sam Patrino of Brentwood School; Charles Palmatier of Byrd

School, Beatrice McInerney of Clearmont School, Charles Knap of Cook School, Ted Kulaga of Devonshire School; Elizabeth Greisz of Einstein School; Barbara Knuth of Forest View School; Elizabeth Heinz of Frost School; Richard Funk of High Ridge Knolls School; Loretta Tvrdy of Hopkins School; Jan Schulz of John Jay School; Barbara Rankin of Low School; Carol Knapik of Ridge School; William Shannon of Rupley School; and Sally Roberts of Salt Creek School.

Report U.S. Studying 'The Bridge'

by DOUG RAY

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is in the midst of a study of The Bridge, an area youth services bureau, to determine whether its programs are adequate to combat juvenile problems.

A preliminary report is "very favorable" to The Bridge, according to Bill Underwood of the California Department of Youth Authority, who spearheaded the nationwide study that includes The Bridge.

"The Bridge looks pretty good" he said after receiving responses from teens and the communities it serves. The final report will be completed next November, he said.

The Bridge was one of three youth bureaus in Illinois chosen for the study to depict a cross section of the state, Underwood said. Rock Island and DeKalb also were included.

The Bridge, 434 1/2 E. Northwest Hwy.,

Palatine, is in its second year of operation, after being established as a pilot program in the state under the financial reins of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) and Palatine Township. The Bridge received $23,591 from the ILEC this year and $59,000 is proposed in the upcoming township budget.

It is supervised by the Palatine Township Youth Committee to serve youths in Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights and Inverness. The bureau also has a contract agreement with organizations in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Barrington.

MRS. CYNTHIA Sherly, a Bridge staffer, estimated 1,500 persons were counseled or met with staff members as part of the outreach program during the first year. Many of the teenagers have returned for counseling or simply to talk to other youths there, she said.

The Bridge's telephone counseling service (358-6702), began last September and has been widely used, she reported. Nearly 100 calls were taken during the first month of operation and six times as many calls were taken three months later.

Other programs provided by The Bridge include two full-time outreach workers in Arlington Heights and two ombudsmen in Arlington High School four days a week. The outreach workers are partially funded by the village board.

The youth directors in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg give about 20 percent of their time to The Bridge as a part of their contractual agreement. Barrington referrals also are handled by The Bridge.

Staff members consult weekly with the Northwest Mental Health Center in Arlington Heights.

The Bridge has a relatively young staff, with the average age of 24. There are six full-time workers and three part-time the trip to Winnipeg, Canada.

"We have no idea how much money this will gain for us, but we are having a good time. Parents have even joined us, as have our chaperones," said McLaughlin. Members are supervised by adults 24 hours a day during the marathon.

The band is also undertaking another money-making project called "Operation Pit Stop" — A spray deodorant test.

THE TEST is being conducted for a new deodorant from International Biotech of Northbrook. The firm will pay the band $20 a person for all those tested. When the test is complete the band may earn up to $5,000 for the trip to Germany.

The first test session was Monday night and the next is scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight. Anyone interested may participate by calling 255-4519 or by going to the school tonight. The session will last until 9 p.m.

All participants will be checked on the effects of the deodorant once every 30 days for the next 3 months, and will also receive free deodorant.

FUTURE FUND-RAISING events for the band include a dance tonight and a dinner April 22.

The dance tonight at 7:30 will feature disc jockey Dex Card and a live band. It will be in the school fieldhouse.

The dinner Saturday, April 22 at 6:30 p.m., is being sponsored by the Wheeling Chamber of Commerce. Tickets at $25 per couple may be purchased from any chamber member or at the chamber office, 25 S. Milwaukee Ave. It will be at the Chevy Chase Country Club.

All proceeds from the dance will go to the Winnipeg trip, and proceeds from the dinner will be for the German trip.

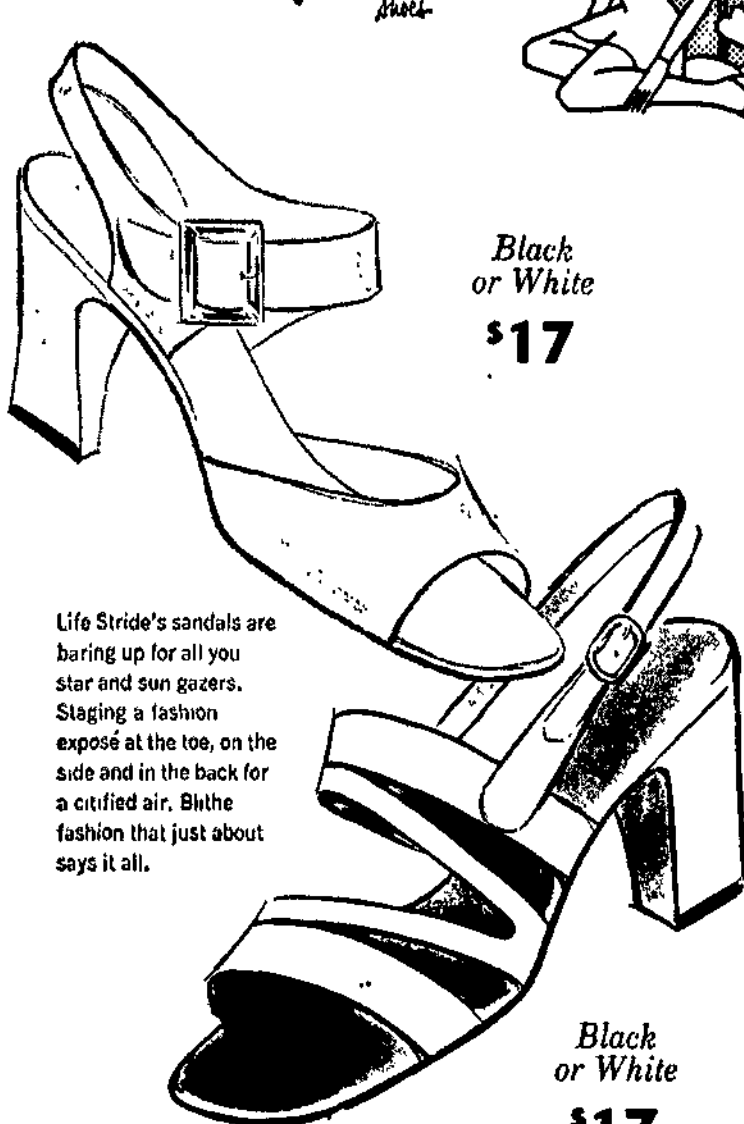

The Wheeling Instrumental League has close to $13,000 for the Winnipeg trip, which will cost about $20,000.

The band has currently collected about $27,500 toward its German trip and must have $40,000 collected by April 30. $140,000 is needed to make the two-week tour.

Workers Like 4-Day Week

a 40 per cent attendance improvement since we started the four-day week.

"Of course, I cannot say unconditionally that the four-day week caused these improvements. . . . But it is indeed my impression that the 4-40 has a lot to do with it."

Other area companies which have switched to the four-day week report similar successes.

"It's worked out very well here," said Doug Hootes, office manager of Selleg, Stephens, Peterson & Flock, an architectural firm in St. Charles, Ill., which has been on the four-day week for nearly two years.

"Originally we intended only to use it during the summer months," he said. "But after we tried it out for the summer, it worked out so well that we just continued it."

Hootes said the company's 18 employees work a nine-hour day, 36-hour week, with no one generally in the office on Fridays.

"But we haven't had any problems because of it," he said. "We inform our clients when we go to work that we only work four days. . . . I think their only response is jealousy."

Spokesmen for another company on the four-day week, the Prikos & Becker Tool Co. of Skokie, say the short week proved beneficial in several unexpected ways.

"It enables us to get something out in a rush if something comes up," said Bill Becker, company purchasing agent. "Since we have a lot of hours at the first part of the week, we can get things done quickly without overtime."

AT COLONIAL CARBON, company officials have noted similar benefits and also point to less time lost while starting up machines. With a four-day week, costly startups of major machines occur only four times a week, rather than five, a 20 per cent savings, they said.

Of course, the four-day week does have its drawbacks — most notably forcing employees to work nine-to-10 hour days. And the long work day has forced at least one area company to revert back to the five-day week after trying the four-day week.

After an eight-month trial with the four-day week, the Samuel Bingham Co. of Franklin Park went back to a five-day week after a vote of union members.

In voting to return to the regular workweek, the union cited two problems with the four-day week: the overly long work days and short lunch hours (20 minutes paid).

However, company officials contend the majority of the employees were not present when the vote was taken and are hopeful the four-day week will return.

At Colonial Carbon there are no unions, and Paterakis is apparently glad of it.

"The unions want it (the four-day week), but they want it with an eight-hour day, thus cutting the workweek to 32 hours," he said. "This is what the union hierarchies want."

Overall, Paterakis feels the four-day week is good in many ways, but he cautions against its general application.

"But all I can say is that it's worked here. . . . I know I'd have a helluva time now going back to the five-day week."

Bargaining Sessions Stay Closed

The River Trails Dist. 26 School Board Tuesday night voted to keep 1972-73 teacher contract negotiation sessions closed to the public, at least for the present.

"We didn't think open sessions were a good idea at this point in time. We want to wait and see how our sister districts are doing with it," said Alan Wallskog, member of the board bargaining team. Districts 21 and 23 are both holding open sessions this year.

Wallskog said the matter, could be safety standards be followed or fines will be imposed.

City codes also could be revised to require greater safety conditions, Abrams has said.

"At present the pool owner files for a city construction permit, and provides a drawing of the site and the pool plans. When the pool is completed a city building inspector examines the pool to determine if it follows city codes," Abrams said.

Early last summer the council passed an amendment to the city building code which required that electrical connections, such as light sockets, be kept at least 10 feet from the pool.

According to assistant City Atty. Charles Hug, the state now regulates and licenses public pools within the city. A public pool is defined by state statutes as a pool which serves the community, including municipal and park district pools. Also "public" are pools in apartment buildings with more than five apartment units, Hug said.

Little League Tryouts Slated For Saturday

Des Plaines youngsters who want to play baseball this summer in the stars of tomorrow, intermediate or major Little League park district teams have been invited to attend the district's annual little league warm-up program at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in the Maine West High School auditorium, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines, according to park district spokesmen.

Fathers are also invited to attend. The program will include registration, league discussions, baseball movies and prizes.

Registration Open For Workshop

Des Plaines residents may now register for the park district's fashion workshop, which will meet Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9 p.m. April 12 through May 17 at the park district office, 748 Pearson St., Des Plaines.

The workshop will include information from professionals about hairstyles, make-up, skin care, exercise, diets and clothing style. There will be a $6 fee for the six-week session. To register, call 296-6016.

The vote was 4-1 to keep sessions closed. Ted Wattenberg voiced the opposing vote. "I am for open negotiations because I feel we are discussing public affairs that should interest the community," he said. "We are considering taxpayers' funds."

THE BOARD'S VOTE came after members of the River Trails Education Association (RTEA), the teachers' bargaining agent, last month requested open bargaining. Teachers said they took the action to prevent "misleading" statements to the public concerning negotiations. Richard Zwieback, the board's professional negotiator at the time, indicated he did not favor open sessions.

Neil Le Febvre, member of the board's team who made the motion to keep bargaining closed, would make no comment. Clarke Robinson, also a member of the team, said:

"I think both sides will get along better at this juncture without an open stage. It may be later on that it will be advisable. But now, I think with closed negotiations we can progress better."

Both sides met Monday night in what teachers termed a "fruitless meeting."

"IT BECAME apparent to us that movement toward settlement requires capitulation on our part," said Jan White, chairman of the RTEA team. "We are being forced to convince Mr. Zwieback of the worth of present contract items that are for the most part clear and uncomplicated."

Mrs. White charged Zwieback and the board with attempts to reduce the current contract to "a vague and contradictory document."

She said: "Since we are not willing to accept at face value the legal jargon he is proposing, he claims we are not willing to make improvements in the contract."

Zwieback said teachers are unwilling to move.

"Teachers have to learn that it is a give-and-take situation. Teachers have to be willing to show some desire or ability to change things," he said. "We are interested in reaching an early settlement and in making some changes that will provide for better relations in the long run."

Zwieback said the board has made proposals which it feels are serious ones.

MRS. WHITE said teachers feel they are being forced to fight for the present contract, instead of moving on to the 11 items proposed by the RTEA. Those items include a 6.5 per cent salary increase, establishment of a counseling staff and classroom enrichment fund, and reevaluation of extra duty pay and services.

The board's proposal includes a salary offer which freezes salaries at current levels.

"We are looking forward to some movements in the areas we are talking about now, so we can get on to the money items," Zwieback said. He added that later this month, the board would have "a better idea" of what income for the upcoming school year would be.

Do-It-Yourself

Concrete is a little bit like a cake — you can bake it yourself starting from scratch with all the ingredients, you can use a dry mix to which you add liquid, or you can get the stuff all mixed for you although you will have to do the finishing yourself unless you want to hire someone for that, too.

For small jobs your best bet is to get a ready-mix product to which you add the water. There are a variety of these using sand or gravel and cement in the right proportions.

A mix is more expensive than buying ingredients separately, but if you are mixing only a small amount, it will be money-saving in the long run. When you shop for sand and gravel you will find that you can buy it only in large amounts.

This is fine for large jobs, but mixing concrete for a driveway, for example, is not an easy job. What you will probably want is the ready-mix concrete brought right to your home in a cement mixer.

Aside from the labor saved, which is considerable, you will get a mix that has been put together in exactly the right proportions of sand, stones, cement and water.

One thing about ready-to-use concrete that you must remember — you must order exactly what you need. You can't save it for use at another time as you can dry ingredients.

CEMENT CONTRACTORS can help you figure what you will need if you give them the dimensions. Concrete is sold in cubic yards and one way of figuring what you will need is taking the area in square feet and dividing by certain figures for the thickness you want. Divide by 50 for a thickness of 6 in.; 75 for 4 in.; 100 for 3 in.; 150 for 2 in.; 300 for 1 in. The answer is the number of cubic yards needed.

If you are putting in a slab 10 ft. square and 3 in. thick you will need one cubic yard. This formula allows for a little excess in case of error.

There is a great deal of advance work when you use a completely mixed concrete, including placing your order well in advance.

Before that day comes, have your forms in place and tightly made. Line up all the help you will need, plenty of friends and relatives. Concrete dries faster than you think so don't try to handle it alone if the job is at all large.

HAVE PLENTY of tools for everyone. You will need shovels and rakes to spread the cement around. Speed is more important than skill at this point.

You will need a long length of wood, longer than the widest part of the form and absolutely straight. Use this to level the concrete.

It is to your advantage to get the mixer as close to the work as possible. Hauling concrete to the site is a lot of work and you will pay for all the time the driver has to wait around.

If you think the driveway won't take the weight of the mixer, get some 2x12 planks for the mixer to drive on. Use planks if it has to drive over the lawn and don't do this sort of thing at all if the lawn is wet.

Q — I WAS honorably discharged from the Army after serving four years, part of it in Vietnam. Can I get a GI home loan and go to school under the GI Bill at the same time?

A — Yes, you may take advantage of both of those VA benefits at the same time.

Q — DOES VA pay dividends on "RH" life insurance, and what interest rate is paid on National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) dividends left with VA as credit?

A — The answer to the first part of your question is "no." Effective the first of this year, the interest rate on NSLI dividends held as credit with VA was increased from 4.24 to 4.5 per cent.

Q — I RECEIVED a VA pension check made out to my husband who died last month. Shall I return it, and if I do, will VA reissue the check to me?

A — Yes, you must return the check. If you are eligible for a widow's pension, your first check from VA will be issued at your husband's rate of payment, if his rate was greater than yours. Thereafter, you will receive checks at widow pension rates.

VERY ORIGINAL.

We call it The 14th Colony. You'll probably call it revolutionary. It's located in the scenic Fox River Valley countryside about a half mile east of Batavia. The 14th Colony is a settlement for families who value such old-fashioned virtues as good taste and community pride. It has been carefully planned with vital protections written into every deed, in the same manner Arthur T. McIntosh & Company has established the enviable communities of Inverness, Prestwick and Farmington. And it's very original. Each piece of land is irregular about one-third of an acre. The homes are inspired by Early Americana and reflect tasteful architecture and craftsmanship rarely found in the homes of today. The detailing is exquisite and warm touches of elegance abound in quarry tile foyers, beamed ceilings, curving staircases, oak floors, huge raised hearth fireplaces and wood panelling. All are built with honest quality. And while we believe in independence, every homesite has water, sewer and underground utilities. You can homestead at the 14th Colony from $38,750 to $55,000 including the fully improved homesite. Our boundaries are open every day—10 am till dark.

Buy your homesite now under contract. If you are planning to build in the future, or wish to invest in land, you can purchase your 14th Colony homesite direct from Arthur T. McIntosh & Co.—20% down, 7% simple interest.* Homesites range from $9,000 to $12,800.

*Example—$10,000 purchase, $2000 down, 84 monthly payments of $120.75, 7% annual percentage rate.

Model prices above do not include homesite.

Harper Board Candidate

'If I Am Asked, I Serve': Hutchings

This is the fifth in a series of interviews with candidates for the Harper College Board of Trustees. Voters will make their choice April 8.

by BETSY BROOKER

LeRoi Hutchings hadn't planned to file for a seat on the Harper College Board of Trustees until a group of present and past trustees asked him to.

"My motto is: If I am asked, I serve," said Hutchings, a chemical engineer and resident of Mount Prospect. He met the members of the informal caucus during his 1967-70 term on the Harper board. He lost a bid for reelection in 1970.

He sees the board job as "selecting good administrators, backing them up if they do a good job and finding replacements if they don't. The board shouldn't get involved in the details of the operation. It isn't sufficiently skilled."

"Board members shouldn't have preconceived notions of what has to be done either," said Hutchings. He believes there is "a real danger in getting people on the board who want to run things and tell the administration everything to do."

Hutchings, for one, doesn't plan to do that because he believes the administration is doing "a fine job" now. As for college president Robert Lahti, Hutchings says he is "grossly underpaid if you look at what he has to do." But Hutchings doesn't think there is any more available money to give Lahti.

HUTCHINGS FAVORS a tight ship with a strict chain of command. "The board through the president should be in command and on down. If you upset that chain, you lose control."

A possible upset according to Hutchings, might be teacher unionization. "I am not against unions per se. But I don't think this kind of thing will get us anywhere. Education unions have a tendency to go too far."

Another teacher safeguard, tenure, is "not necessary anymore," says Hutchings. "It can be very bad when it keeps on a teacher who should have been fired. I wouldn't object if it was thrown out, but that initiative has to come from the teachers."

Hutchings is quick to defend charges that Harper is a "gold-plated institution." Again he says the board and administration are doing a "fine job." He said, "It's a beautiful campus, but not luxurious. Look at the untiled cement floors."

As for the state task force that is currently reviewing future Harper construction plans for cost cuts, Hutchings says it is "keeping things in line."

EQUAL EDUCATION opportunity for all is a good idea, says Hutchings, but he thinks local taxpayers should be able to pay to get above a minimum standard. He concedes that more state control may be needed with state support in some areas. "But not at Harper. They are doing a fine job."

Hutchings is long on praise and short on criticism when he talks about the community college. His sharpest criticism was aimed at compulsory physical education classes. And he says he would oppose offering frills like "modern dance or basket weaving" at the college as regular curriculum.

His feelings are mixed when it comes to vocational education. On the one hand, he says he is "committed to upgrading human skills." And on the other hand, he says "we may have gone too far in some cases. There should be a demand before we introduce a program."

Hutchings likes the college the way it is and doesn't want to see any radical changes, especially in the area of boundaries. He says he doesn't "favor any more annexations or a second campus." This hold the line attitude is basic to the man himself. He says his biggest contribution during past service on the board was "stability" — at a time when they were calling for changes that were not required.

Harper Board Candidate

Marilyn Marier: Involved Citizen

This is the sixth in a series of interviews with candidates for the Harper College Board of Trustees. Voters will make their choice April 8.

by TOM WELLMAN

If the only credentials necessary for serving on a community college board of trustees were civic involvement, Marilyn Marier would be sitting on the Harper College board today.

The League of Women Voters, Volunteer Service Bureau, Arlington Heights Historical Society, Arlington Heights Cultural Commission. The list is long.

She's also served on the Harper College Women's Advisory Board, where she met many persons connected with the five-year-old community college. That's one of the reasons she's running today for one of the two open board seats.

She says members of the advisory committee encouraged her to run. With her daughter graduating from high school this year, there'll be more time to serve Harper, she says.

"I WANT TO make sure the college grows," she says. She would be available during the day and she feels "there's no time conflict" with her other activities.

As a board member, the 46-year-old Arlington Heights housewife says — "modestly" — she can bring "a degree of expertise in financing" to the board — as well as "an open mind, objective interest" and concern for the growth of the college.

She can see "an open and honest exchange of ideas" with the state officials who oversee community colleges — and she praises another board member, Jessalyn Nicklas, in working with state officials. She "welcomes the state's advice" and the opportunity to cooperate.

However, as a board member she would also "guard the local board's prerogatives" as Harper is a community-operated institution. She opposes 100 per cent state support for community colleges.

One urgent need for Harper, located at Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine, is some form of mass transportation. Mrs. Marier hopes Jack Walsh, who recently resigned as Arlington Heights village president, can help Harper, indeed, the entire Northwest suburbs, from his position in the Illinois Bureau of Local Governmental Affairs.

Mrs. Marier says she's "interested" in a cultural center for Harper, but she suggests the college should seek private support to pay for an on-campus center. Such a center should not be promoted for the affluent only; a poor student may have the unique ability to express himself through something cultural, and thus such an avenue of expression is valuable, she says.

THE FACULTY? "They're paid a fair salary," she says. Unionization is all right, so long as it results in improved teaching and does not lead to a rigid "adversary system" when board and faculty negotiate salaries, she says.

She praises Robert Lahti, Harper president, as a "strong administrator and leader." Should he have received the 17 per cent salary increase he received last fall? She would need to look at the "marketplace" for presidential salaries, and she "does not object to good salaries for good men."

The long-range plan? "I'm glad to see it," she says, and adds that the evaluation of it will take a long time. "I'm waiting to be sold on some of the proposals," she says.

"I don't like growth for growth's sake alone," she says. She likes the intimacy of a small campus and she insists that annexation of additional land should be "very carefully thought out."

Communication has been "good" between Harper and the feeder school districts, she says. The college is well known in the Northwest suburbs; "Every car I drive behind seems to have a Harper sticker on it," she says. She sees herself as a "communicator," pressing villages to work more closely together for the sake of institutions such as Harper. A caucus system to select candidates? Not for Harper, because the area is "too large" and it is "difficult for such a (large) group to be representative."

Pass-fail grading? She doesn't know what she thinks but says she's heard arguments both for and against such a system. "I don't know if I could go for it completely," she says.

The community college must be responsible to its community, she says, and adds that she has a "woman's role" in being available during the day. She'd identify with the women who attend Harper in continuing education programs; she never graduated from college, so she says she understands it a bit better.

Finally, she talks about the Volunteer Service Bureau: "Perhaps it says something 'about me,' about experience, she says. On April 8, the voters of the Harper area will be able to decide how highly they value her experience.

District Seeking Donors

Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanatorium District hospital at 55th and County Line Road in Hinsdale is badly in need of replacement blood donations to repay transfusions administered to their patients, hospital officials say.

Over the past two years 230 units of blood were transfused and the hospital patients were only able to replace 28 of these. The district has the responsibility of County Tuberculosis patients, as well as those from DuPage and other neighboring counties. The need for healthy volunteer blood is necessary to continue the medical and surgical programs at The District hospital. Lung surgery usually requires from one to six pints of blood transfusions.

In any given year, according to authorities, only 3 per cent of the population donate blood, yet 100 per cent of the population are potential users at all times. Each pint of blood has to be donated by a person; there is no other source for this valuable life saving commodity.

The hospital's blood collection project is a non-profit venture which will benefit only the patients who need the service.

Thursday, May 11, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., has been chosen as Blood Donor Day. Anyone within the Suburban Cook County or DuPage County area can come to the hospital and donate their pint of blood under controlled hospital conditions.

The laboratory technicians will also type the blood of any person who wants it done, whether they donate blood or not, and tours of the district hospital facility are being arranged.

If the blood donation cannot be made on Thursday, May 11, the district has access to several other blood donor stations where appointments can be made at other times and places.

Donors are urged to take advantage of the Cooperative Blood Replacement Plan, which provides insurance for individuals, couples and entire families for all blood which might be needed for from one to four years. Full credit for this insurance can be obtained through donations made at the hospital on May 11, or at other scheduled places during the district's blood solicitation drive.

With the hospital's and the nation's blood needs rising 12 per cent per year, help is requested and appreciated from anyone within Suburban Cook and DuPage counties to insure the availability of blood for needed surgical and medical emergencies. The actual time needed to draw a pint of blood is six minutes; the entire screening and testing process plus time for a bit of nourishment afterward is only 40 minutes. There is no danger or discomfort associated with the procedure. It is no longer necessary to fast prior to giving blood.

Gas-For-Less Loses Money To Thieves

Thieves stole three bags of money containing $748 in cash Tuesday morning from a south side Des Plaines gas station.

Robert Sternberg, owner of Gas-for-Less, 1900 E. Touhy Ave., told police the money was taken from an unlocked back room in the station sometime between 7 a.m. and 12 p.m.

Sternberg said that many persons had been in the station office during that period, according to reports.
